AIM Leader Calls For Mobilization, Boycott Of Gordon

Gordon (AP) — The Nebraska coordinator for the American Indian Movement (AIM), Bob Yellow Bird of Gordon, says that as far as he is concerned, "a state of war exists in Sheridan County, and forces of the AIM are being mobilized to meet this threat."

Yellow Bird made the comment late Tuesday in the wake of a disturbance at the Sheridan Hotel and Lounge last Wednesday night.

Authorities said seven persons, four Indians and three whites, were arrested in connection with the skirmish which involved Gordon police officers.

Yellow Bird said he is asking the national AIM to designate Gordon and Sheridan County as a target area of concern so far as the rights and lives of Indian people are concerned.

During last Wednesday's incident, Yellow Bird alleged that Indians were maced, clubbed and beaten by local "rednecks" and police, which he called "the local goon squad."

Yellow Bird claimed that his wife, who was seven months pregnant, was kicked in the stomach by a police officer, and that a hospital report indicates that the unborn child no longer has a discernable heartbeat and is "in all probability dead."

Checks with hospitals in Gordon and at Pine Ridg, S.D., confirmed that Mrs. Yellow Bird was hospitalized.

An Indian Health Service doctor at Pine Ridge, Roger Renfew, said, "All I can say is she was hospitalized for about three days and released."

Neither hospital would confirm Yellow Bird's claim about the unborn baby.

"The American Indian Movement of Gordon is taking the necessary steps to protect Indian lives and property," said Yellow Bird. He said he is asking AIM members and other Indians to come to Gordon and assist local Indians.

"In addition," Yellow Bird said, "we are asking all Indian people not to spend their money in Gordon. This boycott has become a necessity to show the white people of this area the Indian people are prepared to defend their basic rights.

"Gordon and Sheridan County have existed for many years on Indian money, and this boycott will reflect this dependency," said Yellow Bird.

"Our ultimate goal is to see the cities of Gordon and Rushville financially destroyed unless the rights and lives of Indian people are afforded the same protection as other citizens of the United States," he said.

Yellow Bird said an Indian meeting is scheduled here Saturday to formulate a strategy, and that one of the goals will be the filing of murder charges against Gordon police officer Robert Barnes and the owner of the hotel, Donald Brown.

Yellow Bird alleged that it was Barnes who kicked his wife, and that Brown sprayed her with mace.

Yellow Bird said he also wants to see charges of assault and battery filed against other members of the Gordon Police Department.

Yellow Bird said he and several other Indians, including his wife, were peacefully leaving the bar when Brown started the disturbance.

Sheridan County Atty. Michael Smith said officers were called to the lounge by a passer-by, but Smith declined to relate specifics, saying he did not want to prejudice the case.

Jared Sere, who took over as Gordon police chief last June 14, said that an incident did occur after police were called to a disturbance at a Gordon bar last Wednesday.

Sere said charges are pending against Yellow Bird, his wife, Brown and several others.

Smith said only one felony charge was filed in connection with the incident, and that Yellow Bird, his wife and Brown were among those charged with misdemeanors.

Smith said that from the information available to him at present, does not anticipate filing any other charges in the case, and will not, at this time, probe Yellow Bird's murder allegations.

Clank, Clank, Clank Went The Car

Monday, Detroit's brand-new $1.5 million eight-block-long trolley line went into operation. Tuesday, a car had a collision with streetcar No. 1 at Washington and Lafayette Blvds. Passengers and bystanders gathered round to see the unusual accident, but no one was injured. The car's driver received a ticket from police.

White House Puzzled

By The Associated Press

As the countdown clock ran toward Debate Day, Jimmy Carter detailed one of his government organization proposals Tuesday and President Ford's spokesmen said they were puzzled by subpoenas issued for records of his home-county Republican party.

Both presidential candidates — Carter in Plains, Ga. and Ford in the White House — were preparing for the first of their face-to-face debates, to be televised by all networks beginning at 8:30 p.m. CDT Thursday from Philadelphia.

What would have been a day of relative political inactivity suddenly was transformed by disclosure that the records of the Kent County Republican party, dating back to 1964 when Ford still was in Congress, were subpoenaed by Special Watergate Prosecutor Charles Ruff.

Ruff wouldn't say why; Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen said he didn't know, and Kent County GOP Chairman Paul Henry said: "We have no idea what they are looking for but we hope to get it over quickly and get a clean bill of health."

In response to questions, Nessen also said that Ford accepted free golf outings from a U.S. Steel Corp. lobbyist at a New Jersey country club between 1964 and 1971 when Ford was a congressman.

"If the President thought there was anything wrong, he wouldn't have done it," Nessen said.

Nessen was asked about the outings after columnist Jack Anderson said William Whyte, now a vice president of U.S. Steel, was Ford's host at the Pine Valley Golf Club near Clementon, N.J., between 1964 and 1971.

Anderson quoted Whyte as saying legislation was not discussed on the links. The columnist reported that Whyte described the course as one of the toughest in the country and said he thought Ford would enjoy the challenge.

Reached by telephone, Whyte said his family and the Ford family have been friends for many years, that he and Ford have been golfing together for a long time and that he did not think he had done anything wrong.

At home in Plains, Ga., Carter proposed abolishing four federal agencies dealing with energy policy and substituting a cabinet-level energy department instead.

Carter has said that if he is elected he will reorganize government the way he did in Georgia when he was governor. His proposal Tuesday was his first detailed rundown of how one division would be streamlined.

Carter said he would abolish the Federal Energy Administration, the Federal Power Commission, the Energy Research and Development Administration and the Energy Resources Council.

At the same time, Carter said he would eliminate energy-related functions of the Departments of Commerce and Treasury, as well as the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

He said all would be combined in a new Cabinet department.

The Wall Street Journal on Tuesday disclosed the Kent County GOP subpoenas and said there was another subpoena for campaign-contribution records of the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association. The newspaper said the association was Ford's largest backer in 1972, the last time he ran for Congress.

Justice Department sources confirmed the association's records had been subpoenaed. Records indicate the maritime union contributed $7,500 to Ford's 1972 campaign, the largest single contribution his campaign collected. The union also contributed $4,500 to Ford's 1970 congressional campaign.

A spokesman for the president of the marine engineers said the request for the financial records was "tangential for whatever interests the special prosecutor had."

City Growth Strains Some Schools

By J. L. SCHMIDT
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln's growing pains are causing headaches for its public schools.

During a work session Tuesday morning, Superintendent John Prasch outlined the problems that rapidly developing housing areas are causing for the schools.

"Southeast High School probably worries me more than any other situation in our system," Prasch told the school board.

Enrollment at the high school at 2930 S. 37th is up from a year ago to 1,696, Prasch said, and predictions for future enrollment will add to the squeeze. There is a break in sight, he added, because the present fourth grade enrollment for the schools is slightly more than 1,800 while the current 10th grade enrollment is a little more than 2,300.

"We're nearing the peak, but at current building rates, especially in south Lincoln, we may face more of a peak than anticipated," Prasch said.

Southeast is presently a closed school, meaning that students can't transfer in from other attendance areas. But, with only 57 teaching stations (classroom situations) things are "somewhat more crowded than at the other high schools," Prasch said.

Capacity of a school can be roughly figured on the basis of 30 students per station. That would give Southeast the ability to handle 1,170 students under ideal circumstances. But, there are factors which make filling each class, every period of the day, impossible, Prasch added.

Crowded conditions exist at Zeman Elementary, 4900 S. 52nd, a three-year-old building which now has 632 students, with more expected. Other south Lincoln schools, including the recently completed Ruth Hill Elmentary at 5230 Tipperary Trail, may be faced with too many students as home construction continues at a rapid pace in their areas.

The crowds aren't limited to the south, however. Plans for an addition at West Lincoln School, 630 W. Dawes Ave. in northwest Lincoln, may be a "spring project," Prasch told the board. The 275 students in seven teaching stations there are straining the seams of that building, he added.

Possible expansion at Belmont School, 3425 N. 14th, and the development of a school site north of Superior may be necessary to handle projected growth in that area, Prasch said. Use of McPhee School, 820 S. 15th, and Park School, 714 F, to handle overflow crowds in the north and west may also provide temporary relief, he added.

Ironically, decisions to close some schools must play a part in plans for the future, Prasch said. Projections provided by the city urban development department will have some bearing on these decisions, he added.

Heading the list of closing is Whittier Junior High, 2240 Vine. While the dubious top of the list position is not new to Whittier, some alternatives offered by board members may provide a talking point for a task force assigned to study the move.

Suggestions that the building be converted to elementary use to absorb students if Elliott School, 225 S. 25, Clinton School, 1520 N. 29 and Hartley School, 730 N. 33, are ever closed, were made by several board members. Prasch agreed that such an alternative might be feasible.

Committees Always Second Nature?

Committees have long been the bureaucratic answer to problem solving, but the Lincoln schools appear to be bucking the trend.

During a Tuesday work session, Superintendent John Prasch asked the board of education to exercise restraint in assigning members to a task force to study the future of Whittier Junior High.

Quoting something he heard at a committee meeting last week, Prasch said:

"God so loved the world that he didn't send a committee."

SCC Officials Blast Back At Critics Of Campus Site

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Fairbury — Irked by criticism of its proposed 86th and O location for a new Lincoln campus, the Southeast Community College area board fired back several volleys at its monthly meeting here Tuesday.

The issue was raised as board member Kathy Brauer of Lincoln presented a letter of protest signed by 14 families living near the controversial site. The main objections were to likely increased traffic and "fear this will encourage development that would be determintal to the development of our neighborhood."

According to Mrs. Brauer, the group met for the first time Monday and indicated it may circulate protest peititons later. She identified Edward D. Anderson as the group's spokesman.

Sharp reaction came from several board members, as well as President Robert S. Eicher and chairman Robert Wekesser of Lincoln. The latter made the strongest retort, saying, "I've got no sympathy for these people."

"This is just part of a growing city," he said, adding that his own home is now surrounded by a developed property. "That's the way things are going to happen and if they don't like it they'll just have to get out of the city."

Dave Buettner, Lincoln campus director, noted it would be easy to get 14 signatures on most anything. He also reminded the board that a newspaper survey had indicated that "58% of the people favored that site."

"This is really a resolved issue and we're going ahead," said Buettner. "That needs to be our position ... we can't backpedal every time there is an objection."

Reviewing the contradictory stands taken by various governmental groups, Eicher said he was most impressed by a consultant's opinion that "we have the best site on the periphery of Lincoln."

G. Alan Dunlap of Milford, noting editorial opposition by both The Lincoln Star and Lincoln Journal, said the public has not expressed itself similarly through public opinion columns.

"I can't help but wonder if this is a project of the newspapers only," he stated. "It's unfortunate that we have to put up with continual carping and criticism of the Lincoln papers which don't seem to reflect the feelings of the people."

In a related matter, the board approved a Lincoln architectural firm to oversee the initial four phases of construction for the new campus building. Bahr, Vermear and Haecker, at an estimated cost of $10-12,000, was chosen over three other firms.

But it was noted that the firm's performance on the initial phases will largely determine whether it will get the contract for the final phase, amounting to about $45,000.

The board will meet Oct. 1 in the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education to pass out specifications for the proposed building. Contractors' proposals are to be in Dec. 1, the contract then being awarded Dec. 15.

The board also approved new rental leases for facilities of the old Bryan and Whittier schools, boosted from the current $3.60 per square foot to $3.90. The annual lease will total $167,840.

Also approved was another year's lease on the Gotfredson building near 48th and Prescott, hiked 10% to $33,000 a year. The structure has 22,000 square feet.

Tentative approval was given to a 1977-78 continuation budget of $6,882,399. The figure, which Eicher stressed is contingent upon the amount of state aid approved by the next Legislature, represents a 6.9% increase over the current year. The projected increase in student enrollment is about 6%.

Legislators Endorse Higher Ed Regulation

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

A special legislative study committee Tuesday tentatively recommended that the state pursue regulatory coordination of its insitutions of higher education.

For now, the committee turned thumbs down on a proposal to seek a constitutional amendment creating a single new governing board for the institutions.

The governing board plan, suggested by Sen. Donald Dworak of Columbus, was turned aside on a 2-3 vote.

Then Dworak joined with his only supporting vote, Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, to tentatively approve the regulatory coordination proposal.

Their votes were needed to allow the committee to move ahead since only five of the nine members were present at the time, and all five had to agree on any tentative course of action.

Sen. Leslie Stull of Alliance suggested the coordination alternative, and was supported by Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, committee chairman, and Sen. Larry Stoney of Omaha.

All five senators then agreed on Dworak's proposal that the coordination be regulatory, rather than voluntary of advisory.

Left unresolved was the question of whether regulatory coordination would be undertaken by the Legislature itself, by an executive agency or by an independent body.

Warner prefers the legislative route since he sees the coordination role as primary a policy matter.

The committee decided to withhold its final decision until more information is developed on the structural alternatives for a regulatory coordination effort, on possible modes of operation and likely costs.

Seventeen states now use statewide regulatory coordination.

The authority sometimes includes statewide planning, role and mission development, budget review, approval of new program requests, capital construction approval and other tasks.

Under the committee plan, the governing boards of the University of Nebraska and the state colleges would be left intact.

The technical community colleges are governed locally, but supported, in part, with state funds.

One Lincoln Man Killed, One Hurt In Separate Power Line Accidents

A man trimming trees was killed Tuesday and a Lincoln Electric System lineman was injured in two unrelated power line accidents.

Ron Mares, 31, of 634 N. 32nd St., died at Bryan Memorial Hospital Tuesday evening after falling from a tree. Mares reportedly touched an 8,320-volt power line with his arm while attempting to trim around it.

A fireman at the scene said Mares' back and legs were burned.

Mares was working at the home of Frank Milasius at 5018 Holdrege. He fell into a neighbor's yard at 5030 Holdrege.

Earlier Tuesday, a Lincoln Electric System lineman was burned by a power line while working on a pole in an alley between N and O St., west of 21st St.

Rodger Coates, 25, of 2721 Franklin, was replacing a pole for a 4,160-volt line. A spokesman for LES said Coates was strapped to the pole at the time.

He was listed in serious condition Tuesday night at St Elizabeth Community Hospital with burns on his back and face.

A fireman at the scene said Mares' back and legs were burned.

Mares was working at the home of Frank Milasius at 5018 Holdrege. He fell into a neighbor's yard at 5030 Holdrege.

Earlier Tuesday, a Lincoln Electric System lineman was burned by a power line while working on a pole in an alley between N and O St., west of 21st St.

Rodger Coates, 25, of 2721 Franklin, was replacing a pole for a 4,160-volt line. A spokesman for LES said Coates was strapped to the pole at the time.

He was listed in serious condition Tuesday night at St. Elizabeth Community Hospital with burns on his back and face.

Legislators Endorse Higher Ed Regulation

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

A special legislative study committee Tuesday tentatively recommended that the state pursue regulatory coordination of its insitutions of higher education.

For now, the committee turned thumbs down on a proposal to seek a constitutional amendment creating a single new governing board for the institutions.

The governing board plan, suggested by Sen. Donald Dworak of Columbus, was turned aside on a 2-3 vote.

Then Dworak joined with his only supporting vote, Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, to tentatively approve the regulatory coordination proposal.

Their votes were needed to allow the committee to move ahead since only five of the nine members were present at the time, and all five had to agree on any tentative course of action.

Sen. Leslie Stull of Alliance suggested the coordination alternative, and was supported by Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, committee chairman, and Sen. Larry Stoney of Omaha.

All five senators then agreed on Dworak's proposal that the coordination be regulatory, rather than voluntary of advisory.

Left unresolved was the question of whether regulatory coordination would be undertaken by the Legislature itself, by an executive agency or by an independent body.

Warner prefers the legislative route since he sees the coordination role as primary a policy matter.

The committee decided to withhold its final decision until more information is developed on the structural alternatives for a regulatory coordination effort, on possible modes of operation and likely costs.

Seventeen states now use statewide regulatory coordination.

The authority sometimes includes statewide planning, role and mission development, budget review, approval of new program requests, capital construction approval and other tasks.

Under the committee plan, the governing boards of the University of Nebraska and the state colleges would be left intact.

Thone On Investigation Panel

Washington (UPI) — Speaker Carl Albert named 12 members of the House Tuesday to a new commission to look into the assassinations of John F. and Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King and the attempt on the life of George Wallace.

The chairman will be Rep. Thomas N. Downing, D-Va., and members will be Delegate Walter Fauntroy, D-D.C., and Reps. Henry Gonzalez, D-Tex.; Richardson Preyer, D-N.C.; Louis Stokes, D-Ohio; Yvonne Burke, D-Calif.; Christopher Dodd, D-Conn.; Harold Ford, D-Tenn.; Samuel Devine, R-Ohio; Burt Talcott, R-Calif.; Stewart McKinney, R-Conn., and Charles Thone, R-Neb.

Buying Power Declines Again

Washington (UPI) — The American consumer's buying power suffered in August when the cost of living rose 0.5% for the third consecutive month, the Labor Department said Tuesday.

Consumer price increases over the past three months reflected an annual rate of 6% — a trend that threatened to exceed slightly President Ford's prediction for 5% inflation by the end of 1976.

Inflation wiped out a slight increase in the average American worker's hourly pay during August, causing a 0.3% decline in his actual buying power. Over the past year, inflation and taxes have eroded real spendable earnings by 0.6%.

Meat prices declined sharply in August, but failed to offset substantially higher costs for clothing, gasoline, fruits and vegetables.

Pollsters have identified inflation as the No. 1 concern of Americans as they prepared to elect a president Nov. 2. While Ford claims credit for reducing by half the double-digit rate of 1974, Jimmy Carter notes that inflation remains high by historical standards.

Inflation began to heat up again last may after unusually low levels earlier in the year. Consumer prices rose 0.6% in May and 0.5% in each of the following months.

Ford's economic adviser, William Seidman, said the inflation rate over the past few months has exceeded administration predictions — but only by a bare fraction. "With predictions the way they are," he said, "this is about as close as you can hope to get."

Press Secretary Ron Nessen added that the steadiness of the trend indicates that numerous predictions of a resurgence of inflation this year "were not well founded."

Retail food prices rose 0.3% in August. Prices for other goods went up 0.6%, as did service costs — both consistent with recent trends.

The consumer price index stood at 171.9 in August, an increase of 5.6% over a year ago. This means that goods and services costing $100 in 1967, now well for $171.90.

The cost of driving a car increased by 1% in August, reflecting higher prices for autos, fuel and insurance. Gasoline and motor oil prices, which normally decline in August, rose by 1.5% while fuel oil and used car prices rose 1.4%.

Apparel prices rose 1.1% as new fall and winter fashions showed up in the stores. The biggest increases were on clothing for women and girls.

Prices fell 3.6% for beef and 4% for pork, but rose 3% for fresh fruits and vegetables. Coffee and dairy prices also increased.

Sugar Import Tariffs Tripled By President

Washington (UPI) — President Ford Tuesday announced an immediate tripling of import tariffs on sugar to give depressed farmers interim protection while other potential forms of relief are studied.

Ford said he was raising the import duty from the present .625 cents a pound to 1.875 cents as a first, temporary step toward helping sugar farmers who have seen prices plunge to well below average production costs.

At the same time, Ford asked the International Trade Commission to open an immediate investigation to determine whether sugar growers are being injured by imports. If the commission finds growers are being hurt, it can recommend a wide range of relief steps including a tightening of import quotas.

Ford's decision, which came at the urgent request of farm spokesmen and lawmakers from sugargrowing areas, came shortly before he was to leave on a campaign trip to Louisiana and Florida, major sugar regions.

Ford said sugar prices have been declining since July and have reached levels "at which many farmers are unable to operate profitably."

Other administration officials said earlier that consumer sugar prices have not yet reflected the recent sharp plunge in prices for the raw product.

Candidate Charges Corpse Kickbacks

Rock Island, Ill. (UPI) — George Nicholson, the Republican challenger, said Jim Shaw, a Democrat who has been Rock Island County coroner for years, may have been receiving kickbacks for bodies delivered to a Rock Island funeral home.

Shaw promptly called Nicholson "a liar" and threatened to sue for slander.

LITTLE GIRL ... tests suit for David. Carrier holds the life system.

Soon, 5-Year-Old David Will Go Out To See Earth

HOUSTON (AP) — David, who turned five Tuesday, will soon become an astronaut on his own planet, wearing a specially-designed space suit to explore an earth environment as alien and harmful to him as outer space.

David has not felt the touch of a human hand since he was born.

His life has been one of isolation in a plastic bubble in a room at the Texas Children's Hospital in Houston and another bubble at his home in a Houston suburb.

He is the victim of a sickness called severe combined immune deficiency — or SCID — an inherited disorder that strikes one in every 10,000 males. His body has no natural defenses and the simplest of germs in earth's environmment could kill him, doctors say.

His new suit, a by-product of the technology that put men on the moon, will give David the mobility to explore things earthmen are familiar with — sunshine, rain, plants, solid ground and the laughter and faces of other persons.

David's parents have declined to be identified. Hospital officials said they did not know if any special celebration was scheduled for David's birthday.

But he was told recently of the biggest gift he will be getting — perhaps before Christmas. It is the suit that will get him out of his bubble.

"We told him about it and we showed it to him," said Fred Spross of the Bioengineering Systems Division of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), which designed the suit.

"He was very excited about it. He is a very alert boy. He was shown pictures of astronauts to get an idea of what it would be like," Spross said. "He was told he would be sort of a small astronaut."

Spross said the $5,000 suit, which weighs about two pounds, was made of rubberized fabric with a soft transparent helmet and rubber boots.

"The life system is mounted on a portable transporter," Spross said. "There are two fans in the transporter that carry air through a 10-foot hose into the suit and distribute it. Used air is expelled at the ankles."

Spross said the transporter can operate for up to 16 hours, but David's suit was designed for four hours.

"We had requests from the medical field for a suit of this type. It was developed by this department in about a year by people working on their own or when it did not interfere with our programs which deal with space medicine," Spross said.

Spross said the department had requests for similar units from the Los Angeles Children's Hospital.

"We have the technology now," he said. "I think the suits for the Los Angeles hospital will be ready sometime in the spring."

David's medical care is financed through a federal grant to Baylor College of Medicine's Research Center at the Children's Hospital.

Doctors described David on Tuesday as "a healthy physically active child and the oldest immune deficient patient in medical history to survive without reconstitution of the body's protective systems."

Doctors have expressed hope that David might outgrow the problem, but they have declined to discuss either his medical progress or to give specifics about his growth.

"The faculty and staff are continuing their efforts to find the answers that might allow David to safely leave isolation," Baylor said.

Federal Spending May Help Disadvantaged Pupils Catch Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Massive federal spending in schools serving low-income and minority neighborhoods may be paying off in improved reading performances by 9-year-olds in general and southern blacks in particular, authors of a new education survey said Tuesday.

Black 9-year-olds who took reading tests in 1975 scored 4.8 percentage points higher than in 1971, compared with an increase of 1.2 percentage points by white youths, the survey said.

The gain was even more dramatic in the South, where young black pupils gained 7.7 percentage points during the four-year period and black 9-, 13- and 17-year-olds all narrowed the gap between themselves and white southerners.

"I believe that these data reflect a positive learning opportunity being given to blacks in the southeastern region of the United States," said Roy H. Forbes, who directed the National Assessment of Education Progress survey.

He and a panel of reading specialists who studied the results of the tests administered to a probability sample of 63,000 students nationwide said that school desegregation may have played a role in the improved scores for black youngsters.

Forbes said the data will be searched later for a comparison between students who do and do not attend schools eligible for federal Title I assistance under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act. More than $10 billion has been pumped into those schools serving large populations of disadvantaged youngsters to help them catch up.

Dr. Roger Farr, associate dean of Indiana University's School of Education, said federal spending for Title 1 and desegregating schools brought about improved teaching of word-recognition skills.

Other factors that could have contributed to the increase, they told a news conference, are better teaching of basic reading skills at the elementary level and social factors outside the schools. For example, children of parents who did not graduate from high school themselves did not improve.

Farr said the survey results may be an indicator that the country is moving toward the goal of national literacy.

"In general, the over-all reading achievement in the United States is getting better and has been getting better for decades," he said. He pointed out that students at all three age levels scored above 90 per cent in functional literacy problems.

The survey found little change in the reading ability of 13- and 17-year-olds between 1971 and 1975, a fact that Forbes found discouraging.

"With the taxpayers demanding education accountability and a return to the basics," he said, "the NAEP data indicate that while we should maintain these (special reading) programs at the elementary level, attention should also be aimed at the intermediate and secondary schools."

Although the improvement in reading skills of black 9-year-olds was four times greater, they still remained 13 percentage points behind their white counterparts.

The survey found little change in the reading ability of 13- and 17-year-olds between 1971 and 1975, a fact that Forbes found discouraging.

"With the taxpayers demanding education accountability and a return to the basics," he said, "the NAEP data indicate that while we should maintain these (special reading) programs at the elementary level, attention should also be aimed at the intermediate and secondary schools."

Although the improvement in reading skills of black 9-year-olds was four times greater, they still remained 13 percentage points behind their white counterparts.

Key African Leader Backs Kissinger Plan For Rhodesia

Kinshasa, Zaire (UPI) — The key leader among black African presidents opposing white rule in Rhodesia gave enthusiastic support Tuesday to Secretary of State Henry A Kissinger's peace drive, saying Kissinger had convinced Rhodesia 'the game is up

Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere, who had expressed pessimism over the Kissinger shuttle during the secretary s first stop in Tanzania, said ' (Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian) Smith has accepted majority rule "

A senior U S official told reporters en route to Kissinger s next stop in Zaire that the peace plan for Rhodesia, which calls for multiracial conference to supervise a transition to black majority rule within two years, could still become "unstuck "

But even if that occurred, the official said the program could be put back together in three or four weeks because the same realities that brought white Rhodesians to accept majority rule would apply in the future

The South Africans, he went on, had helped to bring home the dangers of losing a guerrilla war to the Rhodesian regime

Kissinger arrived in Kinshasa for a courtesy call on President Mobuto Sese Seko, another of the black leaders who support Rhodesian black nationalist guerrillas in their fight to unseat Smith

Nyere, however, is considered the leader of the group and his enthusaistic endorsement of the Kissinger negotiations signaled that all members had accepted the peace package

Nyerere said Smith, who has reneged on previous pledges to give power to blacks, "won't back out because this time the United States is there to say to Smith, "The game is up ' "

U S officials said Nyerere's statement was somewhat unexpected and extremely helpful The remaining question is whether the Rhodesian government will publicly announce support for the plan

That question, the officials said, should be answered Friday, when Smith is expected to address the Rhodesian people on radio and television

U.N. Assembly Opens On A Peaceful Note

UNITED NATIONS, N Y (AP) — The 31st U N General Assembly opened on a peaceful note Tuesday when supporters of North Korea withdrew their annual request for a debate on the future of Korea

The three-month session is expected to concentrate on the race conflict in southern Africa

On behalf of 34 cosponsoring nations, Ambassador Salim A Salim of Anzania formally asked Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim to drop their agenda item calling for the dissolution of the U N Command and withdrawal of some 40 000 American troops from South Korea

South Korea welcomed the North s move saying the Seoul government has no intention nor sees any particular necessity to press for the consideration of the Korean question at this session

Luxembourg Premier Gaston Thorn president of last year s assembly called the 144 nations to order

Both Third World and Western diplomats voiced hope that the confrontations of recent years might be muted and that the General Assembly could produce an international convention against terrorism

On the eve of the assembly opening, Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim urged diplomats to cut down on the escalating volume of paperwork, partying and procrastination He urged the assembly to guide potentially divisive forces of change into constructive channels of cooperation '

Seeking Answers

Lincoln, Neb.

I think the people should know the answers to these few questions:

(1) When a dog or cat is found injured in the street, where is the animal taken — to a vet or the city dump?

(2) How does the city find the owner if the animal does not have a tag on?

(3) Does the city have records of lost animals?

(4) How often are the dead animals taken to the city dump and where are they kept until they are taken to the dump?

(5) How much does this cost the city and the taxpayers?

Will someone please answer these questions?

Oaths, Hollow Words

Blair, Neb.

The legal profession is currently working its way down to politicians and used car salesmen, in the order of popularity. This is most unfortunate, in that a majority of lawyers and judges are people of high character and good repute.

Big and little crooks, defended in court by big names and law firms (but sometimes wheeling and dealing little-name shysters) with their legal hocus-pocus and delays and plea bargaining, are making a farce of justice.

Ironically, state legislatures (often dominated by lawyers) continue to write legislation filled with loopholes for lawyers and courts to squeeze their clients through to acquittals.

It is a shameful fact that if an occasional law-breaker tries to plead guilty to a crime, he is properly considered a "nut." County prosecutors and the courts clear their dockets with plea bargaining or just plain dismissals, wholesale. Their oaths of office are hollow words. They are accountable to no one.

Investigation Needed?

Lincoln, Neb.

I am a newcomer to Lincoln but am concerned and confused about the publicity surrounding the "Guardsman."

Having spent 25 years in the Army and being closely associated with the Civilian Components for almost 11 years of that time, I cannot understand the ranking officers in the Nebraska National Guard getting so upset as to attract such widespread and adverse publicity over what appears to be a rather insignificant matter. It sounds as though someone had his toes stepped on or perhaps too much gossip or petty politics is involved. It seems they are making a big to-do about nothing. But one may suspect where there is smoke, there is fire.

So far, from what I have read, it appears Major Van Valkenburg may have been critical of some things he has observed and may be tried by a kangaroo court.

Having had considerable experience on boards, conducting investigations and trials for courts-martial, I would suggest an outsider who is unbiased conduct an investigation (viz: the inspector general) and make recommendations. I am sure he would not recommend trying the case, if there is one, in the newspapers.

In the "old army" they may have had some squabbles but they never aired them in public. Maybe the Nebraska National Guard does need to be investigated — this was one way of checking on discipline and efficiency.

I wish to voice my strong support for Ed Perlstein's candidacy for president of the university. I am a senior law student here at UN-L. I heard of Ed's campaign, investigated and have arrived at the conclusion that he would very adequately fill the position. The platform Ed espouses has merit. I believe it will require just such forward and courageous thinking to curtail the excesses of the university budget without curtailing our function.

I am not alone in these beliefs. I have spoken with several of my classmates, most of whom concur with my views. However, many students believe that student opinion receives absolutely no consideration and that this letter on Ed's behalf is useless. I believe that Ed Perlstein's presidency would change this attitude significantly!

New Routing Urged

Lincoln, Neb.

The West Bypass proposed by the Roads Department would take several acres of the west edge of the north end of Wilderness Park. This is a significant portion of the only improved land in the park and has situated on it the building used for day camp activities.

The taking of land from so close to this area of children's activities would doubtless produce noise and exhaust pollution in this sanctuary.

A preferred routing by the bypass to the west is feasible and prudent and should be strongly considered by the City Council and County Commission in its recommendation to the Roads Department.

Alternate Route Preferred

Lincoln, Neb.

All interested and concerned citizens should support the efforts of the Citizens to Preserve Wilderness Park. The bypass, as they have proposed it, i.e., a route west of the proposed route, in between the Regional Center and Pioneers Park is certainly feasible.

In this way, the area could be preserved for birds and wildlife of all kinds. Day camps also use the area and it should be preserved for trails, hiking and nature study.

I urge the City Council and the county commissioners to recommend to the Roads Department that the plans for the alternate route to the west be adopted.

An Irresistible Movement

Progress in the negotiations for concrete talks between blacks and whites on the future of Rhodesia and Southwest Africa (Namibia) is illustrative of the irresistible movement toward black majority rule in the southern part of Africa.

It is not a question of if, but when.

The protection of the lives and perhaps some of the property of the tiny white minority numbering some 270,000 which now rules almost six million blacks in Rhodesia will be negotiated as its political power is taken away; that is, if white intransigence dissolves. South Africa apparently will gladly assist in any way it can in the transfer of power in Salisbury and in the shift to independence in Namibia, the affairs of which the South African government in Pretoria has managed.

But the real battle, assuming that racial war is averted in the passing of white rule in Namibia and Rhodesia, will be for independence for blacks in South Africa itself.

The dilemma faced by the whites and nonwhites in South Africa is featured in a special treatment of the problems of southern Africa carried on The Star's news pages today.

There will be no easy solution to it. Militant blacks want no part of the Pretoria government's plan to give the black tribes independent homelands in what will amount to 13% of the land area of South Africa. Militant blacks want more than an end to apartheid, the theory and practice of separating the races with all privilege accorded the whites; they want more than sharing power with the whites. In short, they want it all.

For their part, the white Afrikaaners who rule that resource-rich, strategically important and beautiful nation will concede no more at this point than the limited independent homelands for blacks they have demarked. They stand on a legacy of three centuries of productive agricultural and industrial development, hard won victories over nomadic tribesmen and a sometimes uneasy peace among themselves. They have the conventional — and perhaps nuclear — military power to buttress and give confidence to their steadfastness. For a time.

But it is in all probability too late.

Their heartless denial of dignity for nonwhites and the simple fact of numbers will ultimately spell doom for anything akin to the status quo in South Africa.

Now four million in a nation of over 20 million, the whites are seeing their percentage of the population slowly diminish.

Not if, but when, is at the heart of planning for future political realities in southern Africa.

When Parks, Roads Collide

The Lincoln City Council Monday, in what was termed "an informal expression" of opinion, approved the proposed route of the West Bypass highway which would take the road through parts of Wilderness Park.

The vote was 4-2, and one of the majority was not all that strongly in favor of the route — signaling that a division of official opinion still exists over the taking of parkland for a highway and whether or not alternative routing of the bypass is feasible.

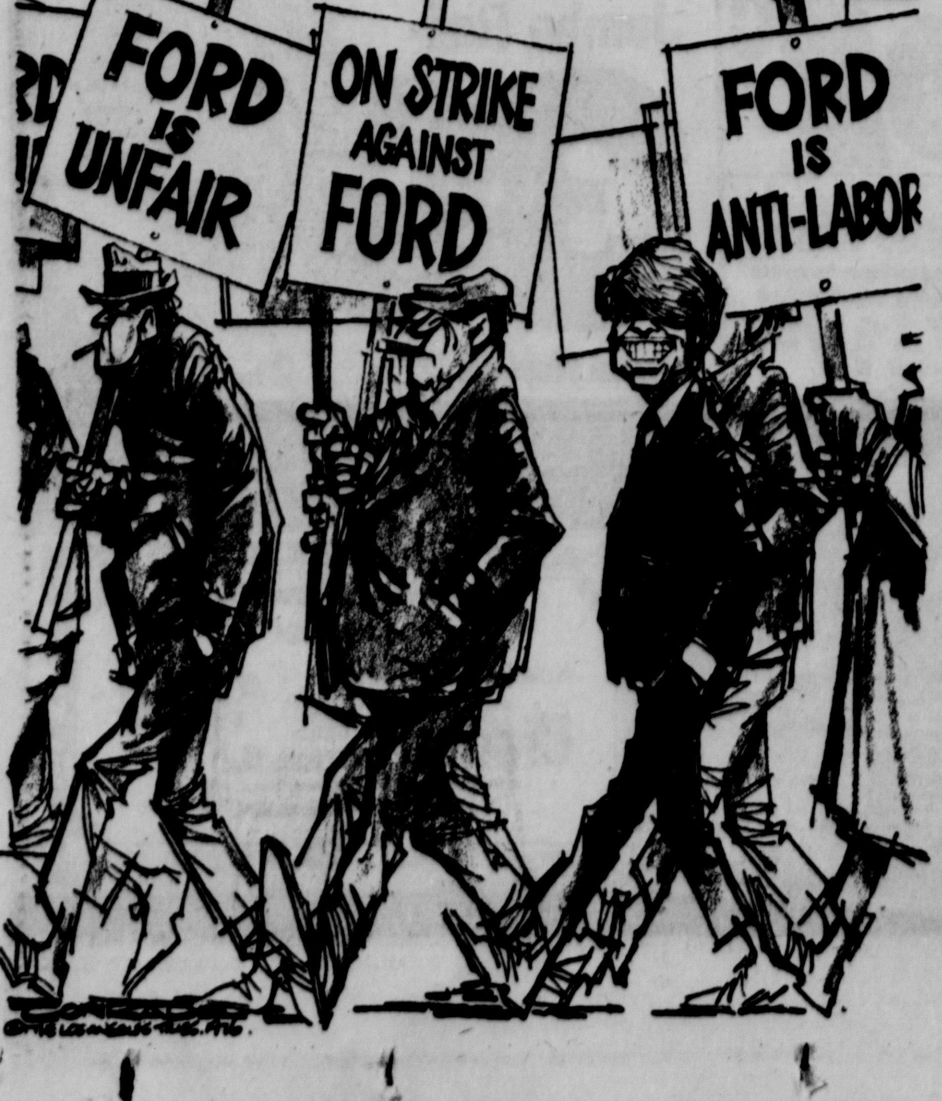
State and federal highway officials seem to think that the Wilderness Park route — which may become the subject of a lawsuit — is the only route. They want to get moving through the final design stage of the project, which now is estimated to cost some $60 million. One official has claimed that any attempt to draw a new corridor for the highway would delay the project for up to an additional two years.

But a delay of two years to avoid a serious blunder could be suffered easily.

Many officials who have had a hand in designing or giving official approval of the West Bypass route have not given the proper weight to the park land factor. The efforts to preserve land in close to its natural state near an urban area for present day Lincolnites and future generations to enjoy have largely been ignored by many who are possessed by the streets and highways demon, a demon which whispers in the ear that highway engineers, business interests and motorist convenience addicts know what's right every time, no matter the cost or damage to other priorities.

Some park land will have to be taken in connecting the west bypass with other peripheral routes no matter where it is constructed. But the present bypass design condemns too much land in the proposed corridor and renders adjacent land useless for park purposes.

It is hard to believe that there is no other corridor which is appropriate or feasible.



Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt Carter

TOM WICKER

ABOARD THE CARTER SPECIAL — Jimmy Carter was in full cry Monday morning at Philadelphia's Overbrook Station when a commotion broke out in the crowd. The candidate, already suffering an audibility gap caused by a circling police helicopter ("Rizzo's revenge," someone called it), suddenly was being drowned out as well by screams from schoolchildren perched in a stand of bleachers near the track.

Childish enthusiasm for the Democratic nominee? No, childish enthusiasm for the peanut-shaped whistles a Carter staff man was incautiously handing out by the bagful. Not until he got the whistles out of sight did the kids quiet down and turn back to hear the candidate declaring that he was in direct line of descent from FDR, Truman, Kennedy and even Johnson.

The moment may have been unimportant in the great scheme of things and eventually even the helicopter went away, but the easy diversion of the school children's attention did suggest how little the public seems to be interested in this campaign. The crowds that greeted Carter as his "whistle-stop" train moved through New Jersey and Pennsylvania, for example, seemed to be composed mostly of kids, union members and public employes, and even their interest appeared perfunctory.

In fact, a hot World Series — say, the Yankees versus the Reds — or a few more upsets in the NFL or even a spectacular foliage season in New England might easily upstage this pale imitation of a presidential campaign. If recent history is a guide, as few as half the registered voters might actually cast a ballot in November.

The long-term decline in voter participation is something even the academics can't explain. But to this uncertain observer, at least one plausible reason for a lack of interest in the Ford-Carter campaign suggests itself — the public neither knows either candidate well nor considers either quite big enough for the office and the power he seeks. It just doesn't seem like a presidential election.

Gerald Ford, at least, has the presidency within which to try to conceal his own lack of stature. Carter, on the other, with his southern accent, his lack of a track record in Washington, his rather righteous attitudes on love, lying and lawyers, and his zoom out of nowhere to the Democratic nomination, is the least familiar quantity to seek the presidency since John W. Davis.

No wonder, then, at whistle stops in Newark, Trenton and Overbrook, Carter recited over and over the old Democratic litany — Roosevelt, Kennedy, Johnson, above all Truman, with whom the whistle-stop campaign will be forever associated. That was the kind of president they'd have again if they only turned out on Nov. 2 to vote Democratic, he assured audiences in an obvious bid for identity by association.

And what would these voters get if they didn't go Democratic this fall? Another Coolidge, another Hoover unquestionably; maybe even — to predictable boos — another Nixon, plus more unemployment, more inflation, less health care, less compassion ("Congressman Gerald Ford voted against Medicare") and higher-priced housing. For that reason, the candidate said solemnly, this election was every bit as important as that of 1932.

Carter's whistle-stop tour was not lacking in such oratorical extravagance. At Newark, Democratic Chairman Bob Strauss said he was ready to introduce "the next great man," having just been introduced himself; and at Trenton, Gov. Brendan Byrne declared that "Peter Rodino saved this country." Not to be outdone, Carter told the Trenton crowd, above which waved placards from at least seven unions, "What the Democrats did in 70 years, the Republicans have undone in just eight." The 70-year reference was not immediately clarified.

Carter ("A great figure coming down the track," cried the Trenton master of ceremonies from the podium set up on a flat car) occasionally reverted to the themes of his successfully primary campaigns. "We've been hurt, disappointed, disillusioned," he said at Overbrook. "We've been embarrassed, sometimes we've been ashamed of our own government." He proposed automatic universal voter registration at age 18, and thumped Gerald Ford for lack of leadership: "Harry Truman had a sign on his desk that said, 'The Buck Stops Here.' Now the buck runs all over Washington looking for a place to stop."

Mostly, however, as his train rolled through the industrial back lots of New Jersey to the greener spaces of central Pennsylvania, the man who campaigned as an outsider and took his nomination by storm seemed concerned to identify himself as a real Democrat, and as a potential president in the Roosevelt-Truman mold. The crowds applauded the claim, but it remains to be seen if they were convinced.

'Now, What Is The Question Again?'

By JAMES RESTON

WASHINGTON — The first phase of the presidential campaign since the nominating conventions has been needlessly negative and even destructive. For President Ford and Governor Carter have been scaring rather than inspiring the voters, concentrating on each other's weaknesses, real or imagined, and creating the impression that the nation has a choice between an old-timer who can't lead, or a newcomer who's not ready to lead.

This is not quite fair or accurate. The political world is fresh out of geniuses on all continents, including ours, but Ford and Carter are not as bad as they say of one another — compared with Nixon and McGovern in 1972, they're pretty good — so maybe it's time to suggest what's right with this campaign rather than what's wrong.

What's right, or at least reassuring about it, is that Ford and Carter agree on more fundamental issues than they admit.

On the devil-theory of campaign rhetoric, Carter has attacked Henry Kissinger as a threat to the Republic, and Ford has suggested that Carter's proposal to cut $6 or $7 billion out of the defense budget was an invitation to the destruction of the United States and Western civilization. These apocalyptic charges make big headlines, but are obvious nonsense.

The speeches by Ford and Carter on domestic policy in this first phase of the campaign have been equally dramatic and have suggested that their differences are worse than they really are.

The President would have us believe that Governor Carter is indifferent to the problem of inflation, and the governor suggests that the President is indifferent to the problems of unemployment and human suffering, but anybody who knows them both and has studied their records knows that they are better than that.

Clearly, they differ on the approach, the style, and the policies of foreign and domestic affairs — more on domestic than on foreign. Their differences could be fundamental, and this is what must now be clarified in the second phase of the campaign — the debates.

The advisers of the President and the governor, with their popularity polls and their computers, have encouraged this old-fashioned politics of fear since the conventions, but the guess here is that Ford and Carter have a higher view of this campaign, and in the debates will concentrate a little more on the future — not much but some.

Ford's pride is involved now. He feels, with some justification, that he has been a good interim president, and has wiped out the Nixon stain, and must go on to win the presidency on his own, despite his promises to himself and his ailing wife to retire at the end of this year.

All this is understandable, in both human and political terms. Ford is an accidental president, and Carter an accidental candidate, both experienced in different ways, and closer to one another on policy than they have pretended in the last few weeks.

What is a little sad about them both is that they have been so negative since they were nominated, so vicious toward one another and really so unfaithful to their own natural and generous characters that they are encouraging the apathy and cynicism now so widespread in the country.

All the polls show an alarming decline in the confidence of the nation in the moral authority of their leaders, and this perception of the character of Ford and Carter could be the most important result of the first debate.

For example, Daniel Yankelovich, in a Public Agenda report just published, notes that "moral leadership" has become one of the central questions of the American mind and one of the central issues of the campaign. He also notes that "trust in government declined dramatically from 76% in 1964 to 33% in 1976."

Yankelovich and his colleagues made a detailed study of this problem and found that "Americans fear that the country has been trending toward a psychology of self-interest so all-embracing that no room is left for commitment to national and community interests."

By WILLIAM V. SHANNON

WASHINGTON — There is a recurring tendency on the part of the press and the public to view a presidential campaign as a cross between a beauty contest and a tennis match.

Occasionally, there are extremely close contests in which those marginal factors are decisive. But most national elections turn on much more impersonal and predictable considerations — the issues, the records of the two candidates, the self-interest of the voters, the relative strength of the two parties. These are the fundamental formative influences in a campaign.

In this election, these basic influences are working in favor of Jimmy Carter and the Democrats. That is not to say that his victory on November 2 is assured. Nothing in life is certain. It is possible to imagine scenarios in which Carter will lose. But it is much more probable that he will win a solid victory in the popular vote and achieve an Electoral College landslide.

This probability rests, first of all, on this year's issues. Economic matters including unemployment, inflation, job uncertainties, taxes and health insurance are uppermost in voters' minds this year. None of these issues works to Ford's advantage.

Nearly one family in every three has had one of its members out of work at some time in the last three years.

Nor is the public outlook about the economy favorable to Ford. The latest Times-CBS survey of public opinion taken in early September showed that nearly three-quarters of the voters believe that the economy is getting worse or not improving. Whether or not this pessimism is justified by the objective facts, it is a powerful drag on the Ford campaign.

When voters are deciding on economic issues, they are voting their perceived self-interest. There are times when other issues override pocketbook concerns. But unlike the two previous campaigns, this year the so-called "social issues" — crime, race relations, drugs, youthful rebelliousness — are unimportant.

The best issue for an incumbent is foreign affairs. It is the one domain about which he presumably has special, inside information and over which he can exert most control. But this year, foreign policy is a critical issue only with Reaganite Republicans, disaffected with Ford.

Ford's failure to establish his personal mastery as president is the major political fact about his record. Although he is the White House incumbent and his opponent is an ex-governor, new to the national scene, there is not the wide discrepancy between the two men in public confidence and sense of authority that would normally exist. Insofar as Watergate, the Nixon pardon and an anti-Washington mood are electoral factors, Carter as an outsider probably has the edge.

Finally, there is the relative strength of the two parties. In the Times-CBS survey, 39% of voters identified themselves as Democrats and 21% as Republicans. When self-described independents were pressed to say which party they usually voted for, the gap widened even further with the Democratic percentage rising to 53% and the Republican to 30%.

Richard Nixon closed this gap because he had both the foreign policy issue and the "social issues" working in his favor. Dwight Eisenhower overcame it because of his enormous personal prestige. Without foreign policy or the social issues or personal authority to help him, Ford has an extraordinarily difficult task.

It is possible to imagine Ford doing so brilliantly and Carter so dismally in the debates that these probabilities may be turned upside down. But what is there in the career of Carter, so intelligent, so articulate, so self-disciplined, that suggests he will ruin himself in debate?

The debates are more likely to subside into the category of Carter's Dixie accent and toothy smile and Ford's wooden speech-making and physical clumsiness. Such attributes decide beauty contests and athletic contests. They do not decide a presidential election when the basic political forces are all moving in one direction.

But a delay of two years to avoid a serious blunder could be suffered easily.

Many officials who have had a hand in designing or giving official approval of the West Bypass route have not given the proper weight to the park land factor. The efforts to preserve land in close to its natural state near an urban area for present day Lincolnites and future generations to enjoy have largely been ignored by many who are possessed by the streets and highways demon, a demon which whispers in the ear that highway engineers, business interests and motorist convenience addicts know what's right every time, no matter the cost or damage to other priorities.

Some park land will have to be taken in connecting the west bypass with other peripheral routes no matter where it is constructed. But the present bypass design condemns too much land in the proposed corridor and renders adjacent land useless for park purposes.

It is hard to believe that there is no other corridor which is appropriate or feasible.

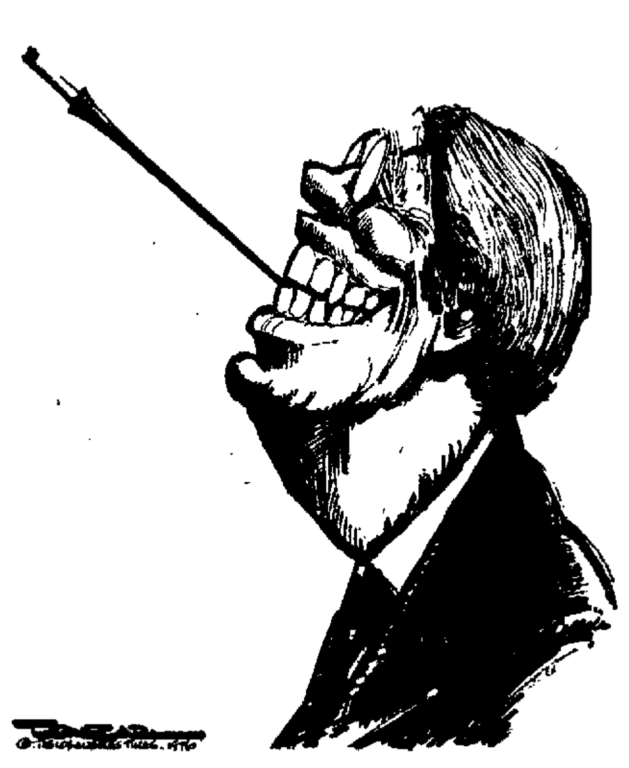
Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt Carter



ABOARD THE CARTER SPECIAL — Jimmy Carter was in full cry Monday morning at Philadelphia's Overbrook Station when a commotion broke out in the crowd. The candidate, already suffering an audibility gap caused by a circling police helicopter ("Rizzo's revenge," someone called it), suddenly was being drowned out as well by screams from schoolchildren perched in a stand of bleachers near the track.

Childish enthusiasm for the Democratic nominee? No, childish enthusiasm for the peanut-shaped whistles a Carter staff man was incautiously handing out by the bagful. Not until he got the whistles out of sight did the kids quiet down and turn back to hear the candidate declaring that he was in direct line of descent from FDR, Truman, Kennedy and even Johnson.

The moment may have been unimportant in the great scheme of things and eventually even the helicopter went away, but the easy diversion of the school children's attention did suggest how little the public seems to be interested in this campaign. The crowds that greeted Carter as his "whistle-stop" train moved through New Jersey and Pennsylvania, for example, seemed to be composed mostly of kids, union members and public employes, and even their interest appeared perfunctory.

In fact, a hot World Series — say, the Yankees versus the Reds — or a few more upsets in the NFL or even a spectacular foliage season in New England might easily upstage this pale imitation of a presidential campaign. If recent history is a guide, as few as half the registered voters might actually cast a ballot in November.

The long-term decline in voter participation is something even the academics can't explain. But to this uncertain observer, at least one plausible reason for a lack of interest in the Ford-Carter campaign suggests itself — the public neither knows either candidate well nor considers either quite big enough for the office and the power he seeks. It just doesn't seem like a presidential election.

Gerald Ford, at least, has the presidency within which to try to conceal his own lack of stature. Carter, on the other, with his southern accent, his lack of a track record in Washington, his rather righteous attitudes on love, lying and lawyers, and his zoom out of nowhere to the Democratic nomination, is the least familiar quantity to seek the presidency since John W. Davis.

No wonder, then, at whistle stops in Newark, Trenton and Overbrook, Carter recited over and over the old Democratic littany — Roosevelt, Kennedy, Johnson, above all Truman, with whom the whistle-stop campaign will be forever associated. That was the kind of president they'd have again if they only turned out on Nov. 2 to vote Democratic, he assured audiences in an obvious bid for identity by association.

And what would these voters get if they didn't go Democratic this fall? Another Coolidge, another Hoover unquestionably; maybe even — to predictable boos — another Nixon, plus more unemployment, more inflation, less health care, less compassion ("Congressman Gerald Ford voted against Medicare") and higher-priced housing. For that reason, the candidate said solemnly, this election was every bit as important as that of 1932.

Carter's whistle-stop tour was not lacking in such oratorical extravagance. At Newark, Democratic Chairman Bob Strauss said he was ready to introduce "the next great man," having just been introduced himself; and at Trenton, Gov. Brendan Byrne declared that "Peter Rodino saved this country." Not to be outdone, Carter told the Trenton crowd, above which waved placards from at least seven unions, "What the Democrats did in 70 years, the Republicans have undone in just eight." The 70-year reference was not immediately clarified.

Carter ("A great figure coming down the track," cried the Trenton master of ceremonies from the podium set up on a flat car) occasionally reverted to the themes of his successfully primary campaigns. "We've been hurt, disappointed, disillusioned," he said at Overbrook. "We've been embarrassed, sometimes we've been ashamed of our own government." He proposed automatic universal voter registration at age 18, and thumped Gerald Ford for lack of leadership: "Harry Truman had a sign on his desk that said, 'The Buck Stops Here.' Now the buck runs all over Washington looking for a place to stop."

Mostly, however, as his train rolled through the industrial back lots of New Jersey to the greener spaces of central Pennsylvania, the man who campaigned as an outsider and took his nomination by storm seemed concerned to identify himself as a real Democrat, and as a potential president in the Roosevelt-Truman mold. The crowds applauded the claim, but it remains to be seen if they were convinced.

'Now, What Is The Question Again?'

By JAMES RESTON

WASHINGTON — The first phase of the presidential campaign since the nominating conventions has been needlessly negative and even destructive. For President Ford and Governor Carter have been scaring rather than inspiring the voters, concentrating on each other's weaknesses, real or imagined, and creating the impression that the nation has a choice between an old-timer who can't lead, or a newcomer who's not ready to lead.

This is not quite fair or accurate. The political world is fresh out of geniuses on all continents, including ours, but Ford and Carter are not as bad as they say of one another — compared with Nixon and McGovern in 1972, they're pretty good — so maybe it's time to suggest what's right with this campaign rather than what's wrong.

What's right, or at least reassuring about it, is that Ford and Carter agree on more fundamental issues than they admit.

On the devil-theory of campaign rhetoric, Carter has attacked Henry Kissinger as a threat to the Republic, and Ford has suggested that Carter's proposal to cut $6 or $7 billion out of the defense budget was an invitation to the destruction of the United States and Western civilization. These apocalyptic charges make big headlines, but are obvious nonsense.

The speeches by Ford and Carter on domestic policy in this first phase of the campaign have been equally dramatic and have suggested that their differences are worse than they really are.

The President would have us believe that Governor Carter is indifferent to the problem of inflation, and the governor suggests that the President is indifferent to the problems of unemployment and human suffering, but anybody who knows them both and has studied their records knows that they are better than that.

Clearly, they differ on the approach, the style, and the policies of foreign and domestic affairs — more on domestic than on foreign. Their differences could be fundamental, and this is what must now be clarified in the second phase of the campaign — the debates.

The advisers of the President and the governor, with their popularity polls and their computers, have encouraged this old-fashioned politics of fear since the conventions, but the guess here is that Ford and Carter have a higher view of this campaign, and in the debates will concentrate a little more on the future — not much but some.

Ford's pride is involved now. He feels, with some justification, that he has been a good interim president, and has wiped out the Nixon stain, and must go on to win the presidency on his own, despite his promises to himself and his ailing wife to retire at the end of this year.

All this is understandable, in both human and political terms. Ford is an accidental president, and Carter an accidental candidate, both experienced in different ways, and closer to one another on policy than they have pretended in the last few weeks.

What is a little sad about them both is that they have been so negative since they were nominated, so vicious toward one another and really so unfaithful to their own natural and generous characters that they are encouraging the apathy and cynicism now so widespread in the country.

All the polls show an alarming decline in the confidence of the nation in the moral authority of their leaders, and this perception of the character of Ford and Carter could be the most important result of the first debate.

For example, Daniel Yankelovich, in a Public Agenda report just published, notes that "moral leadership" has become one of the central questions of the American mind and one of the central issues of the campaign. He also notes that "trust in government declined dramatically from 76% in 1964 to 13% in 1976."

Yankelovich and his colleagues made a detailed study of this problem and found that "Americans fear that the country has been trending toward a psychology of self-interest so all-embracing that no room is left for commitment to national and community interests."

By WILLIAM V. SHANNON

WASHINGTON — There is a recurring tendency on the part of the press and the public to view a presidential campaign as a cross between a beauty contest and a tennis match.

Occasionally, there are extremely close contests in which these marginal factors are decisive. But most national elections turn on much more impersonal and predictable considerations — the issues, the records of the two candidates, the self-interest of the voters, the relative strength of the two parties. These are the fundamental formative influences in a campaign.

In this election, these basic influences are working in favor of Jimmy Carter and the Democrats. That is not to say that his victory on November 2 is assured. Nothing in life is certain. It is possible to imagine scenarios in which Carter will lose. But it is much more probable that he will win a solid victory in the popular vote and achieve an Electoral College landslide.

This probability rests, first of all, on this year's issues. Economic matters including unemployment, inflation, job uncertainties, taxes and health insurance are uppermost in voters' minds this year. None of these issues works to Ford's advantage.

Nearly one family in every three has had one of its members out of work at some time in the last three years.

Nor is the public outlook about the economy favorable to Ford. The latest Times-CBS survey of public opinion taken in early September showed that nearly three-quarters of the voters believe that the economy is getting worse or not improving. Whether or not this pessimism is justified by the objective facts, it is a powerful drag on the Ford campaign.

When voters are deciding on economic issues, they are voting their perceived self-interest. There are times when other issues override pocketbook concerns. But unlike the two previous campaigns, this year the so-called "social issues" — crime, race relations, drugs, youthful rebelliousness — are unimportant.

The best issue for an incumbent is foreign affairs. It is the one domain about which he presumably has special, inside information and over which he can exert most control. But this year, foreign policy is a critical issue only with Reaganite Republicans, disaffected with Ford.

Ford's failure to establish his personal mastery as president is the major political fact about his record. Although he is the White House incumbent and his opponent is an ex-governor, new to the national scene, there is not the wide discrepancy between the two men in public confidence and sense of authority that would normally exist. Insofar as Watergate, the Nixon pardon and an anti-Washington mood are electoral factors, Carter as an outsider probably has the edge.

Finally, there is the relative strength of the two parties. In the Times-CBS survey, 39% of voters identified themselves as Democrats and 21% as Republicans. When self-described independents were pressed to say which party they usually voted for, the gap widened even further with the Democratic percentage rising to 53% and the Republicans to 30%.

Richard Nixon closed this gap because he had both the foreign policy issue and the "social issues" working in his favor. Dwight Eisenhower overcame it because of his enormous personal prestige. Without foreign policy or the social issues or personal authority to help him, Ford has an extraordinarily difficult task.

It is possible to imagine Ford doing so brilliantly and Carter so dismally in the debates that these probabilities may be turned upside down. But what is there in the career of Carter, so intelligent, so articulate, so self-disciplined, that suggests he will ruin himself in debate?

The debates are more likely to subside into the category of Carter's Dixie accent and toothy smile and Ford's wooden speech-making and physical clumsiness. Such attributes decide beauty contests and athletic contests. They do not decide a presidential election when the basic political forces are all moving in one direction.

New Petition Would Aim For Mayor's Recall

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

A Lincoln couple who originated a petition drive against the elimination of 10 firefighter positions is now talking about a new drive to circulate recall petitions.

Mrs. Donald Gibbons, 1510 W. Garfield, said she and her husband are seriously considering the effort in the wake of the City Council's refusal to back down on the job cuts.

Signatures of 10,914 persons were presented to the council Monday in an effort to get the council to reconsider the cuts even though the budget is set for the next fiscal year.

Mrs. Gibbons said that the recall petition would be aimed at Mayor Helen Boosalis, although she would not rule out the possibility of including council members in the drive.

"I'm very unhappy with here," Mrs. Gibbons said. "It's not only over the firefighters."

She said she objected to Mayor Boosalis hiring more assistants and calling in outside consultants. She also blamed Mayor Boosalis for hiring out-ofstate bricklayers for the O Street beautification project.

There is some confusion on how many votes would be needed to force a recall election for the office of mayor.

According to the city charter the total is "at least 30% of the highest vote cast in the last preceding general city election."

If the phrase is to be interpreted as 30% of the highest vote cast in any one race, or for and against any one proposition, the required total would be more than 40,000, since more than 122,000 votes were cast in the City Council race, where voters could vote for three candidates.

On the basis of a 1914 court ruling interpreting the same phrase in state law, however, that is what would be required, according to City Attorney Charles Humble.

If, however, the phrase is to be interpreted as 30% of the highest vote tallied by any one candidate or issue, the total would be only 6,832.

Mrs. Gibbons said Tuesday that she and her husband plan to wait several weeks before deciding whether to proceed with the recall petition drive.

In the meantime, she said, efforts will continue to collect more signatures opposing the firefighters cut.

"If this does not do it . . . then they're not considering what the people want," Mrs. Gibbons contended.

Radial Rapidly Moves Up City Ranks

The Northeast Radial, which only two weeks ago received a new lease on life, is now slated as one of the highest priority street improvement projects.

That proposal, which will now be funneled through a series of public bodies, emanated from Barton-Aschman consultants and the City-County Planning Department.

One of the first groups to review the proposed priority listing, however, rejected it temporarily Tuesday until it has been compared with existing city, county and state street and road improvement plans.

The Technical Committee, a group of transportation planners, took the action after County Engineer Marvin Nuernberger said that his road improvement priorities differ from those being proposed.

For example, he said, he is planning to complete next year some of the lowest priority projects slated by Barton-Aschman and city-county planners.

The Northeast Radial, which was revived two weeks ago when the City-County Planning Commission included it in an overall transportation plan, is slated to get underway before 1980 according to the proposed priority listing.

Also in the category for work to begin before 1980 were the widening of Hwy. 2 from 14th to 84th and the widening of Old Cheney from 14th to 84th.

Some of the projects in a second category, in which work would begin before 1985, are the proposed West Bypass highway, the widening of Hwy. 6 northeast of 70th St., and the widening of Normal Blvd. from 29th to 84th.

There were some mild surprises in the priority rankings. The widening of 84th is not scheduled to begin until 1985. The paving of 112th St., which is being urged by some to provide an alternate route to 84th for truck traffic is also not slated until after 1985.

Iowa Law Blamed For City Truck Traffic

Iowa law was blamed Tuesday for some of the truck traffic passing through Lincoln.

Bob Mahoney of Graves Truck Line said that truckers with rigs longer than 55 feet are barred from using Iowa's highways.

So truckers, Mahoney said, are leaving Interstate 80 and going down through Missouri to avoid passing through Iowa.

Iowa's limit on truck length, Mahoney said, is one of the few among states. If the state ever drops the limit, he said, much of the truck traffic now passing through Lincoln will vanish.

County Engineer Marvin Nuernberger, however, predicted that truck traffic eventually "is going to saturate certain streets in this town."

Lincoln is a natural cutoff from I-80 to I-29, Nuernberger said, "and it's getting more important all the time.

"I personally know a firm that puts 50 trucks a day through Lincoln," Nuernberger said.

Nuernberger said officials should start planning for a way to route the truck traffic around the city, rather than through it.

Truck traffic has recently become a community issue with the organized opposition of East Lincoln residents to truck traffic on 84th St.

A subcommittee of the so-called Technical Committee, a group of transportation planners, is currently studying the truck bypass issue. Nuernberger's and Mahoney's comments came at a meeting of the full Technical Committee.

Police Union Asks Court Intervention

The Lincoln police union has asked the State Court of Industrial Relations to order the City of Lincoln to pay police officers a 6% pay increase and other benefits until an on-going wage dispute is settled by the court.

In a petition filed with the court Monday, the union said the city is withholding the wage hike granted to other city employes. The union also wants the city to grant increased insurance coverage and an additional holiday to police officers which other city workers receive.

The petition wants those benefits to be retroactive to Sept. 1, when the new budget year began, even though the union rejected the city's wage offer. Other city unions and bargaining groups, except for the firefighters, accepted the city's wage and benefit package.

The police union also contends in its petition that the manner in which the city has withheld the pay increase violates the fair labor practices law.

The city's actions are intended to "discourage or retaliate" for union membership, the petition charges, and has caused a "chilling effect" on the union.

Judge Richard DeBacker of the Court of Industrial Relations has scheduled a hearing on the police union's petition for Oct. 1 in Lincoln. No trial date for the original lawsuit has been set. That suit was filed Sept. 9 by the union contesting the city's wage offer to police officers.

Tammy Wynette Files For Divorce

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country singing star Tammy Wynette filed suit for divorce Tuesday from her fourth husband, John Michael Tomlin, to whom she was married July 18.

Neither Miss Wynette nor Tomlin, a Nashville real estate executive, was available for comment.

The divorce suit in Circuit Court alleged that Tomlin has "been guilty of such cruel and inhuman treatment as to render further cohabitation unsafe and improper."

Causes of the split, rumored for several weeks, were not spelled out.

Rock Concert

Please explain why KLMS, a Lincoln radio station, is promoting a rock concert in Omaha. There hasn't been a concert in Lincoln for quite some time and I don't think their advertising market is in Omaha.

— N. P., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: A KLMS station spokesman explained that the decision to hold the Lynyrd Skynyrd/Firefall concert in the Omaha Civic auditorium was not the Lincoln station's decision. In fact, the radio station had no say in where the concert would be. The spokesman further explained that in a situation like this a radio station aligns with a promotor who places a concert. KLMS is "co-sponsoring" the concert with an Omaha radio station. Basically, in return for having its name associated with the concert, the station helps promote the event in its area. Lincoln radio station personnel urged that the concert be held at Pershing Auditorium. However, the promoters decided on the Omaha location since that auditorium seats more people and because the group had been in Lincoln twice previously.

Pretty Poisons

We have several plants in and around our house that I have heard could be poisonous if eaten by our child. I know that mistletoe is poisonous but what about such things as English ivy or azaleas? Where can I get more information on poisonous plants?

— Concerned Mother, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Information supplied by the Poison Information Center at Children's Memorial Hospital in Omaha indicates that ivy and azalea are poisonous if eaten by children or animals. All parts of the azalea are fatal if eaten. The leaves and berries on ivy plants are especially dangerous, adds the information. The poison center has published a brochure which lists potentially hazardous plants. For a copy write to the Community Services Dept., Children's Memorial Hospital, 44th and Dewey Ave., Omaha 68105.

Wrong Sign

Can you tell me if a sign that's on 8th and D between the curb and sidewalk was put up by the city or by a private citizen. It reads Cooper Park. What is it doing there?

— B. E. R., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: The sign was placed there in error by the City Parks and Recreation Dept., says a spokesman for the City Building Inspector's Office. It will be removed.

San Francisco — We stood four-square, loaded with old squareface. The conversations sparkled like champagne as the song goes.

"If that man goes to the White House, I'm turning everything I have into hard cash. Mark my word — ."

"The doctor doesn't seem to know what it is. He said: 'How many drinks do you have before lunch?' I said: 'Now doc, don't start that again.' "

"It was marked down to $499.99 so I had to have it. George was furious!"

"There's naught so much the spirit calms
"As rum and true religion."

Rum calms the spirit but doesn't stiffen the spine. I could feel the familiar back twitch — the one that puts me in a kind of saddle — and I thought, "My God, I'm not in shape for this kind of thing."

Somebody handed me a plate of potato salad. In the other hand I held a brimming martini.

The lady next to me gave me a winning smile and she said: "I wonder if you have a light?" She held up the unlighted cigarette.

I put the drink in a corner. Put down the potato salad. I lit her cigarette.

She said: "I simply never remember to bring matches."

I went back. Somebody had copped my drink. Somebody had spilled the potato salad on the floor. A bad time? No, I had a wonderful time. I like parties. I haven't any idea why.

☆ ☆ ☆

So we enter autumn. Holidays and party times. Stand up parties — the kind where a man's back should be made of steel but instead turns to limp spaghetti.

"Therefore, thought the best is bad,
"Stand and do the best, my lad."

It is party time and you must stand until you fall.

☆ ☆ ☆

"Cocktails, 5:30 to 9. RSVP." The night was brisk. A big, cold moon swung in a diet-milk sky. You could hear the party a half-block down the street where I parked.

In the big, lighted room, the party timers were jammed upright — the mark of a good party is to put everybody as close as possible. (Which puts a dent in the Desmond Morris living space theory.)

"Keep plugging," said my grandfather. "Keep going at what you're at and you will win. A moving plow doesn't get rusty," he said.

Grandfather did not go to cocktail parties. There were no such things — anyway, we were against liquor. On Sunday late afternoon we had a family dinner: Chicken gravy and hot biscuits. Amen!

Energy— Is It Public Or Private Concern?

By JIM CAMDEN
Star Staff Writer

With the thermometer dipping down to near freezing the past few nights, more and more people are thinking about the cold winds of winter.

Those cold winter days and nights have been on Rich Lombardi's mind for months, even when the temperatures were reaching into the 90s and then some.

Lombardi is affiliated with the Lincoln Utilities Coalition, which recently asked the City Council for $50,000 for next year to hire people to winterize homes. The funds, requested from the Lincoln Electric System budget, would have been given to the Lincoln Action Program to double its staff for winterizing low-income homes.

But Charles Humboldt, city attorney, told the council the request could not be granted because law prohibits the use of public funds for private improvements.

Lombardi said the legal opinion was really a "political decision."

"What the opinion is saying is energy conservation is not a public good," Lombardi said. "We contend that it is."

The tendency of local utility companies is to deal with the rising need for power by finding ways to increase supply, Lombardi said. A better solution, he said, would be to reduce demand. One way to reduce demand is to winterize homes and cut down the amount of energy used to keep people warm.

But Frank Grant, LES information director, said Lombardi and the utilities coalition mix apples and oranges in matching winterization up against increased supply.

Grant cited several proposed shopping centers, stores, restaurants and businesses to be built in Lincoln in the near future as reasons the supply must increase. And new homes are built every year, he added.

"If somebody wants to be hooked up for power, we have to be able to give it to him," Grant said.

Grant conceded that if all the homes in Lincoln had adequate insulation, it would cut electrical use tremendously. But how, he asked, can anyone set up a plan to guarantee all homes in Lincoln have a high insulation rating?

"You can't just come into a man's home and tell him he has to have an R-19 rating," Grant said. "There's no law for that, there's no city ordinance."

Insulation efficiency is determined on a scale known as the R factor. Insulation which keeps a greater percentage of the heat in a building has a higher number behind the R. R-19, which is usually provided by 6-8 inches of insulation, is generally considered a satisfactory level. Many energy experts and builders, however, disagree on whether an official standard should be R-19, or higher or lower.

The Mayor's Energy Action Commission and the Professional Energy Conservation Team has examined the problem in hopes of coming up with a recommendation for a city ordinance. But no ordinance has been proposed yet.

Lombardi said R-19 is a standard accepted by Congress for low-income housing improvements funded with federal money. Congress has set aside $200 million for insulation, weather stripping and other materials to be used in such projects. But none of the money can be used for labor costs. That must be supplied by the community, either through paid workers or volunteer help.

LAP has a staff of five who winterize low-income housing. About 160 homes have been winterized in the two years the program has existed. The staff is averaging about 20 homes a month now, but officials said there is a waiting period of about a month and a half between the time the application is filed and work is completed.

John Burger, LAP planning director, estimated there are 8,700 low-income living units in the city in need of winterization. The Cengas thermogram showed about 20,000 homes in Lincoln with inadequate insulation, Cengas officials said.

Lap also uses volunteers to help with their program. One weekend in August, eight members of the state's Navy National Guard winterized 10 homes. Occasionally courts will send a minor offender to work off a sentence on the LAP crew.

With the $50,000 requested from LES, the utilities coalition hoped to hire more LAP staffers and double the number of homes winterized each month.

Frank Grant questioned the use of such an arrangement because the money from publicly owned LES would be used to help only one segment of the population: low-income persons. People in all income brackets are in need of better insulation, he said, and everyone should have an equal opportunity to receive such help.

Lombardi contends, however, that communities have traditionally offered help to those with less income, and such a program would be another aid to the needy.

But the whole issue has been set aside for this budget year because of the city attorney's opinion. Lombardi said, however, that the coalition plans to work with LES, the City Council and the Mayor's Energy Commission during the coming year to find an acceptable plan to winterize some of those 20,000 poorly insulated homes in Lincoln.

Recycling Applies To Careers Too

All we know about today's contributor to "Write On" is that she lives in Sidney.

By J. KUEHN

Are you between the ages of 16 and 65? Do you have that useless, no-count feeling? Do you find yourself frequently daydreaming about your long-lost desire to become a brain surgeon or maybe a movie star? Let me advise you, it is not too late. Now may be the time for you to consider recycling.

Experts in the field of career education speak of recycling in terms of people as a major change of careers. They predict that the average American will change occupations four or five times in the course of a working career. That means that the guy who spends ten years studying to become a doctor may later turn plumber, then airline pilot, and finally end up his working career auditing tax returns for Uncle Sam. We've become human butterflies going through a metamorphis, but no predictable stages or outcomes.

write on

So, if you're feeling like last week's garbage when a new work week faces you, put yourself into the chamber of the recycling machine and come out a new you.

I did. But to date, I don't think my recycling has turned out quite right. I go through the career recycling plant, but I never come out one entirely new career person.

I'm like the 1976 Continental that sports the side curtains, running boards, and fender skirts of his various ancestors of the Ford family. I, too, repeatedly bear signs of my past careers. I've maintained my bookkeeper's hand that put me through college, my school teacher's head that launched my first formal career, the heart of a wife and mother that keeps all other careers in proper perspective, the two left feet that trip me up every time I consider expanding my endeavors in the field of farming and ranching, and the frazzledy hairs of wild notions to turn craftsperson, writer and poet.

After careful analysis of the situation, I have decided that my problem lies in reversion to past occupations. According to the theory of evolution, I will never lose that second left foot as long as I continue to use it. But how can I say "no" when I'm the only substitute teacher in town who isn't booked up for the day and 30 charging first graders would be at the mercy of their harassed principal; when the glut of paperwork is threatening to strangle the calculator, wipe out the ledger, and crawl under the office door in hot pursuit; when there is an acute shortage of truck drivers at harvest time and a bumper crop of ripened wheat stands patiently by in the fields, or one more hand is needed for cattle branding?

To all of you I send my good wishes for a bright and challenging new career. For myself, after considering my present state of affairs, perhaps I should postpone my dreams of becoming a great courtroom lawyer, the first woman president and a stock car driver.

Can you imagine my predicament if a gavel replaced my one good hand, if the cares of the world weighed heavily on my family type heart, and an accelerator dangled from my extra left foot? Already I'm a jack of all trades and master of none. Well, maybe two or three or . . .

U.S. Not Worth Seasickness

LONDON (AP) — A 16-year-old English girl tried to stow away aboard a U.S. Coast Guard icebreaker over the weekend after one of the ship's young sailors told her how exciting life was in America.

Ann Millear's adventure lasted just 12 hours under the canvas of a lifeboat on the icebreaker Westwind. She quickly became seasick and gave herself up.

"I wanted to go to America because I could not get a job here," Ann said Sunday. She chose the Westwinds after meeting some of the crew at a discothecque in Bristol, the English port where she lives.

She took one of the crew home to meet her parents, "a pleasant young man of 19 or 20," said her father, Gordon Millear. "He talked all about life in America and made it sound very exciting."

The ship, which had been on a courtesy visit in Bristol, sent Ann ashore to a port in South Wales.

"It was awful," she told reporters.

But none of the money can be used for labor costs That must be supplied by the community, either through paid workers or volunteer help

LAP has a staff of five who winterize low-income housing About 160 homes have been winterized in the two years the program has existed The staff is averaging about 20 homes a month now, but officials said there is a waiting period of about a month and a half between the time the application is filed and work is completed

John Burger, LAP planning director, estimated there are 8,700 low-income living units in the city in need of winterization The Cengas thermogram showed about 20,000 homes in Lincoln with inadequate insulation, Cengas officials said

Lap also uses volunteers to help with their program One weekend in August, eight members of the state's Navy National Guard winterized 10 homes Occasionally courts will send a minor offender to work off a sentence on the LAP crew

With the $50,000 requested from LES, the utilities coalition hoped to hire more LAP staffers and double the number of homes winterized each month

Frank Grant questioned the use of such an arrangement because the money from publicly owned LES would be used to help only one segment of the population low income persons People in all income brackets are in need of better insulation, he said, and everyone should have an equal opportunity to receive such help

Lombardi contends however, that communities have traditionally offered help to those with less income, and such a program would be another aid to the needy

But the whole issue has been set aside for this budget year because of the city attorney's opinion Lombardi said, however, that the coalition plans to work with LES, the City Council and the Mayor's Energy Commission during the coming year to find an acceptable plan to winterize some of those 20,000 poorly insulated homes in Lincoln

Recycling Applies To Careers Too

All we know about today's contributor to "Write On" is that she lives in Sidney.

By J. KUEHN

Are you between the ages of 16 and 65? Do you have that useless, no-count feeling? Do you find yourself frequently daydreaming about your long-lost desire to become a brain surgeon or maybe a movie star? Let me advise you, it is not too late Now may be the time for you to consider recycling

Experts in the field of career education speak of recycling in terms of people as a major change of careers They predict that the average American will change occupations four or five times in the course of a working career That means that the guy who spends ten years studying to become a doctor may later turn plumber, then airline pilot, and finally end up his working career auditing tax returns for Uncle Sam We've become human butterflies going through a metamorphus, but no predictable stages or outcomes

So, if you're feeling like last week's garbage when a new work week faces you, put yourself into the chamber of the recycling machine and come out a new you

I did But to date, I don't think my recycling has turned out quite right. I go through the career recycling plant, but I never come out one entirely new career person

I'm like the 1976 Continental that sports the side curtains, running boards, and fender skirts of his various ancestors of the Ford family I too repeatedly bear signs of my past careers I've maintained my bookkeeper's hand that put me through college, my school teacher's head that launched my first formal career the heart of a wife and mother that keeps all other careers in proper perspective, the two left feet that trip me up every time I consider expanding my endeavors in the field of farming and ranching, and the frazzledy hairs of wild notions to turn craftsperson, writer and poet

After careful analysis of the situation, I have decided that my problem lies in reversion to past occupations According to the theory of evolution, I will never lose that second left foot as long as I continue to use it. But how can I say "no" when I'm the only substitute teacher in town who isn't booked up for the day and 30 charging first graders would be at the mercy of their harassed principal, when the glut of paperwork is threatening to strangle the calculator, wipe out the ledger, and crawl under the office door in hot pursuit, when there is an acute shortage of truck drivers at harvest time and a bumper crop of ripened wheat stands patiently by in the fields, or one more hand is needed for cattle branding?

To all of you I send my good wishes for a bright and challenging new career. For myself, after considering my present state of affairs, perhaps I should postpone my dreams of becoming a great courtroom lawyer, the first woman president and a stock car driver

Can you imagine my predicament if a gavel replaced my one good hand, if the cares of the world weighed heavily on my family type heart, and an accelerator dangled from my extra left foot? Already I'm a jack of all trades and master of none Well, maybe two or three or . .

U.S. Not Worth Seasickness

LONDON (AP) — A 16-year-old English girl tried to stow away aboard a U S Coast Guard icebreaker over the weekend after one of the ship's young sailors told her how exciting life was in America

Ann Millear's adventure lasted just 12 hours under the canvas of a lifeboat on the icebreaker Westwind She quickly became seasick and gave herself up

I wanted to go to America because I could not get a job here Ann said Sunday She chose the Westwinds after meeting some of the crew at a discotheque in Bristol, the English port where she lives

She took one of the crew home to meet her parents "a pleasant young man of 19 or 20," said her father Gordon Millear "He talked all about life in America and made it sound very exciting "

The ship which had been on a courtesy visit in Bristol, sent Ann ashore to a port in South Wales

It was awful, ' she told reporters

Sometimes Children Need Pals

By J. L. SCHMIDT
Star Staff Writer

"Sometimes we don't know how hungry and lonely children are." — Louise Shuman.

Louise Shuman is a pal.

A pal to the students she deals with every day as a student services counselor at Pershing School, 6402 Judson. In addition to her work with the schools, she is also a coordinator of area leaders for the Lincoln YMCA Y-Pals program.

Y-Pals is a project designed to fight the hunger and loneliness which Mrs. Shuman and other counselors see every day. Originated in 1970, with a myriad of sponsors through the years, the program has been providing pals for countless youngsters identified as being on the brink of trouble.

Mrs. Shuman isn't alone. Y-Pals is expected to serve at least 200 youngsters by the end of the year, most of them working in one-on-one situations with another 200 volunteers, according to Associate Coordinator Lee Anne Zaroban.

Other student services personnel also work as area leaders, coordinating the activities of the Y-Pal client and volunteer.

"Therie is a vital link in the program," Mrs. Zaroban said. "They know most of the students quite well and can often provide volunteers with essential information."

The counselors try to identify youngsters they feel might have problems with their total "family picture," Mrs. Shuman said. Sometimes it's the lack of a father, or a mother, in the household. Other times it's just a lack of tender loving care.

There are no negative vibrations from the program. "It's sort of neat to have a pal," Mrs. Shuman added.

Frances Kounovsky, a student counselor at Clinton School, 1520 N. 29th, said, "We have a lot of students tell others about the benefit of the program. We get a lot of self-referrals that way."

Counselor Marilyn Kermmoade of Belmont School, 3425 N. 14th, said that parents have adopted a positive attitude about the program.

"We try to work with them and explain what we're doing in the program. We have to get their approval," she said.

Just what do the students and their pals do?

For nine months of the year the volunteer is required to have a personal contact with the student at least once a week, Ms. Zaroban explained. What they do when they're together varies . . . but the counselors urge that they do things that don't require too much expense.

"Some of our pals come out to the school and have lunch with their students," Mrs. Kermoade said, adding "but most don't limit it to that."

One volunteer has worked with the same child for five years. Two brothers have been assigned to a family of volunteers. A brother and sister are both assigned to a young couple.

"When the couple suggested that they all go to a show, or something," Ms. Zaroban said, "the kids opted for going to the couple's house and playing games.

"Sometimes seeing a man and woman interact properly, with respect, love and mutual understanding is more helpful for the students," she added.

Y-Pals works beautifully in the mesh of a students' school day activities, Mrs. Shuman said. Combined with such programs as positive peer counseling, it rounds out a complete menu of student services.

Sometimes confidentiality is the key. The pals have to know what's going on, but they have to know how to keep secrets, too.

"They can't tell us everything they know," Mrs. Shuman adds.

The YMCA provides quarterly activities for the pals and their charges. Halloween and Christmas parties are high on that activity list, but summer outings to Camp Kitaki in Cass County also provide a bright spot in their lives.

The Y also provides the necessary counseling for the volunteers. A training session is mandatory, and is usually taught by some university faculty member from the field of child psychology or education.

There is no age limit for volunteers. They range from junior high, through college age, young marrieds and even "a few who are in their 40's and 50's," Ms. Zaroban said.

All that's really important, outside of the training, is that they work with the area counselors.

One thing all the counselors agree on, it makes for quite a full day, when combined with regular school chores.

Mrs. Kermmoade said, "The administration, from the building level on up, have all been very cooperative of our situation. They've allowed us to handle this as part of our regular day."

Other school personnel involved include Dorothy Fowler of Prescott School, Jan Maser of Pyrtle School and Florence McGonagle of McPhee School. Mrs. Nina Anderson serves as assistant liaison officer with the program.

Opening lead — queen of diamonds.

The stepping-stone squeeze is a scary term for a relatively simple play. Here is an example of such a play, where South got to six spades and West led the queen of diamonds.

From declarer's viewpoint, there seemed to be no doubt that the lead was a singleton, so he decided to base all his subsequent plays on the assumption that East not only had the 9-7-4-3 of diamonds but also the A-K of hearts.

Accordingly, South took the queen of diamonds with the king, played the queen of clubs to the ace and ruffed a club with the ten. He then played the A-K-J-9-8 of spades, producing this five-card position:

When South led the three of spades, discarding a heart from dummy, East, who could not afford to part with a diamond, discarded the king of hearts. Declarer thereupon cashed the ten of diamonds, exited with the queen of hearts, and in that way scored the last two tricks with the A-J of diamonds to bring home the slam.

Declarer was of course lucky to find East with the A-K of hearts, which in turn paved the way to a successful stepping-stone squeeze. But the fact is that the opening lead made the actual diamond position virtually certain and left South with no better alternative than to play East for the A-K of hearts.

Doctors Aren't All Rich

DEAR ABBY: I am getting tired of hearing people say how "rich" doctors are.

IF a doctor collected everything owed him he might be but he doesn't. How many people pay cash for a doctor's visit? Yet those same people pay cash for their gasoline, the food they put on their tables and their entertainment. And they pay their gas, electric and telephone bills within 30 days or else! Same for their house, car and insurance payments. But for some reason, the doctor is the last one paid — if ever.

A doctor's hours are unbelievable. He gets up at 6, is at the hospital by 7 to see his patients (or operate), then goes to his office to see patients all day. Often he stops at the hospital again to check on patients and doesn't get home for dinner until 8 p.m. And don't forget those "emergencies" at all hours of the night to interrupt his sleep.

A doctor pays a hefty income tax and another large chunk goes for malpractice insurance. I'm not saying there aren't doctors who care more about money than serving humanity, but you'll find mercenaries in all professions.

Abby, I hope you're big enough to print this in rebuttal to the letter from that clown who took a potshot at doctors.

A DOCTOR'S SECRETARY

DEAR SECRETARY: I am and I will. (P.S. Although your letter referred to doctors in the masculine, let's acknowledge that there are many women physicians, too.)

Major Itemizes Accusations In Letter

By The Associated Press

Maj. Robert J. Van Valkenburg, focal point in a Nebraska Army National Guard controversy, charges that senior officers tried to curb his career by manipulating efficiency reports, prejudice, conspiracy and even "blackmail."

Those and other charges were contained in a letter from the major to Adj. Gen. Francis L. Winner, head of the state guard, dated July 21 and disclosed through documents compiled by staff of the Unicameral's Government and Military Affairs Committee.

The committee currently is conducting an interim study of the guard, including its policies and the recruitment-retention problem.

Van Valkenburg was slated to testify to that committee Monday, but declined on advice of counsel because he faces a guard hearing on possible forced retirement for cause.

The letter to Winner dealt with refusal of Van Valkenburg's request to attend a training school July 25 through Aug. 6.

"Certainly," Van Valkenburg wrote, "you must recall all of the difficulties I had concerning my promotion to the grade of major; the obstacles were numerous.

"They included, among others, personal prejudice resulting from my not 'politicking' for another person to be adjutant general of Nebraska, senior officers manipulating my officer efficiency reports, as well as a clear cut conspiracy entered into by certain high ranking officers to minimize my professional development as an officer."

In another section of the seven-page letter, the major said he was told once by his immediate military supervisor that he could complete Command in General Staff college if he would then resign from the Nebraska National Guard.

"While I may indeed give strong consideration, upon completion of the Command in General Staff college, to the merits of transferring to another reserve component, 'blackmail' tactics are uncalled for and inappropriate," the major wrote.

Van Valkenburg also lodged other allegations against the unnamed officers:

—"Among these things were the emphasis on sexual promiscuity as a requisite for admission into the 'elite circle' of those who at that time (1973 and before) essentially controlled the Army National Guard (in Nebraska).

—"Further, the emphasis placed upon being 'one of the boys' when it came to participating in the drunkenness and hijinks of that group ..."

Van Valkenburg charged other misconduct:

—"Printing personal material on state-owned printing presses (which) is forbidden by rules if not by laws.

—"Transporting unauthorized passengers in National Guard aircraft is clearly a breach of regulations."

Van Valkenburg, whose hearing on forced retirement for cause is scheduled before Winner Thursday, said in the letter he doesn't question the adjutant general's own conduct.

But, he wrote: "I am personally concerned over the immense power placed in the hands of certain individuals who have from time to time in my opinion taken an undue liberty in the use thereof."

Van Valkenburg said in the letter that he applied for the training session slated for late July and early August through Col. John J. Siefkes, command and administrative assistant, but was turned down.

Siefkes and Van Valkenburg have exchanged verbal barbs publicly in recent weeks, with the colonel quoted as calling the major a "bad apple." Van Valkenburg allegedly said a public airing of the issue would reveal who actually was the bad apple.

Hospital Chief Resigns After Board Request

Omaha (UPI) — The chairman of Immanuel Hospital's Board of Directors said Tuesday the board requested and has received the resignation of its chief executive officer.

Riley M. Green Jr., who has held the post since 1973, said he would have no comment on the apparent dispute with the board.

Eideam said Hans Link, the hospital's assistant administrator in charge of financial matters, has been named interim chief executive officer.

Eidam said Immanuel "is operating strongly in the black. We are in a strong financial position."

He said Green was a "very capable and technical hospital administrator."

"I believe the view of the board is that he was not as capable in community relations," Eidam said. He declined to elaborate.

Eidam said a search committee has been formed to select Green's successor.

Overcharges May Cause Suit

Hastings (AP) — The attorney for a Hastings woman who was overcharged utility rates for almost 10 years said Monday a class action suit may be filed against the Hastings Utilities on behalf of other customers who have been overcharged.

Attorney Ron Fitzke, who represents Mrs. Bernice Smith, said the failure of the utilities to offer rebates on overcharges to customers who have been overcharged or to collect undercharges makes the utilities negligent.

Fitzke said it is not known how many people and how much money is involved.

Utilities manager Lee Blocker said it would be difficult for the utilities to determine the errors it has made over the years and he said he fears customers would try to falsify charges to obtain rebates.

Mrs. Smith was charged commercial rates for her home from 1956 until last spring when the overcharge was discovered, but no rebate has been made on the overcharges.

Cinema 16 Attorney Asks Second Trail Or Reversal

The attorney for Omaha's Cinema 16 theater Tuesday asked the Nebraska Supreme Court for a new trial on city obscenity charges or a reversal of the convictions.

Attorney Walter J. Matejka of Omaha told the supreme court in a written brief Douglas County District Court could not have reached a valid decision in reviewing a ruling appealed to it from the Omaha Municipal Court.

The municipal court, in a jury trial, found the theater guilty of two counts of showing an oscene movie and one count of selling obscene literature. The court levied a fine of $1,000 on each of the three counts.

The case was then appealed to the district court for review.

Matejka said the district court never did get the instructions the municipal judge gave to the jury for review purposes. Nor, he said, did the review court get the docket sheet from the lower court.

Political Motives Said Behind Lincoln Alliance Tax Questions

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

A visit by Lincoln Alliance members to the Tuesday County Board meeting "was a political move," said County Assessor Fritz Meyer.

Meyer answered questions about the county's reassessment process during the Tuesday meeting, then invited Alliance members to come to his office to see how the appraisal update worked.

"The way the questions were put you could tell it was political. If these people were really interested in the appraisal process they would have come to the appraiser's office and visited me," said Meyer after the meeting.

When asked what the group's political aim might be, Meyer replied with another question. "Who's running for office in this building?" implying that the group was supporting Commissioner Jan Gauger in her bid for re-election.

Alliance members emphatically denied that their visit to the County Board meeting was political or that they were supporting any candidate.

Alliance representative Coleen Seng said the group was looking into the assessment and taxation process because member organizations listed that area as one of concern.

Armed with typed questions, Alliance members packed the commissioner's hearing room. They received courteous answers from the board and Meyer and then were treated to another round in the verbal battle between the commissioners and the assessor.

The updating of the 1970 appraisal of county property will not be completely finished in time to get on the tax rolls for next year, Meyer told the group.

Valuations on residential and rural property may be finished this year, Meyer said, but he could give no estimate on when the update of commercial property might be completed.

When finished the update should raise property values between 30% and 40%, he said.

But higher property values do not necessarily mean higher taxes. When property values go up, taxing entities (like the county) can lower mill levies, he and the commissioners explained.

Alliance members said they will return to the board meeting next week and asked commissioners and Meyer to give written answers to another set of questions which go into the details of the assessment and taxing process.

But Meyer is balking. "It's absolutely unnecessary for this to come before the board. The board doesn't run the assessors office. If you have any questions about the assessor's office it's on the first floor, the southwest corner," Meyer said, and he promised to verbally answer all "reasonable questions."

The group took him up on the offer and made an appointment to visit the assessor's office next Tuesday before the board meeting.

Carter's State Farm Leader: Dole Redundant

The state chairman for Farmers for Carter Tuesday predicted that Republican vice presidential nominee Robert Dole will offer Nebraska farmers "token promises and a rehash of the same old thing."

Dole will speak at Hastings Wednesday night, and meet with area farm leaders near Grand Island Thursday.

The Republicans will offer farmers "token improvement in farm support," Erv Friehe of McCook predicted.

But anything below the cost of production is "too little and too late," he said.

Major Itemizes Accusations In Letter

By The Associated Press

Maj Robert J Van Valkenburg, focal point in a Nebraska Army National Guard controversy, charges that senior officers tried to curb his career by manipulating efficiency reports, prejudice, conspiracy and even "blackmail"

Those and other charges were contained in a letter from the major to Adj Gen Francis L Winner, head of the state guard, dated July 21 and disclosed through documents compiled by staff of the Unicameral's Government and Military Affairs Committee

The committee currently is conducting an interim study of the guard, including its policies and the recruitment-retention problem

Van Valkenburg was slated to testify to that committee Monday, but declined on advice of counsel because he faces a guard hearing on possible forced retirement for cause

The letter to Winner dealt with refusal of Van Valkenburg's request to attend a training school July 25 through Aug 6

"Certainly," Van Valkenburg wrote, "you must recall all of the difficulties I had concerning my promotion to the grade of major, the obstacles were numerous

"They included, among others, personal prejudice resulting from my not 'politicking' for another person to be adjutant general of Nebraska, senior officers manipulating my officer efficiency reports, as well as a clear cut conspiracy entered into by certain high ranking officers to minimize my professional development as an officer"

In another section of the seven-page letter, the major said he was told once by his immediate military supervisor that he could complete Command in General Staff college if he would then resign from the Nebraska National Guard.

"While I may indeed give strong consideration, upon completion of the Command in General Staff college, to the merits of transferring to another reserve component, 'blackmail' tactics are uncalled for and inappropriate," the major wrote

Van Valkenburg also lodged other allegations against the unnamed officers·

—"Among these things were the emphasis on sexual promiscuity as a requisite for admission into the 'elite circle' of those who at that time (1973 and before) essentially controlled the Army National Guard (in Nebraska)

—"Further, the emphasis placed upon being 'one of the boys' when it came to participating in the drunkenness and hijinks of that group . ."

Van Valkenburg charged other misconduct:

—"Printing personal material on state-owned printing presses (which) is forbidden by rules if not by laws.

—"Transporting unauthorized passengers in National Guard aircraft is clearly a breach of regulations"

Van Valkenburg, whose hearing on forced retirement for cause is scheduled before Winner Thursday, said in the letter he doesn't question the adjutant general's own conduct.

But, he wrote: "I am personally concerned over the immense power placed in the hands of certain individuals who have from time to time in my opinion taken an undue liberty in the use thereof."

Van Valkenburg said in the letter that he applied for the training session slated for late July and early August through Col. John J Siefkes, command and administrative assistant, but was turned down.

Siefkes and Van Valkenburg have exchanged verbal barbs publicly in recent weeks, with the colonel quoted as calling the major a "bad apple." Van Valkenburg allegedly said a public airing of the issue would reveal who actually was the bad apple

Hospital Chief Resigns After Board Request

Omaha (UPI) — The chairman of Immanuel Hospital's Board of Directors said Tuesday the board requested and has received the resignation of its chief executive officer

Riley M Green Jr, who has held the post since 1973, said he would have no comment on the apparent dispute with the board.

Eideam said Hans Link, the hospital's assistant administrator in charge of financial matters, has been named interim chief executive officer

Eidam said Immanuel "is operating strongly in the black We are in a strong financial position"

He said Green was a "very capable and technical hospital administrator"

"I believe the view of the board is that he was not as capable in community relations,' Eidam said He declined to elaborate

Eidam said a search committee has been formed to select Green's successor

Overcharges May Cause Suit

Hastings (AP) — The attorney for a Hastings woman who was overcharged utility rates for almost 10 years said Monday a class action suit may be filed against the Hastings Utilities on behalf of other customers who have been overcharged

Attorney Ron Fitzke, who represents Mrs Bernice Smith, said the failure of the utilities to offer rebates on overcharges to customers who have been overcharged or to collect undercharges makes the utilities negligent

Fitzke said it is not known how many people and how much money is involved

Utilities manager Lee Blocker said it would be difficult for the utilities to determine the errors it has made over the years and he said he fears customers would try to falsify charges to obtain rebates

Mrs Smith was charged commercial rates for her home from 1956 until last spring when the overcharge was discovered, but no rebate has been made on the overcharges

Cinema 16 Attorney Asks Second Trail Or Reversal

The attorney for Omaha's Cinema 16 theater Tuesday asked the Nebraska Supreme Court for a new trial on city obscenity charges or a reversal of the convictions

Attorney Walter J Matejka of Omaha told the supreme court in a written brief Douglas County District Court could not have reached a valid decision in reviewing a ruling appealed to it from the Omaha Municipal Court

The municipal court, in a jury trial, found the theater guilty of two counts of showing an oscene movie and one count of selling obscene literature The court levied a fine of $1,000 on each of the three counts

The case was then appealed to the district court for review

Matejka said the district court never did get the instructions the municipal judge gave to the jury for review purposes Nor he said, did the review court get the docket sheet from the lower court

Farmer's Committees Ask Ag Price Helps

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Fremont — Farmers elected to their local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) committees made a series of recommendations for farm price and income disasters here Tuesday.

"There are two kinds of disasters to a farmer: when he has no crop due to a drought and when he has no price from having too good a crop," a Colfax County farmer said.

Suggestions made by the local committies to state officials will be used in an October meeting with federal officials. Included was a request that loan rates for farm and elevator-stored grains be increased sharply.

Paul Sindt, state ASCS chairman, asked each farmer to make his recommendations on paper. An average price for wheat recommended was $3.00 a bushel for the loan rate, up sharply from the current rate of $1.37 in Nebraska on the average loan.

The farmers also called for a reduction in the interest rate and down payment requirements ASCS now makes on loans for grain storage facilities built on farms.

"It costs double to build a grain bin compared to what it did eight years ago. If we can subsidize home loans we can subsidize grain bin loans too," one farmer said.

A federal recommendation that crop insurance programs take over the job of the federal crop disaster programs was solidly rejected. The farmers asked that the federal crop insurance program be junked and replaced with a much stronger crop disaster program.

The group asked that disaster programs be made uniform for all planted acres rather than being based only on the present system of historical crop allotment data.

The farmers also want the payments to begin when a farmer has a crop that is 20% of his normal production. The payments would be based on a sliding scale from the 20% crop to no crop at all.

Present programs have sometimes had one farmer with a single bushel less yield than his neighbor getting a substantial payment while his neighbor got nothing.

Farmers also want soybeans included in the disaster program which is currently limited to feed grains and wheat.

They also asked that a farmer who operates land owned by more than one land owner be allowed to file a single harvest report, rather than individual reports after harvest on each parcel of land.

They recommended that conservation programs allow county officials to select either long term programs or annual programs or both for federally funded cost-share conservation programs.

The committee will gather recommendations from county committee meetings and from a special educational television program where farmers can phone in recommendations on Oct. 1 at 9 p.m. (C.S.T.).

All recommendations will be taken to federal officials at a regional meeting in early October. Farmers hope these efforts will result in an updating of federal farm programs.

There was agreement that some increase in loan rates on farm stored grains as well as an increase in the target price program could still be announced prior to the election.

"I know they have decided to increase the loan rates, what I don't know is how much," said one federal official who asked not to be identified.

Pesticide Applicator Dispute Reaches No Agreement

An attempt to shed some light on the dispute between State Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood and Glenn Kreuscher, state director of agriculture over State Pesticide Legislation produced considerable heat but very little light and absolutely no agreement at a Nebraska Agricultural Council meeting Tuesday.

At one point in the discussion, Kresucher and Dr. Charles Wempe of York, representing the Nebraska Veterinary Medical Association, engaged in a fairly polite shouting match.

Schmit declared he "will be dragged kicking and screaming all the way to the finish line before I will give in to a federal requirement that the state establish a pesticide inspection program.

Kreuscher warned that he wasn't about to take the blame if the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) cuts off the supply of pesticides to farmers. "I have begged you on my knees to support a state program to manage pesticides so we can use them safely. You people would be the first to come running for help if your chemical supply was cut off," he said.

Wempe described the federally mandated program as "about as useful as a third stirrup on a saddle," managed, he added, by a group of people who "understand agriculture about as well as a sow understands grand opera."

The veterinarians have been angry about restrictions on repackaging pesticides from large containers to smaller ones which they use in helping control fleas on dogs.

Kreuscher told Wempe that the veterinarians "had been warned again and again that this would result in a fine."

Kreuscher warned that "40 states now have an acceptable program with EPA. I don't think you are going to win this fight. If you want a Boston Tea Party it had better be on a broader issue than this one."

Schmit said the real problem in Washington wasn't the crooks but well meaning dummies. "You can get some good legislation out of a crook if you watch him. It is the people who mean well but don't understand agriculture that cause these problems," he said.

Edwin Johnson, deputy assistant administrator to Russel Train, who is head of EPA, managed to restore some calm to the meeting by suggesting that the federal government might establish a program to certify pesticide applicators in Nebraska if the state doesn't.

"We really hadn't given much thought to what we will do. We might register people who come to Kansas City under a federal program. We might permit a farmer or pesticide applicator to be registered in another state or we might establish an office in Lincoln to do it," he said.

"We don't want a program where we would cut off the supply of chemicals. I am not sure what we will do if you don't have a state law acceptable to EPA but we will do something," he said.

UNO Recommends Student President Keep Office

Omaha (AP) — A University of Nebraska-Omaha appeals board recommended Tuesday that student body president Steve Shovers be placed on "disciplinary notice," but be allowed to keep his office.

Shovers, also a student regent, was accused of looking into confidential university files without permission.

The appeals board concluded the Shovers committed a serious violation, but said his disciplinary probation should be tempered because of certain policy statements were not clear.

Disciplinary notice calls for a document showing misconduct to be placed in Shover's permanent file. Further misconduct during the 1976-77 year would lead to Shover's immediate suspension.

UNO chancellor Ronald Roskens directed a committee to determine by Oct. 15 a clear policy involving student behavior and the penalties that can be imposed.

Two Dead After Separate Accidents

By The Associated Press

Two elderly men have died in Nebraska traffic accidents, one in Beatrice and the other south of Wisner.

The State Patrol said the victims were Merle E. Graiss, 71, of Beatrice and Chester Kohlrusch, 70, of Shakopee, Minn.

The patrol said Graiss, a pedestrian, was killed in Beatrice Monday evening when he stepped from a curb into the path of a car driven by Roland A. Blobaum, 60, of Beatrice.

Troopers said Kohlrusch died in a two-vehicle collision 7½ miles south of Wisner on a county road Monday.

The report said the car driven by Kohlrusch was going north and was in collision with a southbound vehicle driven by Gary L. Cooper, 26, of Bancroft.

The patrol said Cooper suffered facial lacerations and rib injuries.

Across Nebraska

Ogallala Airport Improvements Due

Ogallala (UPI) — The Ogallala Airport Authority has been given a check for $176,400 to construct and pave a new northwest-southeast taxiway and lighting system at the airport. The check was presented by Henry Wulf of the Nebraska Aeronautics Department as part of an airport improvement grant that will enable the Ogallala Airport to have two paved runways, eliminating the need for a grass northwest-southeast runway. Bids will be let Sept. 29.

Kent Quits Chamber Post

Beatrice (UPI) — Sterling Kent, vice president of the Beatrice Chamber of Commerce, has resigned his post, effective Nov. 1, to become vice president of the Retail Merchants Association of Nebraska. Kent, who moved to Beatrice from Omaha in 1964 to join the chamber staff, replaces N. J. Graham who moves up to director of government relations for the merchants association.

Swifts' Contract Ratified

Grand Island (UPI) — The Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, local 1213, in Grand Island have ratified a proposed three-year contract with Swift and Co., Bob Ditter, local president, said Tuesday. Ditter said 149 of the 225 persons eligible to vote on the new contract ratified the proposal, 81-68.

Bellevue College Debt Retired

Bellevue (UPI) — The Bellevue College Board Tuesday announced the complete retirement of the unsecured debt incurred when the college started 10 years ago. Board chairman Clifton Batchelder of Omaha said the cumulative debt of $40,000 in principal and interest represented the initial commitment of "many community minded citizens and businesses to establish a quality college for quality students in Bellevue."

Surplus Property Sale Slated

The Nebraska Department of Administrative Services will conduct a surplus property sale at 8:30 a.m., Sept. 26, at the Department of Roads Maintenance Yard on U.S. 6 just east of Hastings. Included in the sale will be guard railing and posts, 55 gallon drums, timber of assorted stizes, snow fence, steel beams and other items used along the highway right-of-way.

No Change Expected In Fremont

Fremont (AP) — The role of city personnel in handling natural gas emergency calls probably will not change in Fremont, despite a recommendation from the National Transportation Safety Board.

The board issued 15 recommendations last week to the city, Nebraska Natural Gas Co. and to the Department of Transportation that are aimed at preventing tragedies like the Jan. 10 explosion of the Pathfinder Hotel.

In its 26-page report, the board recommended to Fremont Mayor Arthur L. Peters that the city "re-emphasize to city personnel . . . the importance of helping people who call in to report gas leaks and require that emergency gas company numbers be furnished to the public."

City Administrator Jack Sutton, who noted the mayor and city officials have not yet received the formal report and recommendations released by the board last Wednesday, said the recommendation was nothing new.

He said the police dispatcher received only one call about a gas leak at the hotel Jan. 10, which came at 9:02 a.m., 30 minutes before the blast.

Sutton said the caller was given the gas firm's emergency number, as is standard procedure.

Sutton said it is the responsibility of the caller, not the dispatcher, to contact proper agencies except where emergency personnel are involved.

In its findings, the safety board said the natural gas explosion, which killed 18 persons and injured 39 others, occurred when a section of two-inch plastic pipe pulled away from a coupling after weather caused the pipe to contract. Two other elderly persons who were in the hotel died later and suits filed on their behalf allege their deaths were attributable to the explosion and fire.

DAS Employes' Future Depends On NU—Matzke

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Unless the University of Nebraska cooperates immediately in setting up a state payroll-personnel records system, Stan Matzke said Tuesday, "I will have to relieve approximately 25 people of their jobs come January or February."

Matzke, Nebraska department of administrative services director, said those persons are creating the Nebraska Employes Information System (NEIS) and would continue in associated data processing and accounting posts once it's implemented.

Without NU data before the Jan. 1 deadline and after three years work, Matzke said the forced firings would require him later to rehire people when the problems are resolved and to retrain them, "which will be an additional cost to the state."

Speaking on behalf of NU President D.B. Varner, William C. Erksine said Varner "suggested grounds for achieving some kind of solution to the problem. I'm sure that this recommendation by Sen. (Richard) Marvel will meet with some favor by the president."

Marvel, chairman of the Legislature's Appropriations Committee, wrote Varner last week, reaffirming the panel's position that DAS and NU "get together and work out their differences."

NEIS, the Hastings senator wrote, "was created first in the planning stage, one year prior to the requirements for the NU internal information system" now being developed. "The committee requests (that) DAS and NU comply with the legislative requirements" for both.

The issues involved in the dispute "are not insurmountable," Marvel said, noting it appeared after both sides testified before the committee that "certain options have not been jointly discussed."

Erskine, NU system executive vice president, said he's proposed four options short of full participation to Matzke: Modifying NEIS to accept current payroll data but excluding NU personnel data; or postponing NEIS implementation until a decision on NU's full entry into the system is delivered, presumably by the courts in the authority tug-of-war between NU and the Legislature.

A third option includes implementing NEIS without NU participation and DAS maintaining the separate payroll system, or fourth, with NU running its own payroll-personnel system.

The latter two, Matzke said, "would be next to impossible" with presently available staffs and budgets. He said he'll honor the intent of the law expressing involvement by all state agencies.

DAS is still working to meet the deadline, but even NU joined immediately, he guessed it will be February or March before NEIS will be operational. $1.5 million has been appropriated for the system.

Matzke cited letters and testimony by Varner and NU officials the past three years pledging cooperation with NEIS as a top priority, which he said all other state agencies have given.

Matzke also submitted that NU shouldn't beg off pending a court ruling. "If we wanted to play the same game in a number of our actions with the university, we could ask — as they asked their attorneys — should we continue to cooperate?" he said. "Maybe we could ask the same thing on our (NU) building construction projects."

Invasion of privacy questions and concerns about NEIS-required information on individuals "have been highly exaggerated," Matzke said.

Tech School Budgets Disputed

Nebraska's Technical Community colleges and state budget officials are embroiled in a dispute over the format of the tech schools' budget request, which could lead to rejection of the document Oct. 15.

Alan Moeller, legislative fiscal analyst, testified about the controversy Tuesday at a meeting of the Unicameral committee studying coordination of postsecondary education.

He said Charles Noren, attorney and lobbyist for the two-year colleges, told him and members of the governor's budget staff the format wouldn't follow prescribed guidelines.

The governor's staff in the budget division of the Department of Administrative Services (DAS) issued guidelines for higher education spending requests to seek information that would provide uniformity in college and university spending guides.

John Jacobson, head of the division, acknowledged Moeller's testimony was correct, but said he would await a look at the tech schools' request before deciding whether to refuse to accept it.

Noren was said to have told the budget officials that the two-year schools are local rather than state in nature, according to state law, and their budget informtion therefore is purely voluntary.

Jacobson said because the schools received $13 million this fiscal year in state support, Gov. J. J. Exon's budget staff has the right to seek information in the format prescribed.

State agencies were required to submit their budget requests by Sept. $5, but the tech schools aren't required to have their spending proposals in until Oct. 15.

Be Smarter than the Average Bear

When it comes to energy conservation, a bear shows pretty good sense. He builds up fat and fur in the summer to last him all winter long. Then he hibernates during the winter so that he can save his precious energy.

You have a considerable edge on Mr. Bear. You don't have to hibernate to save energy. With modern heating and cooling technology, you can remain active all year long.

You should, however, be aware of the many ways that you have to conserve energy, so that the generations to come will have the same opportunities that you do.

Your Lincoln Electric System has a handy booklet that gives over 75 energy conservation hints. Stop by the Business Office and we'll be glad to give you a copy.

Ogallala Airport Improvements Due

Ogallala (UPI) — The Ogallala Airport Authority has been given a check for $176,400 to construct and pave a new northwest-southeast taxiway and lighting system at the airport. The check was presented by Henry Wulf of the Nebraska Aeronautics Department as part of an airport improvement grant that will enable the Ogallala Airport to have two paved runways, eliminating the need for a grass northwest-southeast runway. Bids will be let Sept. 29.

Kent Quits Chamber Post

Beatrice (UPI) — Sterling Kent, vice president of the Beatrice Chamber of Commerce, has resigned his post, effective Nov. 1, to become vice president of the Retail Merchants Association of Nebraska. Kent, who moved to Beatrice from Omaha in 1964 to join the chamber staff, replaces N. J. Graham who moves up to director of government relations for the merchants association.

Swifts' Contract Ratified

Grand Island (UPI) — The Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, local 1213, in Grand Island have ratified a proposed three-year contract with Swift and Co., Bob Ditter, local president, said Tuesday. Ditter said 149 of the 225 persons eligible to vote on the new contract ratified the proposal, 81-68.

Bellevue College Debt Retired

Bellevue (UPI) — The Bellevue College Board Tuesday announced the complete retirement of the unsecured debt incurred when the college started 10 years ago. Board chairman Clifton Batchelder of Omaha said the cumulative debt of $40,000 in principal and interest represented the initial commitment of "many community minded citizens and businesses to establish a quality college for quality students in Bellevue."

Surplus Property Sale Slated

The Nebraska Department of Administrative Services will conduct a surplus property sale at 8:30 a.m., Sept. 26, at the Department of Roads Maintenance Yard on U.S. 6 just east of Hastings. Included in the sale will be guard railing and posts, 55 gallon drums, timber of assorted stizes, snow fence, steel beams and other items used along the highway right-of-way.

No Change Expected In Fremont

Fremont (AP) — The role of city personnel in handling natural gas emergency calls probably will not change in Fremont, despite a recommendation from the National Transportation Safety Board.

The board issued 15 recommendations last week to the city, Nebraska Natural Gas Co. and to the Department of Transportation that are aimed at preventing tragedies like the Jan. 10 explosion of the Pathfinder Hotel.

In its 26-page report, the board recommended to Fremont Mayor Arthur L. Peters that the city "re-emphasize to city personnel . . . the importance of helping people who call in to report gas leaks and require that emergency gas company numbers be furnished to the public."

City Administrator Jack Sutton, who noted the mayor and city officials have not yet received the formal report and recommendations released by the board last Wednesday, said the recommendation was nothing new.

He said the police dispatcher received only one call about a gas leak at the hotel Jan. 10, which came at 9:02 a.m., 30 minutes before the blast.

Sutton said the caller was given the gas firm's emergency number, as is standard procedure.

Sutton said it is the responsibility of the caller, not the dispatcher, to contact proper agencies except where emergency personnel are involved.

In its findings, the safety board said the natural gas explosion, which killed 18 persons and injured 39 others, occurred when a section of two-inch plastic pipe pulled away from a coupling after weather caused the pipe to contract. Two other elderly persons who were in the hotel died later and suits filed on their behalf allege their deaths were attributable to the explosion and fire.

Court Ruling On Santee School Sought

Center (AP) — A group of Knox County taxpayers who want a school district serving the Santee Indian Reservation dissolved will have to wait for a court ruling.

The group asked the county school superintendent to dissolve the last Class 1 kindergarten to eighth grade school district remaining in the county and merge it with either the Niobrara or Bloomfield district.

However, Supt. Ed Lundak said the request involves so many complex issues that he will seek a court opinion on the matter.

The five taxpayers argue he has authority to dissolve the district, but Lundak isn't so sure. Superintendents at Bloomfield, Niobrara and Santee oppose dissolution.

More than a year ago, five Class 1 districts operated in Knox County. Residents in the districts shared the cost of tuition for 25 Indian students who attended high school at Niobrara, because their district had no high school. Currently there are 20 Indian students attending the Niobrara High School.

But when the state permitted four of the districts to consolidate with larger ones, the Santee District C-5 residents were left to pay the full amount. When the next year's proposed mill levy was computed, C-5 residents learned they would pay 158 mills just for the school, more than four times the amount of the previous year.

So the district's six largest landowners, James T. Goetz, William Mayberry, Howard Mayberr, Jean Jessen, Alice Goetż and Max W. Goetz, petitioned the county superintendent to close the district to ease the tax burden.

Max W. Goetz, a Hartington landowner, contends the superintendent has authority to dissolve the district under Nebraska law.

Goetz said if the federal government reduces the size of a district by using its land for defense, flood control, war projects or irrigation, state law authorizes the superintendent to dissolve it.

The government bought 2,823 acres of Knox County land for Lewis and Clark Lake in 1955-56 and last year purchased an additional 1,900 acres for use by reservation Indians, he said.

But Santee Supt. Brad Bowker said a new $2.2 million elementary school, built with federal funds, opened this school year. If the district dissolves, the building and the students would become the responsibility of either the Niobrara or Bloomfield district, causing the busing of 100 Santee students unless the school was used as an attendance center.

Immigrants Generally Satisifed

Swiss immigrants in Nebraska are generally satisfied with their accomplishments in the U.S., according to a survey by W. E. Kuhn, University of Nebrska-Lincoln economics professor.

Of the 23 immigrants responding to the survey, however, about half of them, most living in the eastern third of Nebraska, chose to remain Swiss citizens only. Reasons for not obtaining U.S. citizenship ranged from a woman who worried about the possibility of U.S. European war and a man who was bothered by the "oath of allegiance."

According to Kuhn's survey, the majority of the 10 who did become U.S. citizens apparently faced no dilemma in arriving at their decision. Only a minority seemed to have trouble dealing with a sense of divided loyalty.

As for Swiss-American relations, almost half indicated these relations need improvement on a personal rather than political level. They cited a lack of education about Switzerland as the main cause. Over two-thirds said, however, that they had not been discriminated against either because they spoke English with a Swiss accent or because they had not become American citizens.

Although most of the immigrants said they were satisfied with their life in the U.S., about two-thirds indicated they had plans for visiting Switzerland and about half said they would prefer spending their retirement years in their native country.

The Swiss school system was preferred over the U.S. educational system by 10 of the 23 surveyed. Better the reasons given. One woman said she prefered the Swiss system because of its emphasis on the basics, not the extracurricular activities.

Kuhn, a native Swiss who came to the U.S. in 1947 as a exchange student, has taught in various schools in the U.S. since 1949. He became an American citizen in 1955.

Omaha Firm Told To Get Buses Going

Omaha (AP) — An Omaha School Board member has told City School Bus Service to resume parent-pay bus routes or halt operations.

Charles A. Peters told bus company representatives Monday he would back any effort to replace the bus service unless the parent-pay routes are started immediately.

Several board members at a committee meeting said the Omaha School District is being blamed for the bus firm's decision to delay private service to some 2,400 children because of a driver shortage.

Peters said it was "virtually immoral" for the bus firm to stop the parent-pay routes after promising last spring to give superior service.

Dean Parker, vice president of ARA, parent firm of the bus service, said the company originally planned to handle only the intergration busing. He said the parent-pay routes were "inherited" when the company bought Keystone Bus Lines July 30.

Parker said ARA bought Keystone because it was difficult to find another facility to house and service a large number of buses.

He said the decision to stop the parent-pay routes was "the hardest thing I've ever done," and he doesn't blame parents for being upset.

Omaha District OKd For Grant

Washington (AP) — The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare gave the Omaha School District a boost in its desegregation efforts Tuesday by approving a $686,237 emergency school aid grant.

The money will be used to upgrade the quality of those schools which currently fall below standards and to assist in the reduction or elimination of minority group isolation through supplemental and speciality reading materials, officials said.

7 States Send 4,592 Entries To Ak-Sar-Ben

Omaha (UPI) — Ak-Sar-Ben said Tuesday a record 2,421 exhibitors from seven states have entered the 49th edition of the world's largest 4-H livestock exhibition opening Friay on the Ak-Sar-Ben grounds in conjunction with the Ak-Sar-Ben World Champion Rodeo.

Ak-Sar-Ben said exhibitors from Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas, Missouri, South Dakota and Illinois will bring 4,592 entries to complete in eight livestock divisions plus the 4-H light horse competition.

Combined livestock and horse show entries prior to the show's opening are down from the record 4,620 a year ago. However, Ak-Sar-Ben said the 3,536 livestock entries are up from 1975, and the 1,247 market steer entries represent a 12% increase over last year.

Nebraska will send the largest delegation of 4-H exhibitors to Ak-Sar-Ben with 1,017, but Iowa represents the biggest increase of any state with 522 exhibitors, 22% more than 1975.

An Ak-Sar-Ben spokesman said the increase in market steer entries was probably due to recent successful beef sales at the Ak-Sar-Ben show plus a general stabilization in market prices which has influenced more 4-Hers not to sell their animals.

The livestock show continues through Friday, Oct. 1, with the rodeo performances scheduled through Saturday, Oct. 2.

DAS Employes' Future Depends On NU—Matzke

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Unless the University of Nebraska cooperates immediately in setting up a state payroll-personnel records system, Stan Matzke said Tuesday, "I will have to relieve approximately 25 people of their jobs come January or February."

Matzke, Nebraska department of administrative services director, said those persons are creating the Nebraska Employes Information System (NEIS) and would continue in associated data processing and accounting posts once it's implemented.

Without NU data before the Jan. 1 deadline and after three years work, Matzke said the forced firings would require him later to rehire people when the problems are resolved and to retrain them, "which will be an additional cost to the state."

Speaking on behalf of NU President D.B. Varner, William C. Erksine said Varner "suggested grounds for achieving some kind of solution to the problem. I'm sure that this recommendation by Sen. (Richard) Marvel will meet with some favor by the president."

Marvel, chairman of the Legislature's Appropriations Committee, wrote Varner last week, reaffirming the panel's position that DAS and NU "get together and work out their differences."

NEIS, the Hastings senator wrote, "was created first in the planning stage, one year prior to the requirements for the NU internal information system" now being developed. "The committee requests (that) DAS and NU comply with the legislative requirements" for both.

The issues involved in the dispute "are not insurmountable," Marvel said, noting it appeared after both sides testified before the committee that "certain options have not been jointly discussed."

Erskine, NU system executive vice president, said he's proposed four options short of full participation to Matzke: Modifying NEIS to accept current payroll data but excluding NU personnel data; or postponing NEIS implementation until a decision on NU's full entry into the system is delivered, presumably by the courts in the authority tug-of-war between NU and the Legislature.

A third option includes implementing NEIS without NU participation and DAS maintaining the separate payroll system, or fourth, with NU running its own payroll-personnel system.

The latter two, Matzke said, "would be next to impossible" with presently available staffs and budgets. He said he'll honor the intent of the law expressing involvement by all state agencies.

DAS is still working to meet the deadline, but even NU joined immediately, he guessed it will be February or March before NEIS will be operational. $1.5 million has been appropriated for the system.

Matzke cited letters and testimony by Varner and NU officials the past three years pledging cooperation with NEIS as a top priority, which he said all other state agencies have given.

Matzke also submitted that NU shouldn't beg off pending a court ruling. "If we wanted to play the same game in a number of our actions with the university, we could ask — as they asked their attorneys — should we continue to cooperate?" he said. "Maybe we could ask the same thing on our (NU) building construction projects."

Invasion of privacy questions and concerns about NEIS-required information on individuals "have been highly exaggerated," Matzke said.

Tech School Budgets Disputed

Nebraska's Technical Community colleges and state budget officials are embroiled in a dispute over the format of the tech schools' budget request, which could lead to rejection of the document Oct. 15.

Alan Moeller, legislative fiscal analyst, testified about the controversy Tuesday at a meeting of the Unicameral committee studying coordination of postsecondary education.

He said Charles Noren, attorney and lobbyist for the two-year colleges, told him and members of the governor's budget staff the format wouldn't follow prescribed guidelines.

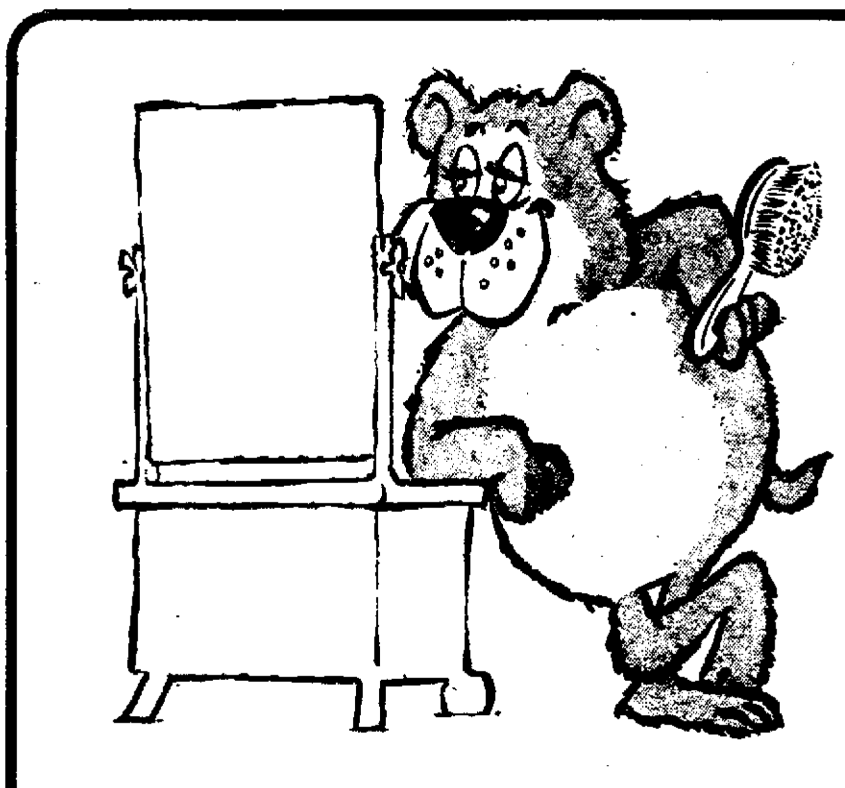
The governor's staff in the budget division of the Department of Administrative Services (DAS) issued guidelines for higher education spending requests to seek information that would provide uniformity in college and university spending guides.

John Jacobson, head of the division, acknowledged Moeller's testimony was correct, but said he would await a look at the tech schools' request before deciding whether to refuse to accept it.

Noren was said to have told the budget officials that the two-year schools are local rather than state in nature, according to state law, and their budget informtion therefore is purely voluntary.

Jacobson said because the schools received $13 million this fiscal year in state support, Gov. J. J. Exon's budget staff has the right to seek information in the format prescribed.

State agencies were required to submit their budget requests by Sept. $5, but the tech schools aren't required to have their spending proposals in until Oct. 15.



Be Smarter than the Average Bear

When it comes to energy conservation, a bear shows pretty good sense. He builds up fat and fur in the summer to last him all winter long. Then he hibernates during the winter so that he can save his precious energy.

You have a considerable edge on Mr. Bear. You don't have to hibernate to save energy. With modern heating and cooling technology, you can remain active all year long.

You should, however, be aware of the many ways that you have to conserve energy, so that the generations to come will have the same opportunities that you do.

Your Lincoln Electric System has a handy booklet that gives over 75 energy conservation hints. Stop by the Business Office and we'll be glad to give you a copy.

WHY GEDNEY'S GOOD, OLD-FASHIONED PICKLES ARE BECOMING A NEBRASKA FAVORITE

Back in 1881, our good, old-fashioned recipe called for natural herbs and spices.

It still does.

We figure you just can't improve on the mouth-watering goodness of natural ingredients.

That's why we're still packing Gedney Pickles the way nature intended.

With plenty of honest, grown-in-the-ground herbs and spices.

Measured out by time-tested family recipes that've pleased the palates of Midwest pickle lovers for the better part of a hundred years.

Back in 1881, our pickles didn't have artificial color in'em.

They still don't.

We're here to tell you, nothing beats feasting your eyes on a fresh, home-grown cucumber.

And for sure, nothing beats its taste.

That's why we're still packing Gedney Pickles with nothing but wholesome, natural ingredients.

And none of that artificial food color you're hearing so much about nowadays.

Back in 1881, our good, old-fashioned pickles were home-grown on family farms.

They still are.

Every year, we distribute our very special seeds to nearly 3,000 farmers, here in the Midwest.

Most of'em never plant more than an acre or so at a time.

That's because Gedney wants their crops tended to real close.

And we want'em hand-harvested, too.

Because hand-harvesting prevents bumps and cuts and bruises.

And preserves Gedney's firm, crispy pickle crunch.

You can choose Gedney goodness in just about any flavor that tickles your taste buds.

From pantry sweets to pickled beets. From peppers to Polish dills.

We changed our packaging a bit since we first started out, with a new wide-mouth easy-out jar.

But when it comes to goodness, you can bet we haven't changed a thing.

So look us up at your favorite grocers.

At Gedney, the goodness still comes naturally.

Court Ruling On Santee School Sought

Center (AP) — A group of Knox County taxpayers who want a school district serving the Santee Indian Reservation dissolved will have to wait for a court ruling.

The group asked the county school superintendent to dissolve the last Class 1 kindergarten to eighth grade school district remaining in the county and merge it with either the Niobrara or Bloomfield district.

However, Supt. Ed Lundak said the request involves so many complex issues that he will seek a court opinion on the matter.

The five taxpayers argue he has authority to dissolve the district, but Lundak isn't so sure. Superintendents at Bloomfield, Niobrara and Santee oppose dissolution.

More than a year ago, five Class 1 districts operated in Knox County. Residents in the districts shared the cost of tuition for 25 Indian students who attended high school at Niobrara, because their district had no high school. Currently there are 20 Indian students attending the Niobrara High School.

But when the state permitted four of the districts to consolidate with larger ones, the Santee District C-5 residents were left to pay the full amount. When the next year's proposed mill levy was computed, C-5 residents learned they would pay 158 mills just for the school, more than four times the amount of the previous year.

So the district's six largest landowners, James T. Goetz, William Mayberry, Howard Mayberr, Jean Jessen, Alice Goetz and Max W. Goetz, petitioned the county superintendent to close the district to ease the tax burden.

Max W. Goetz, a Hartington landowner, contends the superintendent has authority to dissolve the district under Nebraska law.

Goetz said if the federal government reduces the size of a district by using its land for defense, flood control, war projects or irrigation, state law authorizes the superintendent to dissolve it.

The government bought 2,623 acres of Knox County land for Lewis and Clark Lake in 1955-56 and last year purchased an additional 1,900 acres for use by reservation Indians, he said.

But Santee Supt. Brad Bowker said a new $2.2 million elementary school, built with federal funds, opened this school year. If the district dissolves, the building and the students would become the responsibility of either the Niobrara or Bloomfield district, causing the busing of 100 Santee students unless the school was used as an attendance center.

Immigrants Generally Satisifed

Swiss immigrants in Nebraska are generally satisfied with their accomplishments in the U.S., according to a survey by W. E. Kuhn, University of Nebrska-Lincoln economics professor.

Of the 23 immigrants responding to the survey, however, about half of them, most living in the eastern third of Nebraska, chose to remain Swiss citizens only. Reasons for not obtaining U.S. citizenship ranged from a woman who worried about the possibility of U.S. European war and a man who was bothered by the "oath of allegiance."

According to Kuhn's survey, the majority of the 10 who did become U.S. citizens apparently faced no dilemma in arriving at their decision. Only a minority seemed to have trouble dealing with a sense of divided loyalty.

As for Swiss-American relations, almost half indicated these relations need improvement on a personal rather than political level. They cited a lack of education about Switzerland as the main cause. Over two-thirds said, however, that they had not been discriminated against either because they spoke English with a Swiss accent or because they had not become American citizens.

Although most of the immigrants said they were satisfied with their life in the U.S., about two-thirds indicated they had plans for visiting Switzerland and about half said they would prefer spending their retirement years in their native country.

The Swiss school system was preferred over the U.S. educational system by 10 of the 23 surveyed. Better the reasons given. One woman said she prefered the Swiss system because of its emphasis on the basics, not the extracurricular activities.

Kuhn, a native Swiss who came to the U.S. in 1947 as a exchange student, has taught in various schools in the U.S. since 1949 He became an American citizen in 1955.

Omaha Firm Told To Get Buses Going

Omaha (AP) — An Omaha School Board member has told City School Bus Service to resume parent-pay bus routes or halt operations.

Charles A. Peters told bus company respresentatives Monday he would back any effort to replace the bus service unless the parent-pay routes are started immediately.

Several board members at a committee meeting said the Omaha School District is being blamed for the bus firm's decision to delay private service to some 2,400 children because of a driver shortage.

Peters said it was "virtually immoral" for the bus firm to stop the parent-pay routes after promising last spring to give superior service.

Dean Parker, vice president of ARA, parent firm of the bus service, said the company originally planned to handle only the intergration busing. He said the parent-pay routes were "inherited" when the company bought Keystone Bus Lines July 30.

Parker said ARA bought Keystone because it was difficult to find another facility to house and service a large number of buses.

He said the decision to stop the parent-pay routes was "the hardest thing I've ever done," and he doesn't blame parents for being upset.

Omaha District OKd For Grant

Washington (AP) — The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare gave the Omaha School District a boost in its desegregation efforts Tuesday by approving a $686,237 emergency school aid grant.

The money will be used to upgrade the quality of those schools which currently fall below standards and to assist in the reduction or elimination of minority group isolation through supplemental and speciality reading materials, officials said.

7 States Send 4,592 Entries To Ak-Sar-Ben

Omaha (UPI) — Ak-Sar-Ben said Tuesday a record 2,421 exhibitors from seven states have entered the 49th edition of the world's largest 4-H livestock exhibition opening Friay on the Ak-Sar-Ben grounds in conjunction with the Ak-Sar-Ben World Champion Rodeo.

Ak-Sar-Ben said exhibitors from Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas, Missouri, South Dakota and Illinois will bring 4,592 entries to complete in eight livestock divisions plus the 4-H light horse competition.

Combined livestock and horse show entries prior to the show's opening are down from the record 4,620 a year ago. However, Ak-Sar-Ben said the 3,536 livestock entries are up from 1975, and the 1,247 market steer entries represent a 12% increase over last year

Nebraska will send the largest delegation of 4-H exhibitors to Ak-Sar-Ben with 1,017, but Iowa represents the biggest increase of any state with 522 exhibitors, 22% more than 1975.

An Ak-Sar-Ben spokesman said the increase in market steer entries was probably due to recent successful beef sales at the Ak-Sar-Ben show plus a general stabilization in market prices which has influenced more 4-Hers not to sell their animals.

The livestock show continues through Friday, Oct. 1, with the rodeo performances scheduled through Saturday, Oct. 2.

Pioneer Opponents Will Appeal Ruling

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Opponents of the Pioneer Airways application to operate a southern Nebraska commuter service will appeal to the State Supreme Court a ruling by the Public Service Commission that it has jurisdiction in the matter.

PSF staff attorney Adrian Fiala said Grand Island City Atty. Michael Kelley on Tuesday filed with the commission a notice of intent to appeal its August decision.

Kelley represents some of the nine communities Pioneer proposes to serve, their airport authorities and the Southern Route Commission. They claim the PSC has no authority to grant operation start-up for the Denver aviation firm with its envisioned Colorado interstate link.

The PSC decided it has intrastate authority only for Pioneer's entry into the field and rate-setting, based on precedents, case law and rulings by commissions in other states. Moreover, as an air taxi service, Pioneer is exempt from federal regulations.

Meanwhile, Star Aviation Inc., also of Denver, filed two applications this week with the PSC to operate a Panhandle route serving Chadron, Alliance and Sidney, and a southern route for Omaha, Lincoln, Columbus, Kearney, Hastings and McCook. Pioneer would fly passengers, mail and freight to the same towns plus Scottsbluff.

Other firms — such as Air Wisconsin — have expressed interest but only Pioneer and Star have filed scheduled-service air carrier applications in effect to replace most Frontier Airlines runs.

Fiala said the main question now is whether the PSC has jurisdiction to continue Pioneer hearings during a pending appeal. Pioneer had a full day before commissioners and another public session is set Oct. 16 in Kearney.

A Supreme Court appeal could delay proceedings at least six months, but the exact result isn't known yet, Fiala said.

Staff attorney James Paine said he first thought the PSC order on Pioneer wasn't appealable "but it appears that it is." Even if the PSC determines an appeal is questionable, he suggested not contesting it because "it would settle a great deal of law in aeronautics regarding this commission."

Fiala said his initial gut reaction is that an appeal would temporarily remove the matter from PSC consideration during the disposition period. PSC Chairman Duane Gay of Columbus said, "This is a very vague area and the guy (Kelley) has got a legitimate question that he's raised."

Commissioners posed asking the state attorney general for advice, but Fiala said that office is "riding both benches right now" as a party of record.

Gay said it's his opinion to "have the courts decide if we have jurisdiction." Meantime, he and the commissioners directed their attorneys to research the question as well and report on Thursday.

In other business, commissioners decided to notify John C. Neylon of Neylon Air Service, Lincoln, to file remaining documents required for operating privileges by Oct. 4, or else the air taxi service authority will be terminated.

Fiala said Neylon has filed only a partial application and the PSC has "bent over backwards to accomodate" completion in the matter pending since January, and relating to a 1972 procedural change by the commission.

Unless Neylon files necessary affidavits, the PSC will dismiss his application for specific authorities and subject the firm to penalties for conducting any further operations.

Neglect Of Building Upkeep Charged In Hearing

By The Associated Press

A legislative subcommittee Tuesday grappled with public policy on preventive maintenance and renovation of state buildings, sparking charges of neglect by both the governor and the Unicameral.

"The sad commentary that I have is that the governor's code agencies are responsible for this lack of preventive maintenance," said Omaha Sen. John Savage.

He said Gov. J. J. Exon has built up "unprecedented popularity" based on the theme of economy in government, but administration lack of maintenance is not true economy.

"You don't save money by not taking care of your property," Savage told colleagues on the subcommittee of the Legislative Council's executive board.

Kearney Sen. Ron Cope, however, said the legislature also is to blame for construction policy as much as is the Exon administration.

"We should be ashamed," he said, adding that construction, maintenance and renovation decisions often become "a political football."

Grand Island Sen. Ralph Kelly,. chairman of the subcommittee, suggested building a preventive maintenance fund into all legislation that authorizes new construction projects.

Bellwood Sen. Loran Schmit noted that preventive maintenance money is the first item to suffer when budgeting is tight. He also expressed much concern over lack of maintenance of the Statehouse itself.

Lou Ninegar of Kearney State College, who urged legislators to adopt a policy on maintenance, said the state has roughly $1 billion worth of buildings.

He said when a building runs down due to poor maintenance, it is quite costly to replace. He said Kearney State'e administration was an example, costing 16 times its original price tag to replace.

Roger Rutledge, a legislative fiscal analyst, said in the past six years the state has authorized $148 million in new construction projects while spending some $30 million on renovation-repair.

He said a shift in attitude by legislators and others could put more money into maintenance and renovation.

Scotia Sen. Dennis Rasmussen acknowledged the need, but characterized such projects as hard to sell in a drought year when farmers and ranchers are fighting for economic survival.

Pollution Complaints Filed Against Two Companies

Omaha (AP) — Pollution complaints have been lodged against two Nebraska firms whose leaders served on state pollution control councils.

The firms are the Ash Grove Cement Co. plant at Louisville and the O'Neill Grain Co. at South Sioux City.

The Nebraska Environmental Control Dept. has ordered Ash Grove officials to explain why they apparently turned off pollution control equipment, allowing excessive emissions to escape from plant stacks, the department said.

Ash Grove will be asked to show cause why it shouldn't be required to install monitoring devices in the stacks so state officials can regularly measure emissions.

The department ordered O'Neill Grain to explain why it hasn't installed dust control devices. The deadline was last July.

Ash Grove Manager Frank E. Staples served as a member-at-large of the 14-member Nebraska Air Pollution Control Council. O'Neill President Eugene M. O'Neill represented the agricultural processing industry on the 16-member State Environmental Control Council.

A department spokesman said hearings have been scheduled in Lincoln for Sept. 29 on the Ash Grove case and Oct. 13 on the O'Neill case.

Prison Center Contract Given

Gov. J. J. Exon Tuesday approved a contract with a Lincoln architectural firm for construction of a diagnostic and evaluation center for the State Corrections Department.

Approved was a contract with Bahr, Vermeer and Haecker, Architects, Ltd., of Lincoln. Their fee will be a 5.5% of the construction cost. The Unicameral has pegged the price at $5 million.

The center will be located on State Men's Reformatory land west of Lincoln.

Miller Gives Papers

Iowa City, Iowa (UPI) — Former Iowa Sen. Jack Miller has donated his Senate papers to the State Historical Society.

Divorce Kit May Violate State Lawyers—Only Law

Omaha (AP) — The Nebraska Bar Assn. is checking into the legality of a service offering divorce kits for $60.

James E. Rembolt, who chairs the association's Committee on Unauthorized Practice of the Law, said Nebraska law states that only qualified lawyers may draw pleadings or other legal papers.

An advertisement for the firm, Divorce Service, offers "forms, papers, instructions and samples to fill out and process for any uncontested divorce."

The firm has franchises in 25 states, according to Dan Mael, the firm's Omaha franchise holder.

John Henry, general manager of the Omaha Better Business Bureau, said his office checked on Divorce Service operations in several cities and found it had a good record.

WHY GEDNEY'S GOOD, OLD-FASHIONED PICKLES ARE BECOMING A NEBRASKA FAVORITE

Back in 1881, our good, old-fashioned recipe called for natural herbs and spices.

It still does.

We figure you just can't improve on the mouth-watering goodness of natural ingredients.

That's why we're still packing Gedney Pickles the way nature intended.

With plenty of honest, grown-in-the-ground herbs and spices.

Measured out by time-tested family recipes that've pleased the palates of Midwest pickle lovers for the better part of a hundred years.

Back in 1881, our pickles didn't have artificial color in 'em.

They still don't.

We're here to tell you, nothing beats feasting your eyes on a fresh, home-grown cucumber.

And for sure, nothing beats its taste.

That's why we're still packing Gedney Pickles with nothing but wholesome, natural ingredients.

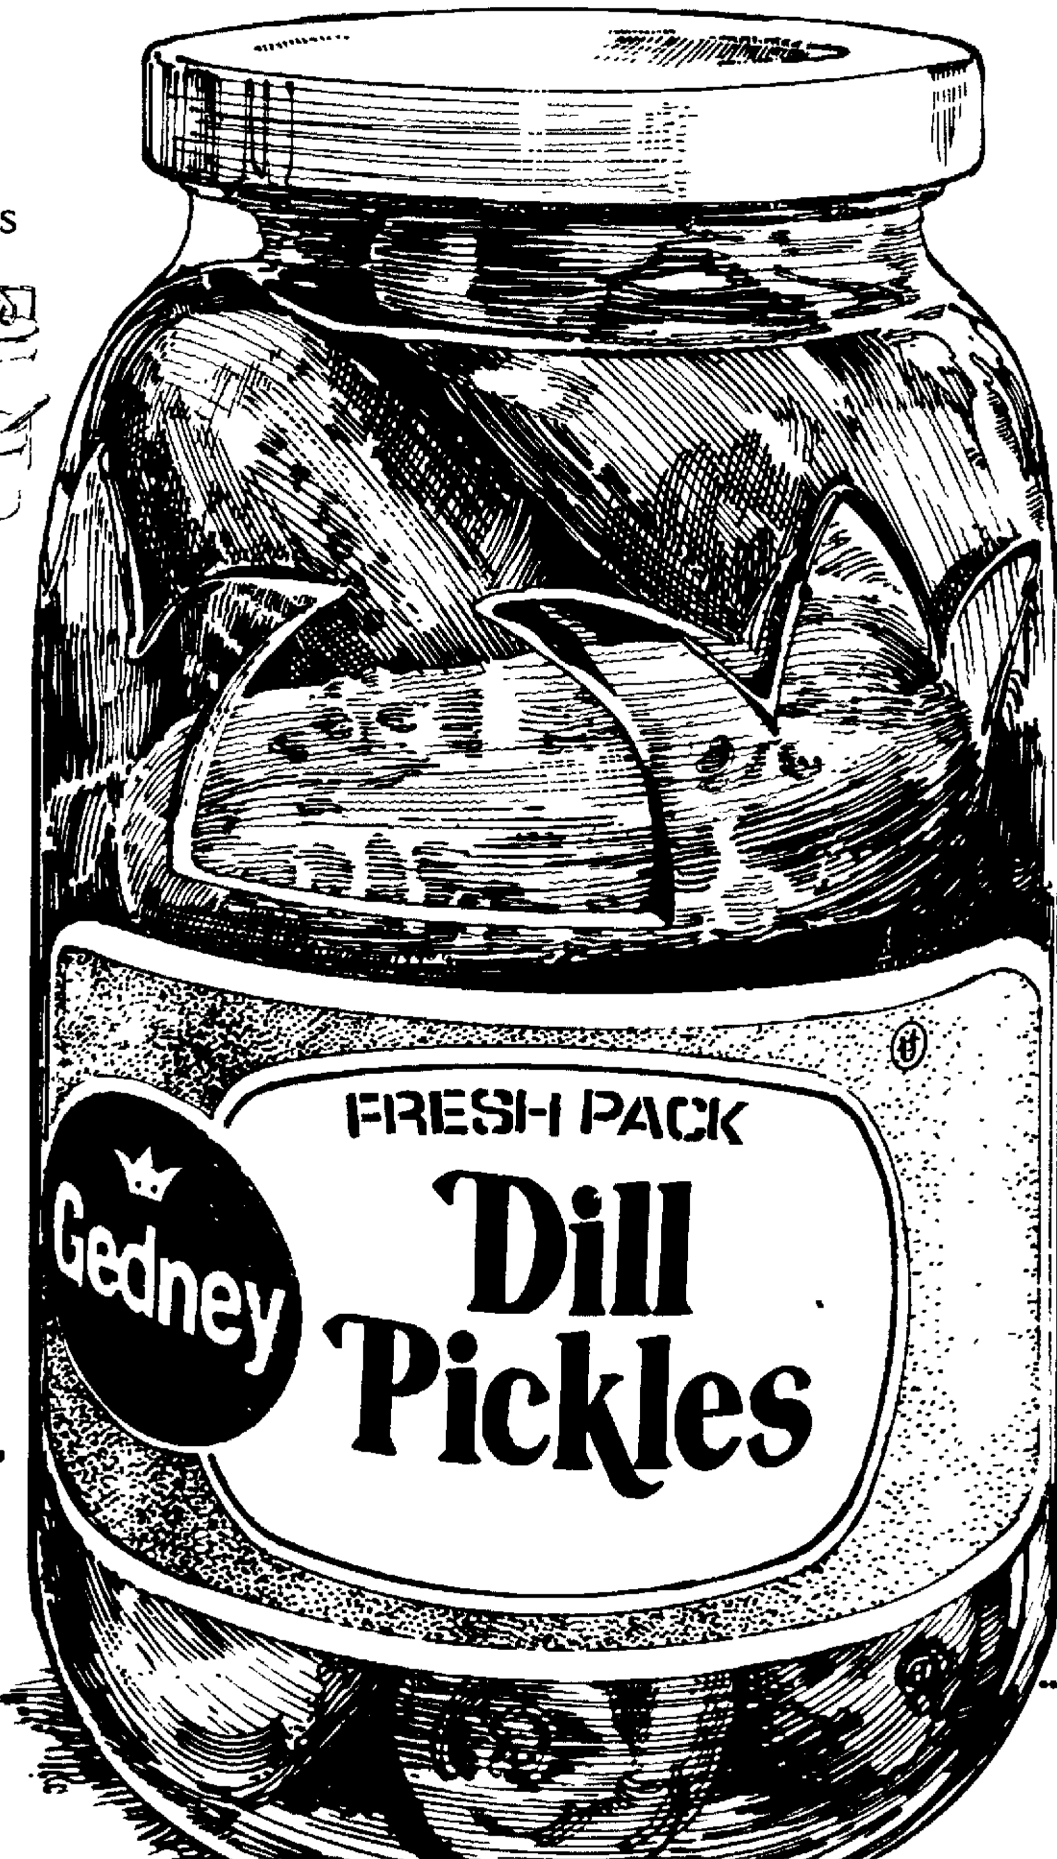
And none of that artificial food color you're hearing so much about nowadays.

Back in 1881, our good, old-fashioned pickles were home-grown on family farms.

They still are.

Every year, we distribute our very special seeds to nearly 3,000 farmers, here in the Midwest.

Most of 'em never plant more than an acre or so at a time.



That's because Gedney wants their crops tended to real close.

And we want 'em hand-harvested, too.

Because hand-harvesting prevents bumps and cuts and bruises.

And preserves Gedney's firm, crispy pickle crunch.

You can choose Gedney goodness in just about any flavor that tickles your taste buds.

From pantry sweets to pickled beets. From peppers to Polish dills.

We changed our packaging a bit since we first started out, with a new wide-mouth easy-out jar.

But when it comes to goodness, you can bet we haven't changed a thing.

So look us up at your favorite grocers.

At Gedney, the goodness still comes naturally.

If you visit the participating store 26 times during this promotion You have 1 chance in 8½ of winning a Cash Prize!

Rules

1. Get a FREE Gamerama Master Card on request at the end of the checkout or at store office. Get one FREE Game Ticket every time you visit a participating IGA or affiliated store. No purchase necessary to participate. Adults only eligible to play.

2. On each Game Ticket there are four Gamerama Markers. To reveal the Markers, simply punch out the perforated portions of the Game Ticket, then separate the punched out portions and you will have four Markers. Each Marker corresponds to a square in one of the Games on your Master Game Card.

3. When you have revealed the Gamerama Markers, carefully place them in their appropriate squares on your Master Game Card. EXAMPLE: If one of your Game Markers is a Spade 8 in the $1000 Game, insert that Marker in the square numbered Spade 8 in the $1000 Game. When you complete any row in a game, you may have a winner. In some games, you will find squares marked FREE and it is unnecessary to collect a Marker to be placed in such FREE squares. FREE squares are not transferable. Only one winner per card.

4. When you have a winning card which has been verified by authorized personnel, you will, after furnishing your name and address, be awarded your prize. A Federal Trade Commission rule requires that the names and addresses of all winners be posted in all participating stores. When turning in your winning card all your Gamerama Markers which are not part of the winning row may be removed and transferred to a new card. Only one prize will be awarded per game on any one Master Game Card. All Gamerama Markers in a winning row must be initialled on the back by the customer in the presence of authorized personnel. Tax liability on prizes is the responsibility of the prize winners.

5. All game materials will be rejected and judged void if not obtained from and verified by authorized personnel or if any part of any of the game pieces is illegible, altered, mutilated, defaced, tampered with, forged, contains printing or other errors, or is irregular in any way. Game material void where taxed or prohibited by law.

6. Game will end upon distribution of all Game Tickets. All prizes must be claimed within five (5) days after announcement of termination or they are forfeited. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, at such time as the verified claims for prizes in any category equals the number of prizes advertised for that category, then the game as it relates to that specific prize category shall immediately terminate without notice, and any unverified claims at or after that time shall be automatically rejected.

7. Game materials valid only for this game. All game Tickets, Gamerama Markers and Game Cards must have the same series number. EXAMPLE. If you have Master Game Card Series #52 all of your game pieces must have Series #52;

8. Employees (and their I.R.S. listed dependents) of the Fleming Company, IGA or affiliated stores, Dansico Associates, their advertising agency and other companies engaged in the development and production of these game materials are not eligible to win.

9. Gamerama Marker void if it does not have on it:

(a) Series #52
(b) Value of Game
(c) Bingo symbol or card and suit symbol
(d) Bingo symbol or card and suit symbol spelled
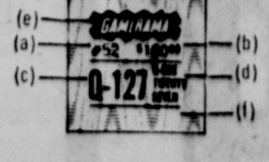
(e) Gamerama spelled out
(f) Safety Pattern background



GAMERAMA MARKER VOID IF ABOVE SIX (6) ITEMS ARE NOT CLEARLY VISIBLE.

10. Gamerama Series No. 52 Marker must conform in size, shape and detail to the example illustrated above, and must contain the six (6) items of authentication described in Rule No. 9.

Pioneer Opponents Will Appeal Ruling

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Opponents of the Pioneer Airways application to operate a southern Nebraska commuter service will appeal to the State Supreme Court a ruling by the Public Service Commission that it has jurisdiction in the matter

PSF staff attorney Adrian Fiala said Grand Island City Atty. Michael Kelley on Tuesday filed with the commission a notice of intent to appeal its August decision.

Kelley represents some of the nine communities Pioneer proposes to serve, their airport authorities and the Southern Route Commission. They claim the PSC has no authority to grant operation start-up for the Denver aviation firm with its envisioned Colorado interstate link.

The PSC decided it has intrastate authority only for Pioneer's entry into the field and rate-setting, based on precedents, case law and rulings by commissions in other states. Moreover, as an air taxi service, Pioneer is exempt from federal regulations.

Meanwhile, Star Aviation Inc., also of Denver, filed two applications this week with the PSC to operate a Panhandle route serving Chadron, Alliance and Sidney, and a southern route for Omaha, Lincoln, Columbus, Kearney, Hastings and McCook. Pioneer would fly passengers, mail and freight to the same towns plus Scottsbluff.

Other firms — such as Air Wisconsin — have expressed interest but only Pioneer and Star have filed scheduled-service air carrier applications in effect to replace most Frontier Airlines runs.

Fiala said the main question now is whether the PSC has jurisdiction to continue Pioneer hearings during a pending appeal Pioneer had a full day before commissioners and another public session is set Oct. 16 in Kearney.

A Supreme Court appeal could delay proceedings at least six months, but the exact result isn't known yet, Fiala said.

Staff attorney James Paine said he first thought the PSC order on Pioneer wasn't appealable "but it appears that it is." Even if the PSC determines an appeal is questionable, he suggested not contesting it because "it would settle a great deal of law in aeronautics regarding this commission."

Fiala said his initial gut reaction is that an appeal would temporarily remove the matter from PSC consideration during the disposition period. PSC Chairman Duane Gay of Columbus said, "This is a very vague area and the guy (Kelley) has got a legitimate question that he's raised."

Commissioners posed asking the state attorney general for advice, but Fiala said that office is "riding both benches right now" as a party of record.

Gay said it's his opinion to "have the courts decide if we have jurisdiction." Meantime, he and the commissioners directed their attorneys to research the question as well and report on Thursday.

In other business, commissioners decided to notify John C. Neylon of Neylon Air Service, Lincoln, to file remaining documents required for operating privileges by Oct. 4, or else the air taxi service authority will be terminated.

Fiala said Neylon has filed only a partial application and the PSC has "bent over backwards to accomodate" completion in the matter pending since January, and relating to a 1972 procedural change by the commission.

Unless Neylon files necessary affidavits, the PSC will dismiss his application for specific authorities and subject the firm to penalties for conducting any further operations.

Neglect Of Building Upkeep Charged In Hearing

By The Associated Press

A legislative subcommittee Tuesday grappled with public policy on preventive maintenance and renovation of state buildings, sparking charges of neglect by both the governor and the Unicameral.

"The sad commentary that I have is that the governor's code agencies are responsible for this lack of preventive maintenance," said Omaha Sen. John Savage.

He said Gov. J J. Exon has built up "unprecedented popularity" based on the theme of economy in government, but administration lack of maintenance is not true economy.

"You don't save money by not taking care of your property," Savage told colleagues on the subcommittee of the Legislative Council's executive board

Kearney Sen. Ron Cope, however said the legislature also is to blame for construction policy as much as is the Exon administration.

"We should be ashamed," he said, adding that construction, maintenance and renovation decisions often become "a political football."

Grand Island Sen. Ralph Kelly,. chairman of the subcommittee, suggested building a preventive maintenance fund into all legislation that authorizes new construction projects.

Bellwood Sen. Loran Schmit noted that preventive maintenance money is the first item to suffer when budgeting is tight. He also expressed much concern over lack of maintenance of the Statehouse itself.

Lou Ninegar of Kearney State College, who urged legislators to adopt a policy on maintenance, said the state has roughly $1 billion worth of buildings.

He said when a building runs down due to poor maintenance, it is quite costly to replace. He said Kearney State'e administration was an example, costing 16 times its original price tag to replace.

Roger Rutledge, a legislative fiscal analyst, said in the past six years the state has authorized $148 million in new construction projects while spending some $30 million on renovation-repair.

He said a shift in attitude by legislators and others could put more money into maintenance and renovation.

Scotia Sen. Dennis Rasmussen acknowledged the need, but characterized such projects as hard to sell in a drought year when farmers and ranchers are fighting for economic survival.

Pollution Complaints Filed Against Two Companies

Omaha (AP) — Pollution complaints have beep lodged against two Nebraska firms whose leaders served on state pollution control councils.

The firms are the Ash Grove Cement Co. plant at Louisville and the O'Neill Grain Co. at South Sioux City.

The Nebraska Environmental Control Dept. has ordered Ash Grove officials to explain why they apparently turned off pollution control equipment, allowing excessive emissions to escape from plant stacks, the department said

Ash Grove will be asked to show cause why it shouldn't be required to install monitoring devices in the stacks so state officials can regularly measure emissions.

The department ordered O'Neill Grain to explain why it hasn't installed dust control devices. The deadline was last July

Ash Grove Manager Frank E. Staples served as a member-at-large of the 14-member Nebraska Air Pollution Control Council. O'Neill President Eugene M. O'Neill represented the agricultural processing industry on the 16-member State Environmental Control Council.

A department spokesman said hearings have been scheduled in Lincoln for Sept. 29 on the Ash Grove case and Oct. 13 on the O'Neill case.

Prison Center Contract Given

Gov. J. J. Exon Tuesday approved a contract with a Lincoln architectural firm for construction of a diagnostic and evaluation center for the State Corrections Department

Approved was a contract with Bahr. Vermeer and Haecker, Architects, Ltd., of Lincoln. Their fee will be a 5.5% of the construction cost. The Unicameral has pegged the price at $5 million.

The center will be located on State Men's Reformatory land west of Lincoln.

Miller Gives Papers

Divorce Kit May Violate State Lawyers—Only Law

Omaha (AP) — The Nebraska Bar Assn. is checking into the legality of a service offering divorce kits for $60.

James E. Rembolt, who chairs the association's Committee on Unauthorized Practice of the Law, said Nebraska law states that only qualified lawyers may draw pleadings or other legal papers.

An advertisement for the firm, Divorce Service, offers "forms, papers, instructions and samples to fill out and process for any uncontested divorce."

The firm has franchises in 25 states, according to Dan Mael, the firm's Omaha franchise holder

John Henry, general manager of the Omaha Better Business Bureau, said his office checked on Divorce Service operations in several cities and found it had a good record.

THINK E.N.E.R.G.Y...

Heat loss . . . fuel crisis . . . conservation . . . where can we start? Energy conservation is an important focal point of present and future. Energy tips, programs, and publications are being developed almost everywhere, but let's look just at conserving energy in the kitchen . . .

1. Did you know everytime you open the oven door the temperature drops from 25-50 degrees. So, refrain from "peeking" as much as possible. If you have a "peek-a-boo" window—so much the better.
2. Flat bottom pans with tight fitting lids will cook food faster at lower temperatures. Select the pan carefully to fit the burner or element you use.
3. Use only enough water to create steam and prevent sticking when cooking vegetables. They will retain color, more vitamins and taste better, too.
4. Use your oven efficiently—by using it for a whole meal, not just a potato or one dish. Glass or ceramic baking dishes are more efficient because they transfer heat better than metal. In fact, you should lower the oven heat by 25° when using glass. An electric range oven will continue to cook at least five minutes after it's turned off.
5. If you have a dishwasher, be sure it's full before using it. Each load uses about 14 gallons of hot water. Use cold water to rinse before washing. Let the dishes air dry by opening the door after final rinse.
6. Check the seals around oven and refrigerator doors. If they are not airtight, you could be losing money. Replace seals if necessary or adjust latches.

For more help around the home, ask for the Booklet on "Tips on Saving Energy." I'll be glad to send you one.

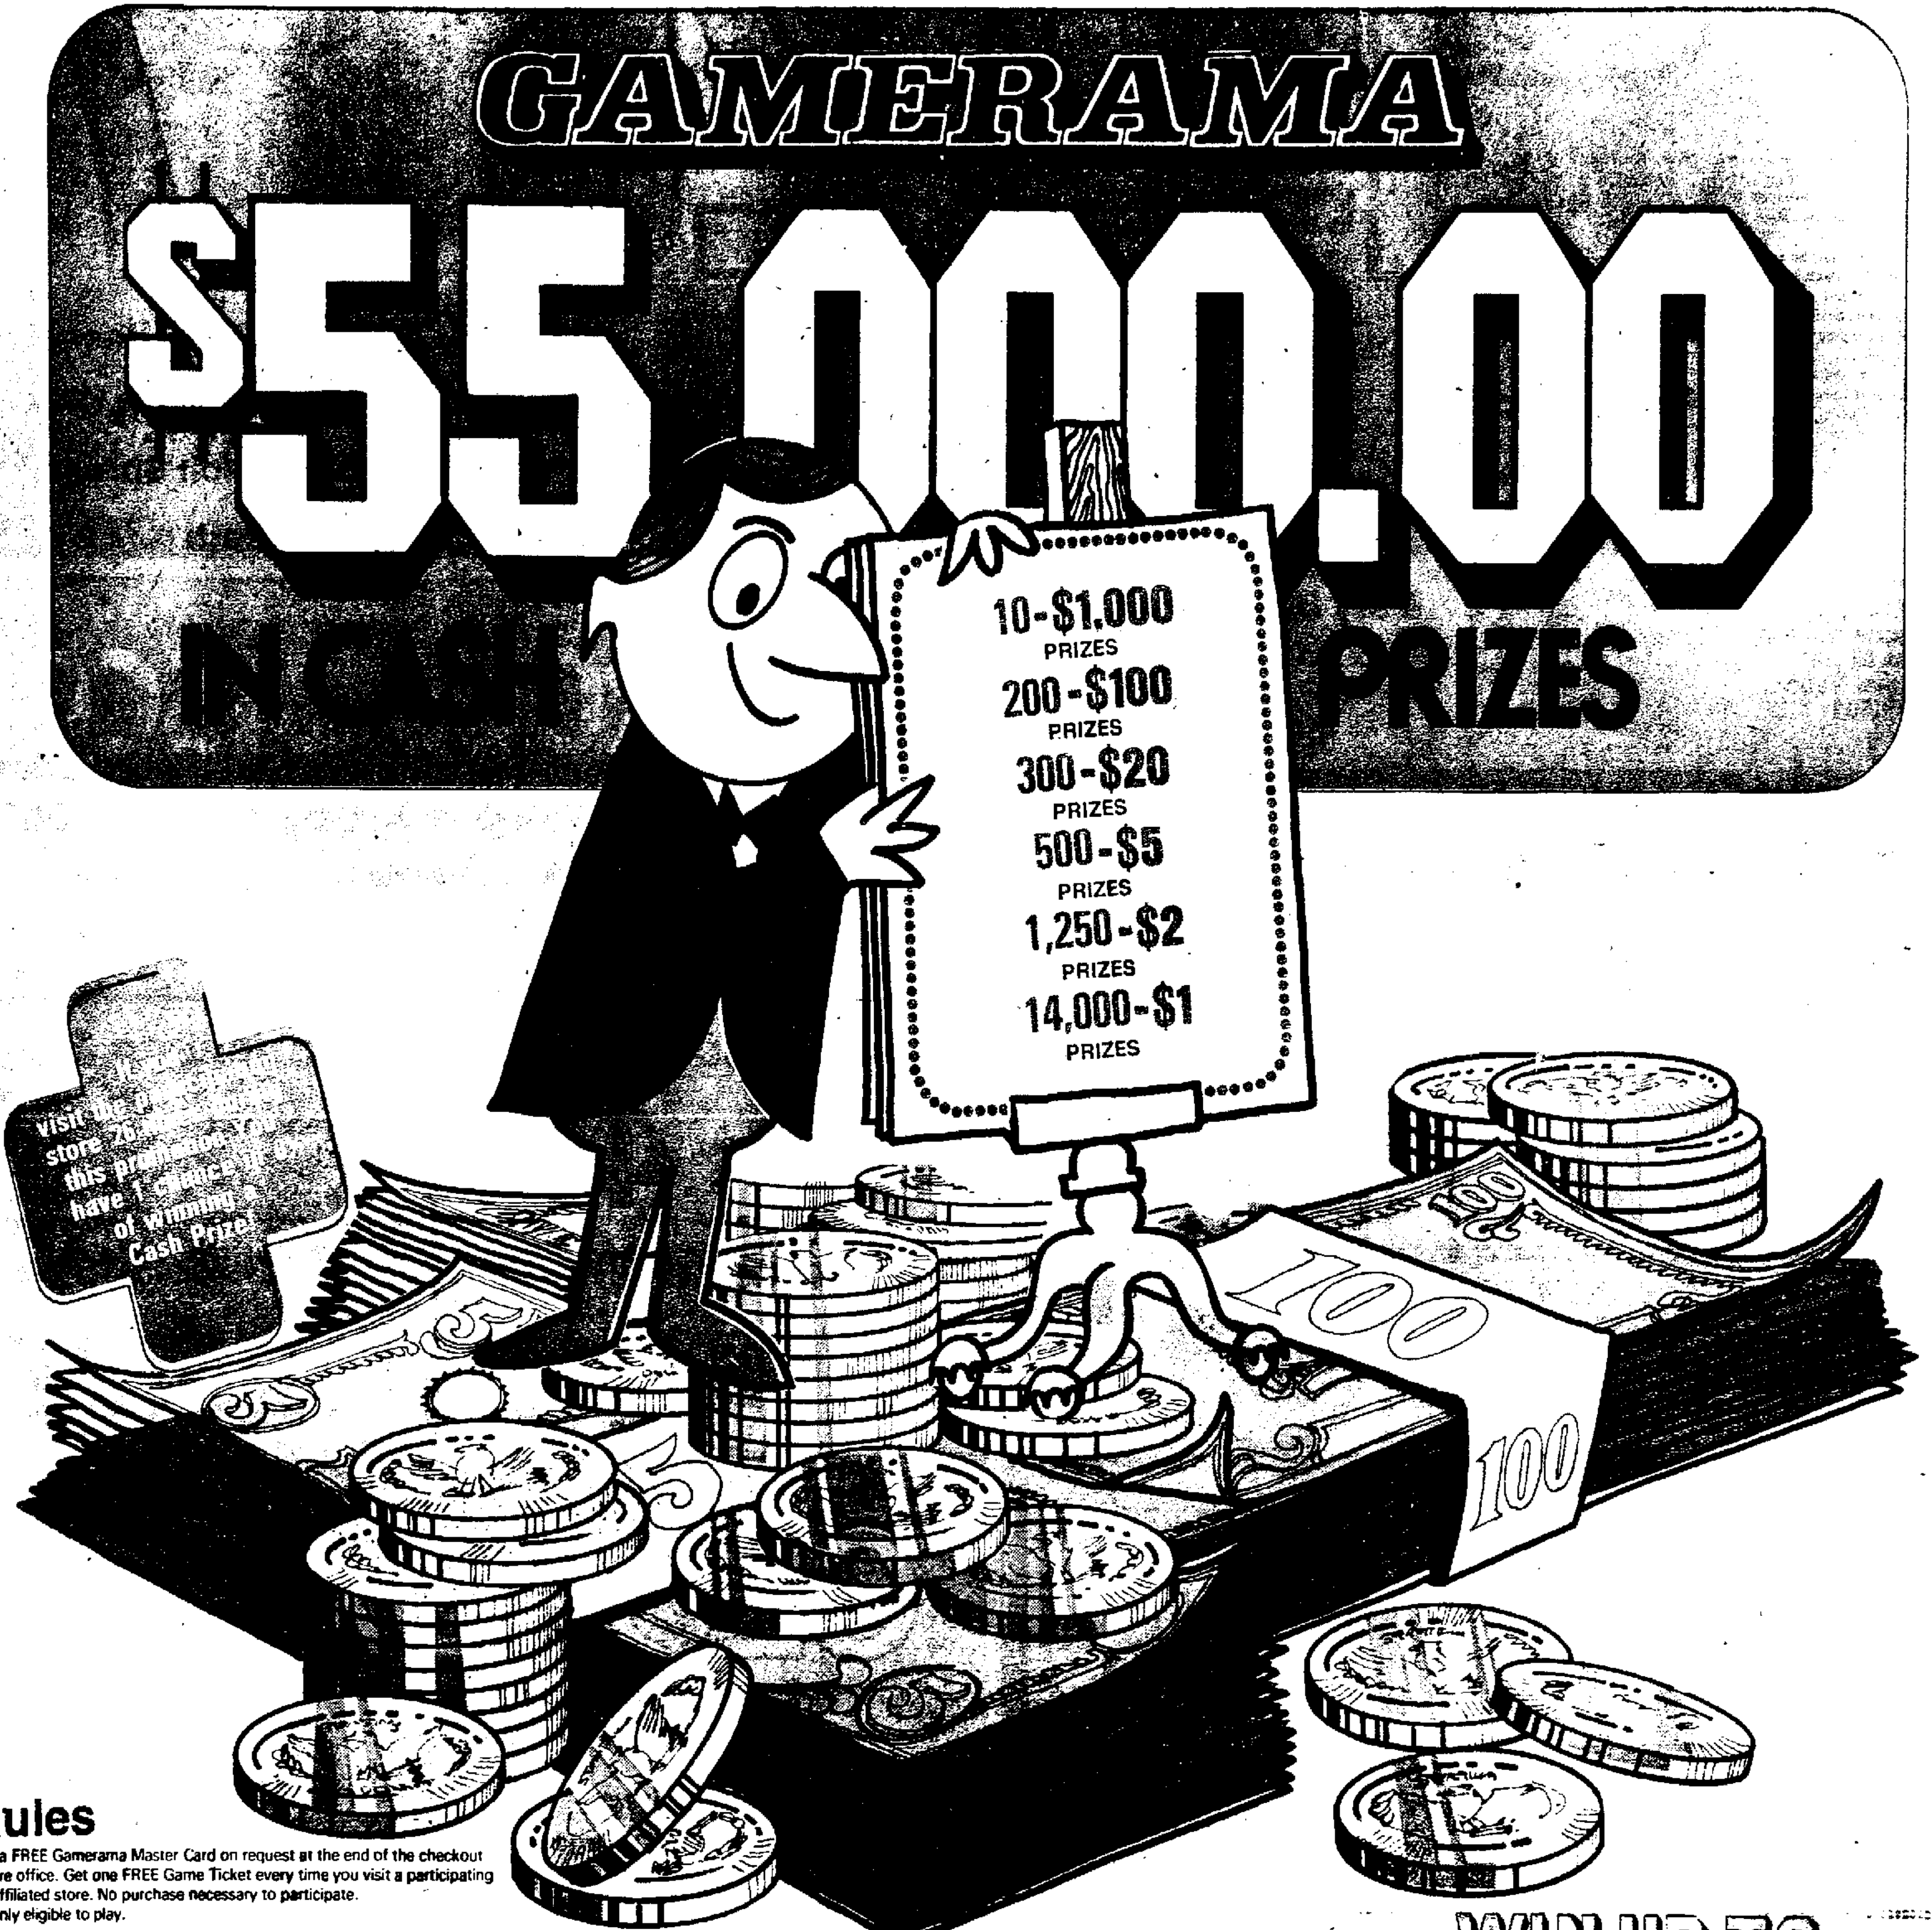
congratulations to Mr. Robert Lundholm . . . Our first $100⁰⁰ winner in Gamerama!!!



Rules

1. Get a FREE Gamerama Master Card on request at the end of the checkout or at store office. Get one FREE Game Ticket every time you visit a participating IGA or affiliated store. No purchase necessary to participate.
Adults only eligible to play.

2. On each Game Ticket there are four Gamerama Markers. To reveal the Markers, simply punch out the perforated portions of the Game Ticket, then separate the punched out portions and you will have four Markers. Each Marker corresponds to a square in one of the Games on your Master Game Card.

3. When you have revealed the Gamerama Markers, carefully place them in their appropriate squares on your Master Game Card. EXAMPLE: If one of your Game Markers is a Spade 8 in the $1000 Game, insert that Marker in the square numbered Spade 8 in the $1000 Game. When you complete any row in a game, you may have a winner. In some games, you will find squares marked FREE and it is unnecessary to collect a Marker to be placed in such FREE squares. FREE squares are not transferable. Only one winner per card.

4. When you have a winning card which has been verified by authorized personnel, you will, after furnishing your name and address, be awarded your prize. A Federal Trade Commission rule requires that the names and addresses of all winners be posted in all participating stores. When turning in your winning card all your Gamerama Markers which are not part of the winning row may be removed and transferred to a new card. Only one prize will be awarded per game on any one Master Game Card. All Gamerama Markers in a winning row must be initialled on the back by the customer in the presence of authorized personnel. Tax liability on prizes is the responsibility of the prize winners.

5. All game materials will be rejected and judged void if not obtained from and verified by authorized personnel or if any part of any of the game pieces is illegible, altered, mutilated, defaced, tampered with, forged, contains printing or other errors, or is irregular in any way. Game material void where taxed or prohibited by law.

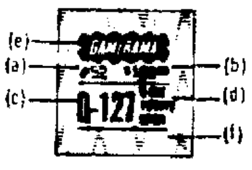
6. Game will end upon distribution of all Game Tickets. All prizes must be claimed within five (5) days after announcement of termination or they are forfeited. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, at such time as the verified claims for prizes in any category equals the number of prizes advertised for that category, then the game as it relates to that specific prize category shall immediately terminate without notice, and any unverified claims at or after that time shall be automatically rejected.

7. Game materials valid only for this game. All game Tickets, Gamerama Markers and Game Cards must have the same series number. EXAMPLE: If you have Master Game Card Series #52 all of your game pieces must have Series #52:

8. Employees (and their I.R.S. listed dependents) of the Fleming Company, IGA or affiliated stores, Dansico Associates, their advertising agency and other companies engaged in the development and production of these game materials are not eligible to win.

9. Gamerama Marker void if it does not have on it:

(a) Series #52
(b) Value of Game
(c) Bingo symbol or card and suit symbol
(d) Bingo symbol or card and suit symbol spelled
(e) Gamerama spelled out
(f) Safety Pattern background



GAMERAMA MARKER VOID IF ABOVE SIX (6) ITEMS ARE NOT CLEARLY VISIBLE.

10 Gamerama Series No. 52 Marker must conform in size, shape and detail to the example illustrated above, and must contain the six (6) items of authentication described in Rule No. 9.

Barkley Center's Dedication Set

Robert B. Herman, associate deputy commissioner of the Bureau of Education for the Handicapped of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, will be the speaker at a banquet celebrating the dedication of the new William E. Barkley Center at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The dedication ceremony will be held at 3:30 p.m. Friday in the south parking lot of the Barkley Center, east of the Dental College on the East Campus. Tours of the facility will be conducted after the ceremony.

The Barkley Center, gift of the late William E. and Edna M. Barkley, long-time Lincoln citizens, houses the Division of Special Education, Department of Speech Pathology and Audiology and its Speech and Hearing Clinic, and the Specialized Office for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing.

Herman has been with the Bureau of Education for the Handicapped since 1972, becoming associate deputy commissioner in 1968. He holds degrees from George Washington University and Harvard University Graduate School of Education.

Firm Plans New Type Of Insulation

Prairie Marketing Corp., a new industry manufacturing a new type of cellulosic insulation, will begin production in late September, according to Rod Shuman, sales manager.

The corporation will manufacture Prairie Home brand insulation, a specially treated and processed type of insulation made from recycled paper. Shuman estimated the company would require a minimum of 3,000 tons of paper per year, most of which he said will be newspapers.

According to Shuman, the insulation will be comparable in cost with other types of insulation already on the market, although the Lincoln area will have the advantage of lower costs due to local production.

Prairie Marketing, Shuman said, will begin by employing from eight to ten plant people, with that number rising with the addition of second and third shifts.

COLOR

THINK E.N.E.R.G.Y...

Heat loss . . . fuel crisis . . . conservation . . . where can we start? Energy conservation is an important focal point of present and future. Energy tips, programs, and publications are being developed almost everywhere, but let's look just at conserving energy in the kitchen . . .

1. Did you know everytime you open the oven door the temperature drops from 25-50 degrees. So, refrain from "peeking" as much as possible. If you have a "peek-a-boo" window—so much the better.
2. Flat bottom pans with tight fitting lids will cook food faster at lower temperatures. Select the pan carefully to fit the burner or element you use.
3. Use only enough water to create steam and prevent sticking when cooking vegetables. They will retain color, more vitamins and taste better, too.
4. Use your oven efficiently—by using it for a whole meal, not just a potato or one dish. Glass or ceramic baking dishes are more efficient because they transfer heat better than metal. In fact, you should lower the oven heat by 25° when using glass. An electric range oven will continue to cook at least five minutes after it's turned off.
5. If you have a dishwasher, be sure it's full before using it. Each load uses about 14 gallons of hot water. Use cold water to rinse before washing. Let the dishes air dry by opening the door after final rinse.
6. Check the seals around oven and refrigerator doors. If they are not airtight, you could be losing money. Replace seals if necessary or adjust latches.

For more help around the home, ask for the Booklet on "Tips on Saving Energy." I'll be glad to send you one.

15-Year-Old Captured; Shots Fired In Chase

Omaha (AP) — A 15-year-old boy driving a stolen van ran into three parked cars while trying to elude police Monday, officers aid. Four shots were fired at the van during the chase.

Police officer Joseph Crinklaw said he saw a van about noon Monday that matched the description of one involved in several hit-and-run property damage accidents earlier in the day. The driver saw the cruiser at the same time and sped away, Crinklaw said.

Crinklaw said he saw the van pull into a driveway and he got out of his cruiser and was walking toward the van when it sped across the lawn of the residence.

Crinklaw said he shouted for the driver to stop, fired four shots from his service revolver at it and resumed the chase.

Crinklaw said the van ran red lights at three intersections, narrowly missing cars at one of them, before he caught up with it and forced it off the street. The van jumped the curb and sideswiped a light pole, police said.

The driver received a slight head cut when the van hit the pole, police said. The youth was arrested and turned over to juvenile authorities.

None of the shots hit the boy, police said. Two bullet holes were found in the rear of the van and there were two dents on the rear fenders that police said were caused by the other two bullets.

The van was reported stolen earlier in the day.

Dole Visit Includes Politicking, Home Cooking

Hastings (UPI) — Republican vice presidential candidate Robert Dole will discuss farm issues, attend a GOP fund-raising reception and eat a country breakfast at a farm near Hastings during his scheduled 17-hour visit to south-central Nebraska this week.

The Kansas Senator will be accompanied by his wife during a campaign trip to North Dakota, South Dakota and Nebraska before flying to San Diego, Calif., Thursday.

His campaign staff Tuesday said Dole is scheduled to arrive at the Grand Island airport at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, spend the night at a motel along Interstate 80 between Hastings and Grand Island and depart about 10:30 a.m. Thursday.

His Wednesday evening schedule calls for Dole to attend a barbecue picnic at the Hastings Chautauqua Pavilion, where he will give a campaign speech dealing with "agriculture issues," and to attend a GOP fund-raising reception at 8:45 p.m. at the Lochland Country Club near Hastings. He is to return to his motel room about 9:15 p.m.

On Thursday, Dole and his wife will eat breakfast about 7 a.m. at the Norman and Lynn Lauthenschlager farm near Hastings, visit a grain elevator at Trumbull and return to the interstate motel for a 9:30 a.m. meeting with state and area farm leaders.

Rites Scheduled For Former Lt. Gov. Johnson

Omaha (AP) — Funeral services for former Lt. Gov. William E. Johnson are set here Wednesday.

Joynson, 70, died at his home last Saturday night of an apparent heart attack, according to family members.

Born in Omaha, Johnson served as lieutenant governor from 1939 to 1942. A Republican, Johnson defeated Democrat Terry Carpetner for the post in 1938.

Johnson's political career was cut short by World War II when he entered the Navy.

He unsuccessfully sought the GOP gubernatorial nomination in 1946, and left active politics.

Survivors include his widow, Jeroma, three sons, a daughter, two brothers, three sisters, 18 grandchidlren and one great-grandchild.

Beatrice Council Passes Mobile Home Restriction

Beatrice (UPI) — The Beatrice City Council Monday passed a tie-down ordinance which has been the subject of ongoing controversy in Beatrice for more than six weeks.

The ordinance is intended for new mobile homes in the area and does not apply to existing ones.

Mayor Robert Sargent says the action is ridiculous. If there is going to be such an ordinance, he said, it should apply to all mobile homes, not just new ones.

At the urging of mobile home park owners, the council instituted a grace period for installation of tie-downs. It decreed 45 days of grace and added another 30 days for transients.

GM Raises Car Prices 5.9%

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. said Tuesday the prices of its new 1977 car line will go up an average $338 or about 5.9%.

The world's biggest auto maker listed tentative price increased Aug. 25 and made them official Tuesday.

It said the price increase average was based on its complete car line, from compacts through luxury standards.

The base car price average was hiked $269, with $69 added on for options that were made standard. Another $6 was for a reshuffling of other optional items.

To Your Good Health:

Overstrained Knee Joint Not Rare

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter, now 17, became very active in gymnastics when she started the sixth grade and kept this up until she left the eighth grade. About this time her knees became very painful and the doctor said she had chondromalacia.

Each year she goes back for a checkup and X-rays. There has been no improvement. She is in excellent health otherwise. Could her overdoing gymnastics at an early age have contributed to the condition? She used to work out three or four hours a day. — J.S.

It could have.

The condition refers to a softening of the cartilage, the tough elastic-like substance attached to the bone. In your daughter's case this occurred at the knee, one of the most heavily-used joints in the body. An injury or overstraining of the joint can cause it. It is not uncommon and is seen quite often in young girls. In older persons, striking the knee on the dashboard of a car in accidents is a common cause.

The condition usually can be treated with rest of the joint and with supervised special exercises to strengthen the knee. This is effective in cases of direct injury. In some cases, as apparently in your daughter's, the injury can be more gradual. She should be examined by an orthopedist to see if surgery to remove troublesome cartilage is needed. The symptoms should not have lasted this long. A prolonged rest of the joint may be necessary.

Of course, as with most joint problems, it is well also to rule out other causes such as arthritis. In that more than one joint is involved.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it customary for one with a hearing problem to have certain noises in the head? I have been hard of hearing in my left ear for quite a few years and have a nerve deafness in my right one. I have had hearing aids, but found them uncomfortable and not of much use.

I have this funny noise all the time, but it seems worse when I am trying to sleep. Could it be hardening of the arteries? I am 76 and had a stroke about five years ago. — L.B.

Noises of various kinds, from buzzing and ringing to musical tones, are common with the problems you have. High blood pressure, which can accompany hardening of the arteries, is a common cause.

But perfectly healthy people can have ear noises. In one experiment among healthy adults who were placed in a noise-free room, 94% had some degree of ear noise. So your bedtime noises are not unusual.

Many medications can cause ear noises — alcohol, tobacco, caffeine, some of the antibiotics, quinine and others. Wax in the ears can be a cause.

Except in severe ear infection, the only way the ears can signal that something is wrong is through such noises.

Hearing aids would not be very effective in loss caused by nerve damage. They should help the other ear, where I assume the loss is from some other cause. Tests might be needed to see just how much a hearing aid should be able to help. Ask an ear specialist to recommend a reliable hearing-aid man.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My sister has glaucoma. She is under the care of an eye doctor and has been using eyedrops. Her doctor says the pressure stays normal, but she worries. Using the drops disturbs her, and yet she wants to do what is right.

Why won't doctors operate earlier on people with glaucoma? — Mrs. E.H.

Your sister apparently has the non-acute or more gradual form of glaucoma. While the precise underlying cause of glaucoma is not known, there are two basic reasons for the build-up of fluid pressure within the eye: either a blockage of the tiny drainage canals that remove the fluid normally, or an overproduction of the fluid.

In the chronic (non-acute) form of glaucoma the build-up is usually so gradual that it goes unnoticed until vision is affected. In the acute state the fluid build-up is sudden and accompanied by obvious symptoms (pain and vision disturbance). In this case, surgery is usually an emergency measure to preserve sight.

In either type, treatment has one goal — to relieve the pressure, either by physically opening the drainage canals or, in the milder cases, using eyedrops to constrict the pupils. This opens the areas of the eyes where the canals of Schlemm — the chief drainage structures — are located.

If detected early enough the problem usually responds well to conservative treatment (drops). This can be and often is continued for life in order to maintain proper eye pressure. Your sister should have frequent checks of her eye pressure to be sure the drops are doing the job.

It is always best to handle such problems non-surgically where possible, which is the view your sister's eye doctor takes. If the drops become ineffective, then surgery to assist the drainage would be considered.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a hiatal hernia and I want to take exercises to lose weight. Is it all right to do so? — Mrs. R.C.

Exercise that puts pressure on your abdomen might also put pressure on the hernia. Most calisthenic-type exercises tend to do this. However, you do want to lose extra weight if you have any. I'd suggest dieting for now. Leave the exercising for later.

HEALTH TIP

FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

The impairment of vision known as amblyopia is often due to excessive smoking, according to the Nebraska Medical Association.

The impairment is not the result of external smoke irritation, but a sensitivity to the toxic substances in tobacco which affect nerves in the retina. When the person quits smoking, the condition improves and the patient may recover completely.

Not only can smoking affect eyes, it can affect the heart, blood vessels and respiratory system.

Nicotine, if injected or taken in tobacco smoke, stimulates that part of the nervous system that controls the heart, blood vessels and other internal organs that function almost automatically.

For years, smoking has been known to be related to Buerger's Disease, a constriction of the small arteries in the hands and feet that can lead to gangrene and amputation. Smokers also die more often from coronary heart disease.

The Nebraska Medical Association says an individual must try to reach a solution about his own smoking by considering the damage it may do to his health and act accordingly.

Firm Plans New Type Of Insulation

Prairie Marketing Corp, a new industry manufacturing a new type of cellulosic insulation, will begin production in late September, according to Rod Shuman, sales manager

The corporation will manufacture Prairie Home brand insulation a specially treated and processed type of insulation made from recycled paper Shuman estimated the company would require a minimum of 3,000 tons of paper per year, most of which he said will be newspapers

According to Shuman, the insulation will be comparable in cost with other types of insulation already on the market, although the Lincoln area will have the advantage of lower costs due to local production

Prairie Marketing, Shuman said will begin by employing from eight to ten plant people, with that number rising with the addition of second and third shifts

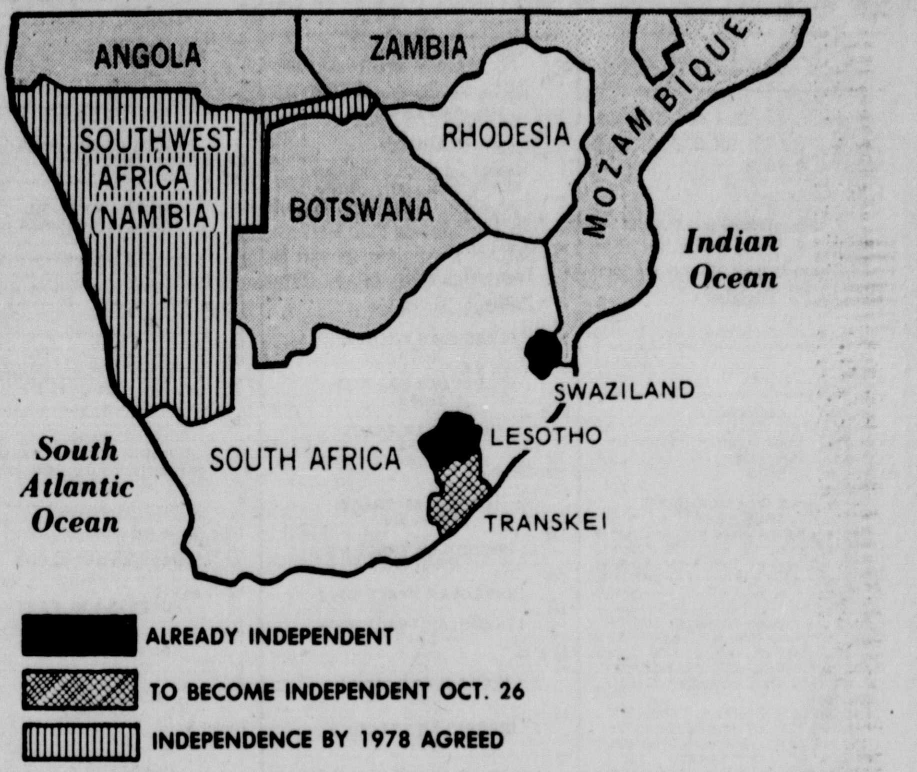
'The black man knows his place, and if not, I'll teach him his place.'

South Africa Minister Of Justice



'Bloody Wednesday' Ended Black Tolerance Of Apartheid

By JOHN PLATTER

Johannesburg, South Africa (UPI) — At 10 minutes past sunrise on Wednesday, June 16, South African police fired into a crowd of rioting black school children in the world's largest black ghetto. That shot ended 16 years of black tolerance of South Africa's strict apartheid segregation policies.

Within a week 176 persons were killed. "Bloody Wednesday" at the Soweto ghetto just outside Johannesburg took its place as a rallying cry for blacks alongside the Sharpeville massacre of 1960 when 69 blacks were killed in an afternoon of trying to storm a police station, the last major uprising against rigid racial segregation.

Since that fatal Wednesday in this Afrikaner republic, blacks and "coloreds" (persons of mixed blood but predominantly mulattos) have launched sustained waves of bloody protest against 28 years of total segregation and government political and economic discrimination against non-European groups. In the past three months 350 persons have died.

The widespread violence has not reached the heights of a general insurrection or uprising, and in fact many of the older black generation have shown they have no stomach for the antigovernment campaign.

The original protest was against the teaching of the Afrikaans language in black schools, a hated "language of oppression." Most of the proud Zulu, Xhosa and Sotho tribesmen, collectively known as the Bantu, prefer their own tribal language.

Protest Widened

The government dropped that demand but the protest grew into an attack on the entire system of apartheid, drawing its impetus from black guerrilla warfare in neighboring South-West Africa and Rhodesia and the emergence of black governments in the former Portuguese colonies of Angola and Mozambique.

The deepening crisis at home is compounded by racial turmoil in Rhodesia and South-West Africa (Namibia), the U.N. trust territory controlled by South Africa and the target of Soviet-supplied black nationalist guerrillas.

Apartheid dates from 1948 when the ruling National Party first came to power.

Nonwhites have no vote. Blacks must use separate public facilities such as toilets and bus services. There is a "pass law" which requires every black to carry a pass book from age 16. This severely restricts his freedom to live and work where he pleases. If he has no book he has no work. It is a criminal offense to be found without one.

John Vorster

. . . 'There is no crisis.'

There are 4 million whites in South Africa, 18 million blacks, 2.3 million "coloreds" and about 700,000 Asians.

Under 300 years of white leadership South Africa has become the most highly industrialized nation in Africa with vast treasures of minerals including diamonds and gold. The whites do not want to see this change.

The government blames the current troubles on "militant agitation" and the government apparently remains unmoved. Premier John Vorster said recently, "There is no crisis."

Vorster has been faithful to the Verwoerdian grand design of territorial apartheid which envisions carving away 13% of the republic's land are to create nine or 10 tiny, fragmented independent tribal homelands.

They are intended as the nation states from which all of the 18 million blacks must eventually take their citizenship and become foreigners in the 87% area left as "white" South Africa.

Concessions Thought Suicidal

The whites believe any other concessions would spell suicide for whites. Black Africa, and much of the world, believes this very stance ensures a bloody end to white rule.

South Africa was colonized in the 17th century by Dutch, German and French Hughenot pioneers.

Following the discovery of gold and diamonds in the late 19th century the two Boer republics of Transvaal and the Orange Free State were conquered by Britain in the Anglo-Boer War of 1899-1902.

On May 31, 1910, Britain formed the Union of South Africa, uniting the self-governing colonies of Cape of Good Hope, Natal, Transvaal and Orange River. The union remained under the British crown, as part of the Commonwealth, until May 31, 1961, when its nationalist leaders declared a republic and withdrew from the Commonwealth.

The major watershed in South African affairs occurred in May 1948 when the combined National and Afrikaner Parties — representing mainly South Africans of Dutch descent — defeated the United Party of Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts in national elections.

National Party Premier Daniel Malan and later Premier Hendrik Verwoerd declared apartheid to be official policy and developed the system of racial separation.

If Vorster has a second mission beyond preserving his "volk" on the southern tip of Africa, it is to "save us from the yoke of communism."

Interests Converge

On Rhodesia, ironically, Pretoria's and Washington's interests converge on at least one point: trying to prevent another Angola-type debacle that for the first time secured the Soviets a safe military presence in the South Atlantic, close to Western sea lanes around South Africa's Cape of Good Hope. This route is used by supertankers that fuel Western European economies.

South Africa sent troops into Angola's civil war in support of two anti-Communist liberations groups, which lost despite also receiving U.S. military assistance.

South Africa had the tacit support of some African leaders in that venture against the Soviet-backed rebels but to the black continent South Africa remains a greater villain than Moscow.

Vorster's basic strategy — to get the Namibia and Rhodesia problems out of the way — remains unaltered.

The African and American demand for majority black rule in Rhodesia is acceptable to South Africa, which provides Rhodesia's only economic lifeline, and Vorster would welcome an internationally recognized black government there in place of the ostracized white minority.

Next, Vorster is willing to yield control of Namibia, a mostly diamond-rich land that Pretoria has ruled since 1920, and let it go its own way to majority rule and independence by Dec. 31, 1978.

But in return for cooperation on these issues, Vorster first wants acceptance of the white right to rule what his followers call the Afrikaner Faterland.

The conflicts in Rhodesia and Namibia may be only preludes to the coming drama in South Africa itself.

South Africa, about twice the size of France, is a vast and scenically beautiful country, lavishly endowed with gold (supplying 73% of the free market's annual purchases) diamonds, coal, agricultural fertility, long rivers and about one-third of the West's uranium.

Economic sanctions never could cripple South Africa. If there is an Achilles heel, it is the lack of oil, but all except 22% of energy requirements are locally available.

The nation's military strength is unsurpassed in Black Africa.

Resentment Symbolized

But for all its strength, South Africa has been wracked internally by an outburst of black resentment symbolized by a 19-year-old black youth, Tsietsi Mashinini.

Student admirers credit him with masterminding Bloody Wednesday. South African police, whom he evaded for weeks in Soweto, the "suburb" of about one million blacks, have put out a $575 reward for information leading to his capture. But he has slipped off to Tanzania via neighboring black-ruled Botswana.

". . . The people are no longer interested in having equal rights with the white people in South Africa," Mashinini says. "They want the tables turned so the white man can get a taste of his own medicine and feel what it is like to be oppressed."

The government has made a few concessions — it announced that blacks will be permitted to partly own their own homes in Soweto for the first time. There may be more concessions. But for many radical blacks, only full political equality will suffice.

"These small things are just like shifting the deck chairs on a sinking Titanic," said one black woman at a recent secret multiracial meeting of women.

South Africa's most eloquent black spokesman still free is the Zulu chief, Gatsha Buthelezi, head of the Kwazulu homeland that is earmarked for eventual independence. Buthelezi, a soft-spoken man of 49, doesn't want any of it.

"I do not believe Vorster can push us out of the country of our birth," he said. "We should have the right to share the wealth and the decision-making."

He dismissed white liberals as people "who are nice to the crocodile so they are eaten last." He believes black numbers will determine South Africa's new political dispensation.

By the turn of the century, the 4 million whites will number 7 million, against 40 million blacks.

Riots Called 'Child's Play'

Justice and Police Minister Jimmy Kruger, whose forces are trying to control the riots, dismisses the current upheaval as "child's play" when compared with Ireland, Lebanon and other world trouble spots.

"The black man knows his place, and if not, I'll teach him his place," Kruger recently told a cheering meeting of National Party supporters.

The tough talk hides a new Afrikaner self-appraisal.

One Afrikaner intellectual, Prof. Dreyer Kruger, two months ago predicted, "The Afrikaner volk as we know it today is doomed to extinction." Three national Sunday newspapers published his remarks.

"Why should we survive," he asked, "if it is true that we are concerned only over power, privilege and high living conditions . . . ?" He answered his own question: "Most Afrikaans speakers do not care a scrap for the welfare of the black people."

The government is not used to such language from a true blue kinsman.

And the government is worried about another development of the present crisis, a burgeoning white backlash. Already several blacks and mulattoes have been shot to death by white civilians in riot situations.

More than a quarter of the white population is now armed, with more than 200,000 sales of firearms reported ths year alone.

Mineral-Rich Namibia To Get Independence

Johannesburg, South Africa (UPI) — The vast, mineral-rich territory of South-West Africa has been administered by South Africa for 56 years under a mandate branded illegal by the world community three decades ago.

Now the territory, which the United Nations calls Namibia, is ensured a future radically different from its history of racial separation and remote control rule.

In large part because of the threat of U.N. economic and political sanctions, South Africa agreed to the convening of a multiracial constitutional conference in the territory's capital of Windhoek a year ago.

The conference last month set Dec. 31, 1978, as the deadline for independence under a government representing the territory's 98,000 whites and 872,000 blacks, who come from 11 tribal groups.

The accord did not satisfy U.N. demands for speedy elections under U.N. control and recognition of the militant South-West Africa People's Association, known as SWAPO, as the legitimate representative of the majority of the population.

But it was a major turning point for the 970,000 "Southwesters," as the inhabitants of the territory call themselves.

Twice the size of California and rich in diamonds, copper and uranium, South-West Africa stretches from coastal desert dunes to grassy plateau to tropical swampland.

The area came under German control in 1884, during the European colonial powers' "scramble for Africa."

In the name of the World War I Allies, South African forces seized the territory in December 1914 and made it a protectorate. The League of Nations formally approved South African control under a mandate granted Dec. 17, 1920.

The General Assembly of the United Nations on Dec. 14, 1946, rejected South Africa's request to incorporate the territory as part of South Africa.

The South African government, however, proceeded to make the area virtually a fifth province of South Africa.

The United Nations officially stripped South Africa of her mandate in 1966, and two years later renamed the territory Namibia.

In the same year, SWAPO launched a guerrilla campaign for independence that now keeps 10,000 South African troops and police tied down in the area. Since SWAPO escalated its campaign in 1973, 454 guerrillas and 64 South Africans have been killed.

South African Prime Minister John Vorster a year ago sanctioned a body representing all groups except SWAPO to draw up a new constitution for the territory. Last month, he accepted the conference's recommendation of independence in two years.

SWAPO dismissed the talks as rigged by Pretoria, but the movement's leader, Sam Nujoma, said recently he was prepared to negotiate with Vorster.

Vorster replied that he saw no reason why SWAPO should not be represented at the constitutional conference but the ultimate fate of the territory must be decided not by SWAPO or the United Nations but the "Southwesters" themselves.

"It is their country," Vorster says.

Xhosas Win 'Nation,' Lose South Africa Rights

Johannesburg (UPI) — Oct. 26 will be a historic day for South Africa's white government.

Its policy of separate development for the nine different black homelands will start to move from an ideological blueprint dreamed up by late Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd in 1948 to reality.

The Transkei — home of 3.5 million Xhosa people — will mark its independence with a 101-gun salute at the dusty capital of Umtata.

Transkei's chief minister, Kaiser Matanzima, has said he looks forward to "no more apartheid or discrimination." But the first of South Africa's independent states is undoubtedly a problem child.

Transkei recognition already has been rejected by the 48-member Organization of African Unity, and by Britain and the United States. U.N. members seem unlikely to accept the Transkei's credentials.

Born of apartheid, the Transkei will be dependent on South Africa in practice. The white government is not handing over control of Transkei security, telecommunications or immigration. The state will have to be fed by South Africa. The Transkei's rolling hills are grossly overpopulated and eroded. Farming methods are still largely primitive and underproductive.

Seventy per cent of the state's revenue will come from South Africa — both in grants and the money sent home by the 1.5 million Transkeians working in "white" South Africa. Eighty per cent of Transkei males work in South Africa.

In Pretoria's terms it is an equal relationship. But it is not a comfortable one. New South African legislation has hit hard at Xhosas living outside the homeland. They, and those with Xhosa forebears, will lose the few rights they have in South Africa on Oct. 26. As Transkei citizens, they will become foreigners in South Africa.

The 10,000 whites living in the Transkei have been welcomed as future citizens. But many will leave rather than forfeit their South African citizenship.

One source of income the new state intends to tap is tourism. The Transkei boasts southern Africa's most spectacular solitary beaches along its coastline.

Without South Africa 'Passbook' Black Is Worse Off Than Animal

Johannesburg (UPI) — For Daniel Mojalefa, 20, a black man living near Johannesburg, life is an ordeal. Visiting friends, going to the shop for a cool drink, finding a job . . . such simple things are, for him, "a damn risky business" and could land him in jail if a policeman stopped him.

The reason: Mojalefa (not his real name) has no "pass book."

Under South Africa's "pass law," officially known as the Bantu Urban Areas Act, Mojalefa does not qualify for this essential document enabling a black man to live and work in South Africa.

His parents were born in neighboring black-ruled Lesotho and did not register his birth in South Africa.

Nor do they possess documents to prove they have lived in their Johannesburg township for an unbroken period of 15 years, which would enable Mojalefa to become "legal."

"All my efforts to get a pass book failed," said Mojalefa. "The authorities have refused me recognition as a human being. I am a discarded person. I am worse off than an animal. I want to earn my living lawfully. But I need a reference (pass) book so I can go to seek work.

"Visiting friends or relatives, or going to the shops to buy what I want, is a damn risky business. I am in perpetual fear of being nabbed and then sent to jail because I do not have even a scrap of paper to identify me."

The document is mandatory at age 16. It must be carried at all times and produced on demand by a policeman. It is a criminal offense not to have a pass book.

Earlier this year Police Minister Jimmy Kruger said in Parliament that 218,982 men and 50,000 women were arrested in 1975 for offenses involving identity documents.

In terms of the apartheid laws, blacks need permits to seek work, to work, to reside, to rent a house, to live with a husband or wife, to have their children living in the same house, to visit relatives for a weekend, to change jobs, to move to another place, to obtain a pension.

Urban Bantu (African) administration buildings, which issue and control pass documents in all-black townships, were the immediate targets for arsonists in the continuing antigovernment rioting which flared in the republic June 16.

South Africa Built On Minerals

Johannesburg (UPI) — The blacks who work underground in mining towns around Johannesburg, call the city "E-Goli" — the city of gold.

The name represents what South Africa has been built on — minerals, and gold in particular. The nation produces 73% of the world's annual output.

The white-ruled southernmost nation still has the largest gold reserves. Economic Affairs Minister Chris Heunis recently estimated the 1976 gold output would exceed the $2.8 billion worth produced in 1975.

The republic has resources of almost everything except oil.

South Africa holds 30% of the world's uranium reserves and plans to have a $1 billion nuclear power station in operation near Cape Town by 1982.

After the Soviet Union, South Africa is the world's biggest chrome producer, and its reserves amount to about two billion tons, equal to 75% of the Western world's reserves.

The republic is the world's biggest producer of gem diamonds and exports in 1973 were worth $186 million. According to government reports, South Africa and South-West Africa (Namibia) produced about 9,540,000 carats last year.

Rhodesia's Whites Outnumbered Nearly 22 To 1

Salisbury, Rhodesia (UPI) — Rhodesia's beleaguered but defiant Prime Minister Ian Smith, once said it "is better to lose while you're standing up and fighting than crawling out on your knees."

Rhodesia's 275,000 white minority, outnumbered nearly 22 to 1 by 6 million blacks, now pins its hopes for a third, more honorable and peaceful alternative on the United States' new concern for southern Africa's racial dilemma.

There are signs of white defiance collapsing in Britain's former colony, for nearly 11 years an international outcast after Smith unilaterally ended British colonial rule Nov. 11, 1965.

Official figures for July this year show a record number of 1,130 whites departed while only 484 immigranted, a net loss of 846.

Estimates now say 43% of the whites are immigrants who came since 1965, adding some weight to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's description of Rhodesia as "essentially a refugee problem."

A black guerrilla campaign, waged with Soviet-supplied weapons, is closing in on three fronts: from Mozambique in the east, Zambia in the west and Botswana in the southwest. All are hostile African states ringing the landlocked regime.

Only powerful South Africa, Rhodesia's sole economic lifeline, has ensured the survival of Smith's government.

Smith has resisted any move to majority black rule, first in meetings with former British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, then directly with black nationalists and lately with South African Premier John Vorster.

Majority rule is the central objective of Kissinger's diplomatic effort, backed by a $1 to $2 billion proposal to guarantee white investment and compensation to those who do not want to remain under black control.

"Majority rule with minority rights," President Ford has said.

Earlier this year, Smith went on record for the first time conceding the principle of African majority government — but specified a 10- to 15-year transition period. Kissinger and London have sought a two-year period and this represents the minimum African demand.

There are three major obstacles to peace in Rhodesia, according to Western diplomats:

—Disunity within the ranks of the black nationalists. There are exile movements in both Zambia and Mozambique of the Rhodesian African National Council, split between radicals and moderates. There is also an internal wing headed by moderate Joshua Nkomo.

—A belief within official Salisbury circles, expressed recently by Smith himself, that the regime can hold out indefinitely against the current level of guerrilla activity In the 46-month campaign, government forces are maintaining about a 10-to-1 kill rate in their favor

—A moderately healthy and self-sufficient economy that white leaders see no reason to yield to black control. They believe this would threaten their privileged status.

That status has ensured living conditions among the easiest in the world for whites, many of them semi-illiterate Portuguese refugees from Angola and Mozambique.

The lifestyle persists in most of Rhodesia, a country about the size of Montana. But in brush areas landmine explosions regularly wreck vehicles and kill passengers, whites have been ambushed and killed in broad daylight by guerrillas and the eastern Mozambique border city of Umtali has come under mortar and rocket shelling.

Washington and Pretoria are preoccupied with preventing an escalation of the war. South African Foreign Minister Hilgard Muller said last month Rhodesia was becoming an open invitation for a dangerous broadening of Communist involvement in Africa and perhaps could lead to another Angola.

Smith draws encouragement from such views.

To some extent the militants within the guerrilla movement already are irreconcilably committed to their Soviet arms suppliers. Their dominance in the leadership reduces the possibility of Smith winning a settlement acceptable to white followers.

South African officials say Vorster wants a settlement that would bring to power a moderate, capitalist-oriented black government.

Western diplomats are agreed that without a Rhodesian settlement, no progress can be made toward defusing the even more complex racial problems of South Africa itself.

While Salisbury remains as a vulnerable and exposed trouble spot, they say, the threat exists of a race confrontation mushrooming into an East-West conflict embroiling the entire region.

15-Year-Old Captured; Shots Fired In Chase

Omaha (AP) — A 15-year-old boy driving a stolen van ran into three parked cars while trying to elude police Monday, officers aid. Four shots were fired at the van during the chase.

Police officer Joseph Crinklaw said he saw a van about noon Monday that matched the description of one involved in several hit-and-run property damage accidents earlier in the day. The driver saw the cruiser at the same time and sped away, Crinklaw said.

Crinklaw said he saw the van pull into a driveway and he got out of his cruiser and was walking toward the van when it sped across the lawn of the residence.

Crinklaw said he shouted for the driver to stop, fired four shots from his service revolver at it and resumed the chase.

Crinklaw said the van ran red lights at three intersections, narrowly missing cars at one of them, before he caught up with it and forced it off the street. The van jumped the curb and sideswiped a light pole, police said.

The driver received a slight head cut when the van hit the pole, police said. The youth was arrested and turned over to juvenile authorities.

None of the shots hit the boy, police said Two bullet holes were found in the rear of the van and there were two dents on the rear fenders that police said were caused by the other two bullets.

The van was reported stolen earlier in the day.

Dole Visit Includes Politicking, Home Cooking

Hastings (UPI) — Republican vice presidential candidate Robert Dole will discuss farm issues, attend a GOP fund-raising reception and eat a country breakfast at a farm near Hastings during his scheduled 17-hour visit to south-central Nebraska this week.

The Kansas Senator will be accompanied by his wife during a campaign trip to North Dakota, South Dakota and Nebraska before flying to San Diego, Calif., Thursday.

His campaign staff Tuesday said Dole is scheduled to arrive at the Grand Island airport at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, spend the night at a motel along Interstate 80 between Hastings and Grand Island and depart about 10:30 a.m. Thursday.

His Wednesday evening schedule calls for Dole to attend a barbecue picnic at the Hastings Chautauqua Pavilion, where he will give a campaign speech dealing with "agriculture issues," and to attend a GOP fund-raising reception at 8:45 p.m. at the Lochland Country Club near Hastings. He is to return to his motel room about 9:15 p.m.

On Thursday, Dole and his wife will eat breakfast about 7 a.m. at the Norman and Lynn Lauthenschlager farm near Hastings, visit a grain elevator at Trumbull and return to the interstate motel for a 9:30 a.m. meeting with state and area farm leaders

Rites Scheduled For Former Lt. Gov. Johnson

Omaha (AP) — Funeral services for former Lt. Gov. William E. Johnson are set here Wednesday.

Joynson, 70, died at his home last Saturday night of an apparent heart attack, according to family members.

Born in Omaha, Johnson served as lieutenant governor from 1939 to 1942. A Republican, Johnson defeated Democrat Terry Carpetner for the post in 1938.

Johnson's political career was cut short by World War II when he entered the Navy.

He unsuccessfully sought the GOP gubernatorial nomination in 1946, and left active politics.

Survivors include his widow, Jeroma, three sons, a daughter, two brothers, three sisters, 18 grandchidlren and one great-grandchild.

Beatrice Council Passes Mobile Home Restriction

Beatrice (UPI) — The Beatrice City Council Monday passed a tie-down ordinance which has been the subject of ongoing controversy in Beatrice for more than six weeks.

The ordinance is intended for new mobile homes in the area and does not apply to existing ones.

Mayor Robert Sargent says the action is ridiculous. If there is going to be such an ordinance, he said, it should apply to all mobile homes, not just new ones.

At the urging of mobile home park owners, the council instituted a grace period for installation of tie-downs. It decreed 45 days of grace and added another 30 days for transients.

NOTICE OF HEARING

Pursuant to the provisions of section 71-2042, R.S. Supp., 1976 and of Chapter 84, Article 9, R.R.S. 1943, notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held by the Board of Examiners in Nursing Home Administration of the State of Nebraska on Friday, October 1, 1976, beginning at 10:00 A.M. in the East Senate Chamber, Nebraska State Capitol Building, Lincoln, Nebraska for the purpose of considering the adoption of proposed amendments to the STANDARDS FOR LICENSURE FOR ADMINISTRATORS OF HOMES FOR THE AGED OR INFIRM. These proposed amendments contain provisions concerning increased requirements that an applicant for licensure as a nursing home administrator must possess in order to receive initial licensure: (1) on and after July 1, 1980 attainment of at least an Associate Degree in a field relevant to nursing home administration, as determined by the Board of Examiners in Nursing Home Administration, and (2) attainment of a minimum of six months training and experience rather than the current three months in the 9-Point Core of Knowledge Plan, rather than the current 7-Point Plan, encompassing applicable standards of environmental health and safety, local health and safety regulations, general administration, psychology of patient care, principles of medical care, personal and social care, therapeutic and supportive care and services in long term care, departmental organization and management, and community interrelationships. Such training and experience must be in a licensed skilled nursing facility, intermediate care facility one, or intermediate care facility two under the direct supervision of a practicing licensed nursing home administrator who has been certified by the Board as a preceptor, provided that such 960 hours training and experience is completed no more than one year prior to application for examination. Such training and experience under a practicing, licensed nursing home administrator must be conducted under an individual who is a full time certified preceptor in residence at the place of the training, said administrator required to be in compliance with and to utilize the curriculum outlined in the STANDARDS FOR INTERNSHIP IN NURSING HOME ADMINISTRATION, as prescribed by the Board, in order to be certified as a preceptor. Before such training, the prospective intern or trainee must submit to the Board an Enrollment Declaration demonstrating the completion of the educational requirements and a copy of an agreement between the preceptor and the intern or trainee for at least 960 hours training — 40 hours per week for not less than 6 nor more than 12 months. At the end of every 160 hours or each month of training both parties must file a progress report with the Board. Completion of both the educational and the training requirements shall be a prerequisite for application for the state examination for licensure. Proposed amendments also provide that licenses which have expired as a result of nonpayment of license renewal fees or lack of fulfillment of the continuing education requirements may be reinstated only upon payment of past fees due as well as the current fee and completion of 25 hours of continuing education in addition to the statutory requirement of 25 hours.

Copies of these proposed amendments are available from:

Copies of documents may be obtained by paying $15.00, none of which will be refunded, to Hoskins-Western-Sonderegger, Inc. for each set of documents so obtained.

As an evidence of good faith in submitting a proposal for this work, the bidder must file with his proposal and in a separate sealed envelope, a certified or cashiers check made payable to the Airport Authority of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, in an amount not less than 5% of the total amount bid. A separate check is required for each section.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish bond in an amount equal to 100% of the contract.

The right is reserved to waive all technicalities and reject any or all bids.

The Contractor will be required to comply with the wage and labor requirements and to pay minimum wages in accordance with a schedule of wage rates established by the United States Department of Labor and shown in the Special Provisions.

The work under the proposed project is subject to Executive Order 11246 dated September 24, 1965, and to the equal employment opportunity clauses set forth in the Special Provisions. The Contractor or Bidder must supply all the information required by the Bidding or proposal form.

A Contractor who will receive a nonexempt contract exceeding $10,000 will be required to certify on his proposal that he will maintain nonsegregated employee facilities. The Contractor will also be required to obtain from all Subcontractors on the project a certification that they will maintain nonsegregated employee facilities.

Contractors receiving contracts of $50,000 or more having 50 or more employees and his Subcontractors having 50 or more employees and who may be awarded a subcontract of $50,000 or more will be required to maintain an affirmative action program, the standards for which are contained in the advertised specifications (41 CFR 60-1.40). Certification of maintaining an affirmative action program will be required by a Contractor on his proposal form when submitting a proposal of $50,000 or more.

Compliance Reports. Within 30 days after award of this contract the Contractor shall file a compliance report (Standard Form 100) if:

(a) The Contractor has not submitted a complete compliance report within 12 months preceding the date of the award.

(b) The Contractor is within the definition of "employer" in Paragraph 11e(3) of the instructions included in Standard Form 100.

The Contractor shall require the Subcontractor on any first-tier subcontract, irrespective of dollar amount, to file Standard Form 100 within 30 days after award of the subcontract if the above two conditions apply. Standard Form 100 will be furnished upon request.

It shall be a condition of the contract, and shall be made a condition of each subcontract entered into pursuant to the contract, that the Contractor and any Subcontractor shall not require any laborer or mechanic employed in performance of the contract to work in surroundings or under working conditions which are unsanitary, hazardous, or dangerous to his health or safety, as determined under construction safety and health standards promulgated by the United States Secretary of Labor, in accordance with Section 107 of the Contract Work Hours and Safety Standards Act (83 STAT. 96).

The airport Sponsor, in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, and Title 49, Code of Federal Regulations, Department of Transportation, Subtitle A, Office of the Secretary, Part 21, hereby notifies all bidders that it will affirmatively ensure that minority business enterprises will be afforded full opportunity to submit bids in response to this invitation and will not be discriminated against on the grounds of race, color, or national origin in consideration for an award.

Until recently, a cat's meow could be loosely translated as a request for either the 18 oz. box of Meow Mix or the 3½ lb. bag.

Now, however, Meow Mix® cat food also comes in a 7 lb. bag. We call it our large, economy size.

It's perfect for cats with large, not so economy size appetites. And for families with more than one cat.

While it costs less per oz. than our smaller sizes, it also gives a cat the kind of taste as well as the kind of variety he couldn't get in any other larger size.

And not only does your cat's word carry a lot of weight at Meow Mix, now it also carries a lot of weight at the grocery. For with the coupon it can save 30¢ on the 7 lb. bag at Meow Mix.

To Your Good Health:

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson. My daughter, now 17, became very active in gymnastics when she started the sixth grade and kept this up until she left the eighth grade. About this time her knees became very painful and the doctor said she had chondromalacia.

Each year she goes back for a checkup and X-rays. There has been no improvement. She is in excellent health otherwise. Could her overdoing gymnastics at an early age have contributed to the condition? She used to work out three or four hours a day. — J.S.

It could have

The condition refers to a softening of the cartilage, the tough elastic-like substance attached to the bone In your daughter's case this occurred at the knee, one of the most heavily-used joints in the body An injury or overstraining of the joint can cause it It is not uncommon and is seen quite often in young girls In older persons, striking the knee on the dashboard of a car in accidents is a common cause

The condition usually can be treated with rest of the joint and with supervised special exercises to strengthen the knee This is effective in cases of direct injury In some cases, as apparently in your daughter's, the injury can be more gradual She should be examined by an orthopedist to see if surgery to remove troublesome cartilage is needed The symptoms should not have lasted this long A prolonged rest of the joint may be necessary

Of course, as with most joint problems it is well also to rule out other causes such as arthritis In that more than one joint is involved

Dear Dr. Thosteson. Is it customary for one with a hearing problem to have certain noises in the head? I have been hard of hearing in my left ear for quite a few years and have a nerve deafness in my right one. I have had hearing aids, but found them uncomfortable and not of much use.

I have this funny noise all the time, but it seems worse when I am trying to sleep. Could it be hardening of the arteries? I am 76 and had a stroke about five years ago. — L B.

Noises of various kinds, from buzzing and ringing to musical tones are common with the problems you have High blood pressure which can accompany hardening of the arteries, is a common cause

But perfectly healthy people can have ear noises In one experiment among healthy adults who were placed in a noise-free room, 94% had some degree of ear noise So your bed time noises are not unusual

Many medications can cause ear noises — alcohol, tobacco, caffeine, some of the antibiotics, quinine and others Wax in the ears can be a cause

Except in severe ear infection, the only way the ears can signal that something is wrong is through such noises

Hearing aids would not be very effective in loss caused by nerve damage They should help the other ear, where I assume the loss is from some other cause Tests might be needed to see just how much a hearing aid should be able to help Ask an ear specialist to recommend a reliable hearing-aid man

Dear Dr Thosteson. My sister has glaucoma. She is under the care of an eye doctor and has been using eyedrops. Her doctor says the pressure stays normal, but she worries. Using the drops disturbs her, and yet she wants to do what is right.

Why won't doctors operate earlier on people with glaucoma? — Mrs. E.H.

Your sister apparently has the non acute or more gradual form of glaucoma While the precise underlying cause of glaucoma is not known, there are two basic reasons for the build-up of fluid pressure within the eye either a blockage of the tiny drainage canals that remove the fluid normally or an overproduction of the fluid

In the chronic (non-acute) form of glaucoma the build-up is usually so gradual that it goes unnoticed until vision is affected In the acute state the fluid build up is sudden and accompanied by obvious symptoms (pain and vision disturbance) In this case, surgery is usually an emergency measure to preserve sight

In either type, treatment has one goal — to relieve the pressure, either by physically opening the drainage canals or, in the milder cases, using eyedrops to constrict the pupils This opens the areas of the eyes where the canals of Schlemm — the chief drainage structures — are located

If detected early enough the problem usually responds well to conservative treatment (drops) This can be and often is continued for life in order to maintain proper eye pressure Your sister should have frequent checks of her eye pressure to be sure the drops are doing the job

It is always best to handle such problems non surgically where possible, which is the view your sister's eye doctor takes If the drops become ineffective, then surgery to assist the drainage would be considered

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a hiatal hernia and I want to take exercises to lose weight. Is it all right to do so? — Mrs. R.C.

Exercise that puts pressure on your abdomen might also put pressure on the hernia Most calisthenic-type exercises tend to do this However, you do want to lose extra weight if you have any I'd suggest dieting for now Leave the exercising for later

FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

The impairment of vision known as amblyopia is often due to excessive smoking, according to the Nebraska Medical Association

The impairment is not the result of external smoke irritation, but a sensitivity to the toxic substances in tobacco which affect nerves in the retina When the person quits smoking, the condition improves and the patient may recover completely

Not only can smoking affect eyes, it can affect the heart, blood vessels and respiratory system

Nicotine, if injected or taken in tobacco smoke, stimulates that part of the nervous system that controls the heart, blood vessels and other internal organs that function almost automatically

For years smoking has been known to be related to Buerger's Disease, a constriction of the small arteries in the hands and feet that can lead to gangrene and amputation Smokers also die more often from coronary heart disease

The Nebraska Medical Association says an individual must try to reach a solution about his own smoking by considering the damage it may do to his health and act accordingly

School Board To Answer Promptly

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Board of Education will try a new approach to meeting with parents during its regular meeting next Tuesday at 7 p.m. at Calvert School.

In the past, the board has attempted to provide written answers to questions posed by parent groups at the meetings. But Tuesday it will attempt to answer at least some of the questions as soon as they are asked Superintendent John Prasch said.

Tuesday's meeting will be the first of several scheduled to make the board more visible to parents and to allow for an exchange of ideas. A similar schedule proved successful last year, he added.

Board members adopted a "maintenance of plant" plan during an informal work session Tuesday. That plan covered all areas of school facilities, from the 2,687,060 square feet of roofing to the grounds.

The district will have to set aside $235,117 per year to replace 5% of the roofing, since most last about 20 years, Prasch said.

Additional money will have to be set aside for an intensive window replacement program which could cost more than $1 million when completed.

Rudy Bauer, director of operations and maintenance, said replacements, which do away with wooden windows, many of which are dry-rotted now, will lead to energy savings.

"We couldn't keep up with repairing the original wooden frames," Bauer said in explaining the replacement of the wood with aluninum.

In other action, the board reviewed a grievance from the Operations and Maintenance Department Employes Association, which contends members worked 16 hours more than they contracted for in 1975.

Association spokesman Wayne Shipferling told the board that his group worked 2,096 hours instead of the agreed 2,080 hours. He said the group would like a pay adjustment or changes in the duty schedule to allow the time off this year.

Board attorney Edwin Perry noted that the group had signed a contract on an annual salary basis and any recomputation of pay or duty would throw them into the category of wage and hour workers. This would result in a total re-figuring of wages paid during the year in question and might "mean that some would have to pay back any overpayment," he added.

The board also learned that damage done to Arnold School, 5300 W. Night, has been repaired. Prasch said that the schools will seek restitution from the parents of the juveniles involved in the weekend incident.

Prasch said that the schools have a variable track record in collecting, but added that due to the large amount involved, they will pursue this case. The juveniles involved were ages 5, 7 and 9, Prasch added.

Board member Jo Ann Maxey will work with the principal and parents from Whittier Junior High in naming six people to a task force committee to study closing of the school.

Drug Detail Report Due Next Week

The Legislature's Judiciary Committee will receive a report from the State Patrol in a week or so on possible problems in the patrol's drug division.

Sen. Roland Luedtke, committee chairman, said Tuesday he met with Col. C.P. Karthauser, patrol superintendent, and other patrol members about certain aspects of the drug enforcement program.

Luedtke said the hour and a half discussion was "very positive," and that he expected a report from the patrol on suggestions for the program.

The discussion covered the entire program, according to Luedtke.

Sources said that one of the major topics of the discussion was an alleged assault on an undercover informant during the course of an investigation. The assailant, allegedly a suspect in a drug investigation, was never charged in the accident, sources said.

Luedtke said the patrol's report would be turned over to Sen. Loran Schmit, chairman of the Legislature's subcommittee investigating drug enforcement in Nebraska.

Schmit will make a decision whether more public hearings are needed into the drug program after receiving the report, Luedtke said.

UNL Rolls Dip Slightly; 800 Leave

University of Nebraska Lincoln enrollment for the first semester is down from last year with 22,179 students registered for classes.

The enrollment figures do show two highs — a record high for undergraduate students of 16,780, and an unusually large number of cancellations and withdrawals, according to Gerald Bowker, dean of academic services.

About 800 students either cancelled or withdrew, a few hundred more than the normal withdrawals, said Bowker, who added that his office will be studying those cancellations to determine the reasons.

Colleges registering enrollment increases included architecture, business administration, agriculture, home economics, engineering and technology and teachers.

Among professional colleges, dentistry registration showed a small increase and law declined.

The fall enrollment figures do not include approximately 150 College of Pharmacy students who were included in last year's total of 22,380. The move on this college to the Medical Center in Omaha was completed only this fall, Bowker said.

Bowker noted that the number of women enrolled at UNL has risen 1% to 42% this fall.

The average number of credits taken by each student has also risen slightly from 12.3 credits last year to 12.42 this fall, said Bowker.

But the total number of credit hours have declined from 277,122 last year to 275,457 this year.

Total student enrollment by college is listed below.

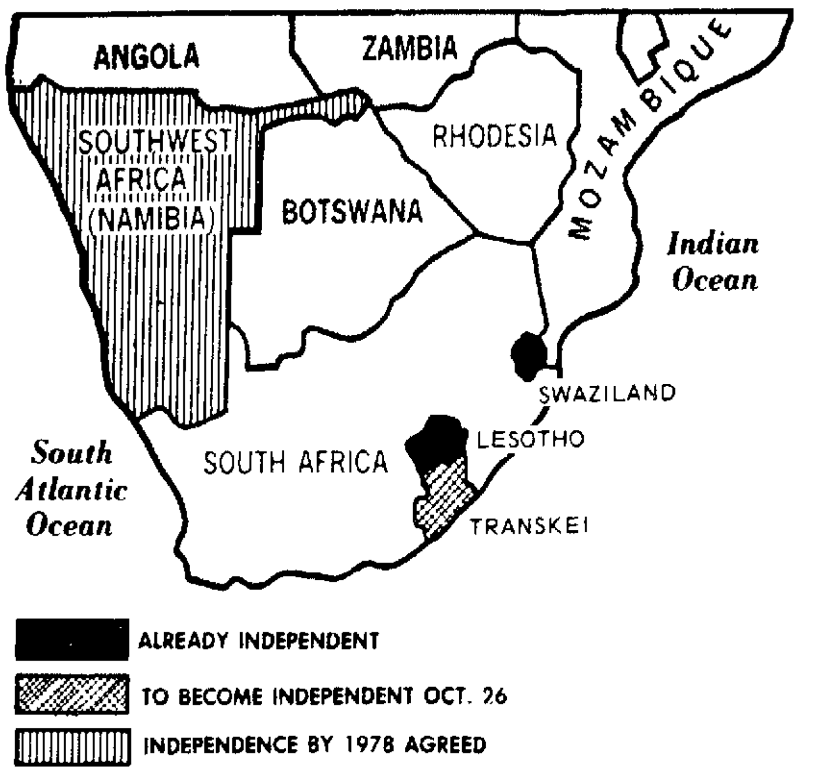
South Africa Minister Of Justice



'Bloody Wednesday' Ended Black Tolerance Of Apartheid

By JOHN PLATTER

Johannesburg, South Africa (UPI) — At 10 minutes past sunrise on Wednesday, June 16, South African police fired into a crowd of rioting black school children in the world's largest black ghetto. That shot ended 16 years of black tolerance of South Africa's strict apartheid segregation policies.

Within a week 176 persons were killed. "Bloody Wednesday" at the Soweto ghetto just outside Johannesburg took its place as a rallying cry for blacks alongside the Sharpeville massacre of 1960 when 69 blacks were killed in an afternoon of trying to storm a police station, the last major uprising against rigid racial segregation.

Since that fatal Wednesday in this Afrikaner republic, blacks and "coloreds" (persons of mixed blood but predominantly mulattos) have launched sustained waves of bloody protest against 28 years of total segregation and government political and economic discrimination against non-European groups. In the past three months 350 persons have died.

The widespread violence has not reached the heights of a general insurrection or uprising, and in fact many of the older black generation have shown they have no stomach for the antigovernment campaign.

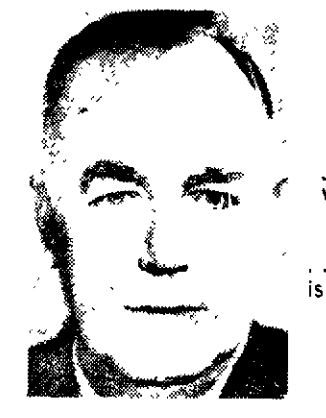
The original protest was against the teaching of the Afrikaans language in black schools, a hated "language of oppression." Most of the proud Zulu, Xhosa and Sotho tribesmen, collectively known as the Bantu, prefer their own tribal language.

Protest Widened

The government dropped that demand but the protest grew into an attack on the entire system of apartheid, drawing its impetus from black guerrilla warfare in neighboring South-West Africa and Rhodesia and the emergence of black governments in the former Portuguese colonies of Angola and Mozambique.

The deepening crisis at home is compounded by racial turmoil in Rhodesia and South-West Africa (Namibia), the U.N. trust territory controlled by South Africa and the target of Soviet-supplied black nationalist guerrillas.

Apartheid dates from 1948 when the ruling National Party first came to power.



John Vorster

. . . 'There is no crisis.'

Nonwhites have no vote. Blacks must use separate public facilities such as toilets and bus services. There is a "pass law" which requires every black to carry a pass book from age 16. This severely restricts his freedom to live and work where he pleases. If he has no book he has no work. It is a criminal offense to be found without one.

There are 4 million whites in South Africa, 18 million blacks, 2.3 million "coloreds" and about 700,000 Asians.

Under 300 years of white leadership South Africa has become the most highly industrialized nation in Africa with vast treasures of minerals including diamonds and gold. The whites do not want to see this change.

The government blames the current troubles on "militant agitation" and the government apparently remains unmoved. Premier John Vorster said recently, "There is no crisis."

Vorster has been faithful to the Verwoerdian grand design of territorial apartheid which envisions carving away 13% of the republic's land are to create nine or 10 tiny, fragmented independent tribal homelands.

They are intended as the nation states from which all of the 18 million blacks must eventually take their citizenship and become foreigners in the 87% area left as "white" South Africa.

Concessions Thought Suicidal

The whites believe any other concessions would spell suicide for whites. Black Africa, and much of the world, believes this very stance ensures a bloody end to white rule.

South Africa was colonized in the 17th century by Dutch, German and French Hughenot pioneers.

Following the discovery of gold and diamonds in the late 19th century the two Boer republics of Transvaal and the Orange Free State were conquered by Britain in the Anglo-Boer War of 1899-1902.

On May 31, 1910, Britain formed the Union of South Africa, uniting the self-governing colonies of Cape of Good Hope, Natal, Transvaal and Orange River. The union remained under the British crown, as part of the Commonwealth, until May 31, 1961, when its nationalist leaders declared a republic and withdrew from the Commonwealth.

The major watershed in South African affairs occurred in May 1948 when the combined National and Afrikaner Parties — representing mainly South Africans of Dutch descent — defeated the United Party of Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts in national elections.

National Party Premier Daniel Malan and later Premier Hendrik Verwoerd declared apartheid to be official policy and developed the system of racial separation.

If Vorster has a second mission beyond preserving his "volk" on the southern tip of Africa, it is to "save us from the yoke of communism."

Interests Converge

On Rhodesia, ironically, Pretoria's and Washington's interests converge on at least one point: trying to prevent another Angola-type debacle that for the first time secured the Soviets a safe military presence in the South Atlantic, close to Western sea lanes around South Africa's Cape of Good Hope. This route is used by supertankers that fuel Western European economies.

South Africa sent troops into Angola's civil war in support of two anti-Communist liberations groups, which lost despite also receiving U.S. military assistance.

South Africa had the tacit support of some African leaders in that venture against the Soviet-backed rebels but to the black continent South Africa remains a greater villain than Moscow.

Vorster's basic strategy — to get the Namibia and Rhodesia problems out of the way — remains unaltered.

The African and American demand for majority black rule in Rhodesia is acceptable to South Africa, which provides Rhodesia's only economic lifeline, and Vorster would welcome an internationally recognized black government there in place of the ostracized white minority

Next, Vorster is willing to yield control of Namibia, a mostly diamond-rich land that Pretoria has ruled since 1920, and let it go its own way to majority rule and independence by Dec. 31, 1978.

But in return for cooperation on these issues, Vorster first wants acceptance of the white right to rule what his followers call the Afrikaner Faterland.

The conflicts in Rhodesia and Namibia may be only preludes to the coming drama in South Africa itself.

South Africa, about twice the size of France, is a vast and scenically beautiful country, lavishly endowed with gold (supplying 73% of the free market's annual purchases) diamonds, coal, agricultural fertility, long rivers and about one-third of the West's uranium.

Economic sanctions never could cripple South Africa. If there is an Achilles heel, it is the lack of oil, but all except 22% of energy requirements are locally available.

The nation's military strength is unsurpassed in Black Africa.

Resentment Symbolized

But for all its strength, South Africa has been wracked internally by an outburst of black resentment symbolized by a 19-year-old black youth, Tsietsi Mashinini.

Student admirers credit him with masterminding Bloody Wednesday. South African police, whom he evaded for weeks in Soweto, the "suburb" of about one million blacks, have put out a $575 reward for information leading to his capture. But he has slipped off to Tanzania via neighboring black-ruled Botswana.

". . . The people are no longer interested in having equal rights with the white people in South Africa," Mashinini says. "They want the tables turned so the white man can get a taste of his own medicine and feel what it is like to be oppressed."

The government has made a few concessions — it announced that blacks will be permitted to partly own their own homes in Soweto for the first time. There may be more concessions But for many radical blacks, only full political equality will suffice

"These small things are just like shifting the deck chairs on a sinking Titanic," said one black woman at a recent secret multiracial meeting of women.

South Africa's most eloquent black spokesman still free is the Zulu chief, Gatsha Buthelezi, head of the Kwazulu homeland that is earmarked for eventual independence. Buthelezi, a soft-spoken man of 49, doesn't want any of it.

"I do not believe Vorster can push us out of the country of our birth," he said "We should have the right to share the wealth and the decision-making."

He dismissed white liberals as people "who are nice to the crocodile so they are eaten last." He believes black numbers will determine South Africa's new political dispensation

By the turn of the century, the 4 million whites will number 7 million, against 40 million blacks.

Riots Called 'Child's Play'

Justice and Police Minister Jimmy Kruger, whose forces are trying to control the riots, dismisses the current upheaval as "child's play" when compared with Ireland, Lebanon and other world trouble spots.

"The black man knows his place, and if not, I'll teach him his place." Kruger recently told a cheering meeting of National Party supporters.

The tough talk hides a new Afrikaner self-appraisal

One Afrikaner intellectual, Prof. Dreyer Kruger, two months ago predicted, "The Afrikaner volk as we know it today is doomed to extinction." Three national Sunday newspapers published his remarks.

"Why should we survive," he asked, "if it is true that we are concerned only over power, privilege and high living conditions . . . ?" He answered his own question: "Most Afrikaans speakers do not care a scrap for the welfare of the black people."

The government is not used to such language from a true blue kinsman.

And the government is worried about another development of the present crisis, a burgeoning white backlash. Already several blacks and mulattoes have been shot to death by white civilians in riot situations.

More than a quarter of the white population is now armed, with more than 200,000 sales of firearms reported ths year alone.

Mineral-Rich Namibia To Get Independence

Johannesburg, South Africa (UPI) — The vast, mineral-rich territory of South-West Africa has been administered by South Africa for 56 years under a mandate branded illegal by the world community three decades ago.

Now the territory, which the United Nations calls Namibia, is ensured a future radically different from its history of racial separation and remote control rule.

In large part because of the threat of U.N. economic and political sanctions, South Africa agreed to the convening of a multiracial constitutional conference in the territory's capital of Windhoek a year ago.

The conference last month set Dec. 31, 1978, as the deadline for independence under a government representing the territory's 98,000 whites and 872,000 blacks, who come from 11 tribal groups.

The accord did not satisfy U.N. demands for speedy elections under U.N. control and recognition of the militant South-West Africa People's Association, known as SWAPO, as the legitimate representative of the majority of the population.

But it was a major turning point for the 970,000 "Southwesters," as the inhabitants of the territory call themselves.

Twice the size of California and rich in diamonds, copper and uranium, South-West Africa stretches from coastal desert dunes to grassy plateau to tropical swampland.

The area came under German control in 1884, during the European colonial powers' "scramble for Africa."

In the name of the World War I Allies, South African forces seized the territory in December 1914 and made it a protectorate. The League of Nations formally approved South African control under a mandate granted Dec. 17, 1920.

The General Assembly of the United Nations on Dec. 14, 1946, rejected South Africa's request to incorporate the territory as part of South Africa.

The South African government, however, proceeded to make the area virtually a fifth province of South Africa.

The United Nations officially stripped South Africa of her mandate in 1966, and two years later renamed the territory Namibia.

In the same year, SWAPO launched a guerrilla campaign for independence that now keeps 10,000 South African troops and police tied down in the area. Since SWAPO escalated its campaign in 1973, 454 guerrillas and 64 South Africans have been killed.

South African Prime Minister John Vorster a year ago sanctioned a body representing all groups except SWAPO to draw up a new constitution for the territory. Last month, he accepted the conference's recommendation of independence in two years.

SWAPO dismissed the talks as rigged by Pretoria, but the movement's leader, Sam Nujoma, said recently he was prepared to negotiate with Vorster.

Vorster replied that he saw no reason why SWAPO should not be represented at the constitutional conference but the ultimate fate of the territory must be decided not by SWAPO or the United Nations but the "Southwesters" themselves.

"It is their country," Vorster says.

Xhosas Win 'Nation,' Lose South Africa Rights

Johannesburg (UPI) — Oct. 26 will be a historic day for South Africa's white government.

Its policy of separate development for the nine different black homelands will start to move from an ideological blueprint dreamed up by late Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd in 1948 to reality.

The Transkei — home of 3.5 million Xhosa people — will mark its independence with a 101-gun salute at the dusty capital of Umtata.

Transkei's chief minister, Kaiser Matanzima, has said he looks forward to "no more apartheid or discrimination." But the first of South Africa's independent states is undoubtedly a problem child.

Transkei recognition already has been rejected by the 48-member Organization of African Unity, and by Britain and the United States. U.N. members seem unlikely to accept the Transkei's credentials.

Born of apartheid, the Transkei will be dependent on South Africa in practice. The white government is not handing over control of Transkei security, telecommunications or immigration. The state will have to be fed by South Africa. The Transkei's rolling hills are grossly overpopulated and eroded. Farming methods are still largely primitive and underproductive.

Seventy per cent of the state's revenue will come from South Africa — both in grants and the money sent home by the 1.5 million Transkeians working in "white" South Africa. Eighty per cent of Transkei males work in South Africa.

In Pretoria's terms it is an equal relationship. But it is not a comfortable one. New South African legislation has hit hard at Xhosas living outside the homeland. They, and those with Xhosa forebears, will lose the few rights they have in South Africa on Oct. 26. As Transkei citizens, they will become foreigners in South Africa.

The 10,000 whites living in the Transkei have been welcomed as future citizens. But many will leave rather than forfeit their South African citizenship.

One source of income the new state intends to tap is tourism. The Transkei boasts southern Africa's most spectacular solitary beaches along its coastline.

Without South Africa 'Passbook' Black Is Worse Off Than Animal

Johannesburg (UPI) — For Daniel Mojalefa, 20, a black man living near Johannesburg, life is an ordeal. Visiting friends, going to the shop for a cool drink, finding a job . . . such simple things are, for him, "a damn risky business" and could land him in jail if a policeman stopped him.

The reason: Mojalefa (not his real name) has no "pass book."

Under South Africa's "pass law," officially known as the Bantu Urban Areas Act, Mojalefa does not qualify for this essential document enabling a black man to live and work in South Africa.

His parents were born in neighboring black-ruled Lesotho and did not register his birth in South Africa.

Nor do they possess documents to prove they have lived in their Johannesburg township for an unbroken period of 15 years, which would enable Mojalefa to become "legal."

"All my efforts to get a pass book failed," said Mojalefa. "The authorities have refused me recognition as a human being. I am a discarded person. I am worse off than an animal. I want to earn my living lawfully. But I need a reference (pass) book so I can go to seek work.

"Visiting friends or relatives, or going to the shops to buy what I want, is a damn risky business. I am in perpetual fear of being nabbed and then sent to jail because I do not have even a scrap of paper to identify me "

The document is mandatory at age 16. It must be carried at all times and produced on demand by a policeman. It is a criminal offense not to have a pass book.

Earlier this year Police Minister Jimmy Kruger said in Parliament that 218,982 men and 50,000 women were arrested in 1975 for offenses involving identity documents.

In terms of the apartheid laws, blacks need permits to seek work, to work, to reside, to rent a house, to live with a husband or wife, to have their children living in the same house, to visit relatives for a weekend, to change jobs, to move to another place, to obtain a pension.

Urban Bantu (African) administration buildings, which issue and control pass documents in all-black townships, were the immediate targets for arsonists in the continuing antigovernment rioting which flared in the republic June 16.

South Africa Built On Minerals

Johannesburg (UPI) — The blacks who work underground in mining towns around Johannesburg, call the city "E-Goli" — the city of gold.

The name represents what South Africa has been built on — minerals, and gold in particular. The nation produces 73% of the world's annual output.

The white-ruled southernmost nation still has the largest gold reserves. Economic Affairs Minister Chris Heunis recently estimated the 1976 gold output would exceed the $2.8 billion worth produced in 1975

The republic has resources of almost everything except oil.

South Africa holds 30% of the world's uranium reserves and plans to have a $1 billion nuclear power station in operation near Cape Town by 1982.

After the Soviet Union, South Africa is the world's biggest chrome producer, and its reserves amount to about two billion tons, equal to 75% of the Western world's reserves.

The republic is the world's biggest producer of gem diamonds and exports in 1973 were worth $186 million. According to government reports, South Africa and South-West Africa (Namibia) produced about 9,540,000 carats last year.

Rhodesia's Whites Outnumbered Nearly 22 To 1

Salisbury, Rhodesia (UPI) — Rhodesia's beleaguered but defiant Prime Minister Ian Smith, once said it "is better to lose while you're standing up and fighting than crawling out on your knees."

Rhodesia's 275,000 white minority, outnumbered nearly 22 to 1 by 6 million blacks, now pins its hopes for a third, more honorable and peaceful alternative on the United States' new concern for southern Africa's racial dilemma

There are signs of white defiance collapsing in Britain's former colony, for nearly 11 years an international outcast after Smith unilaterally ended British colonial rule Nov 11, 1965

Official figures for July this year show a record number of 1,130 whites departed while only 484 immigranted, a net loss of 846

Estimates now say 43% of the whites are immigrants who came since 1965, adding some weight to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's description of Rhodesia as "essentially a refugee problem."

A black guerrilla campaign, waged with Soviet-supplied weapons, is closing in on three fronts from Mozambique in the east, Zambia in the west and Botswana in the southwest. All are hostile African states ringing the landlocked regime.

Only powerful South Africa, Rhodesia's sole economic lifeline, has ensured the survival of Smith's government

Smith has resisted any move to majority black rule, first in meetings with former British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, then directly with black nationalists and lately with South African Premier John Vorster.

Majority rule is the central objective of Kissinger's diplomatic effort, backed by a $1 to $2 billion proposal to guarantee white investment and compensation to those who do not want to remain under black control.

"Majority rule with minority rights," President Ford has said

Earlier this year, Smith went on record for the first time conceding the principle of African majority government — but specified a 10- to 15-year transition period. Kissinger and London have sought a two-year period and this represents the minimum African demand.

There are three major obstacles to peace in Rhodesia, according to Western diplomats.

—Disunity within the ranks of the black nationalists. There are exile movements in both Zambia and Mozambique of the Rhodesian African National Council, split between radicals and moderates. There is also an internal wing headed by moderate Joshua Nkomo

—A belief within official Salisbury circles, expressed recently by Smith himself, that the regime can hold out indefinitely against the current level of guerrilla activity In the 46-month campaign, government forces are maintaining about a 10-to-1 kill rate in their favor

—A moderately healthy and self-sufficient economy that white leaders see no reason to yield to black control They believe this would threaten their privileged status

That status has ensured living conditions among the easiest in the world for whites, many of them semi-illiterate Portuguese refugees from Angola and Mozambique

The lifestyle persists in most of Rhodesia, a country about the size of Montana But in brush areas landmine explosions regularly wreck vehicles and kill passengers, whites have been ambushed and killed in broad daylight by guerrillas and the eastern Mozambique border city of Umtali has come under mortar and rocket shelling

Washington and Pretoria are preoccupied with preventing an escalation of the war South African Foreign Minister Hilgard Muller said last month Rhodesia was becoming an open invitation for a dangerous broadening of Communist involvement in Africa and perhaps could lead to another Angola

To some extent the militants within the guerrilla movement already are irreconcilably committed to their Soviet arms suppliers Their dominance in the leadership reduces the possibility of Smith winning a settlement acceptable to white followers

South African officials say Vorster wants a settlement that would bring to power a moderate, capitalist-oriented black government

Western diplomats are agreed that without a Rhodesian settlement no progress can be made toward defusing the even more complex racial problems of South Africa itself

While Salisbury remains as a vulnerable and exposed trouble spot, they say, the threat exists of a race confrontation mushrooming into an East-West conflict embroiling the entire region.

NOTICE OF HEARING

Pursuant to the provisions of section 71-2042, R.S. Supp., 1976 and of Chapter 84, Article 9, R.R.S. 1943, notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held by the Board of Examiners in Nursing Home Administration of the State of Nebraska on Friday, October 1, 1976, beginning at 10:00 A.M. in the East Senate Chamber, Nebraska State Capitol Building, Lincoln, Nebraska for the purpose of considering the adoption of proposed amendments to the STANDARDS FOR LICENSURE FOR ADMINISTRATORS OF HOMES FOR THE AGED OR INFIRM. These proposed amendments contain provisions concerning increased requirements that an applicant for licensure as a nursing home administrator must possess in order to receive initial licensure: (1) on and after July 1, 1980 attainment of at least an Associate Degree in a field relevant to nursing home administration, as determined by the Board of Examiners in Nursing Home Administration, and (2) attainment of a minimum of six months training and experience rather than the current three months in the 9-Point Core of Knowledge Plan, rather than the current 7-Point Plan, encompassing applicable standards of environmental health and safety, local health and safety regulations, general administration, psychology of patient care, principles of medical care, personal and social care, therapeutic and supportive care and services in long term care, departmental organization and management, and community interrelationships. Such training and experience must be in a licensed skilled nursing facility, intermediate care facility one, or intermediate care facility two under the direct supervision of a practicing licensed nursing home administrator who has been certified by the Board as a preceptor, provided that such 960 hours training and experience is completed no more than one year prior to application for examination. Such training and experience under a practicing, licensed nursing home administrator must be conducted under an individual who is a full time certified preceptor in residence at the place of the training, said administrator required to be in compliance with and to utilize the curriculum outlined in the STANDARDS FOR INTERNSHIP IN NURSING HOME ADMINISTRATION, as prescribed by the Board, in order to be certified as a preceptor. Before such training, the prospective intern or trainee must submit to the Board an Enrollment Declaration demonstrating the completion of the educational requirements and a copy of an agreement between the preceptor and the intern or trainee for at least 960 hours training — 40 hours per week for not less than 6 nor more than 12 months. At the end of every 160 hours or each month of training both parties must file a progress report with the Board. Completion of both the educational and the training requirements shall be a prerequisite for application for the state examination for licensure. Proposed amendments also provide that licenses which have expired as a result of nonpayment of license renewal fees or lack of fulfillment of the continuing education requirements may be reinstated only upon payment of past fees due as well as the current fee and completion of 25 hours of continuing education in addition to the statutory requirement of 25 hours.

Copies of these proposed amendments are available from:

Plans and specifications for the work may be seen and information secured at the office of the Airport Executive Director in the Terminal Building, Municipal Airport, Lincoln, Nebraska, and at the office of Hoskins-Western-Sonderegger, Inc., Engineers-Planners-Architects, 825 "J" Street, Lincoln, Nebraska. Copies of documents may be obtained by paying $15.00, none of which will be refunded, to Hoskins-Western-Sonderegger, Inc. for each set of documents so obtained.

As an evidence of good faith in submitting a proposal for this work, the bidder must file with his proposal and in a separate sealed envelope, a certified or cashiers check made payable to the Airport Authority of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, in an amount not less than 5% of the total amount bid. A separate check is required for each section.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish bond in an amount equal to 100% of the contract.

The right is reserved to waive all technicalities and reject any or all bids.

The Contractor will be required to comply with the wage and labor requirements and to pay minimum wages in accordance with a schedule of wage rates established by the United States Department of Labor and shown in the Special Provisions.

The work under the proposed project is subject to Executive Order 11246 dated September 24, 1965, and to the equal employment opportunity clauses set forth in the Special Provisions. The Contractor or Bidder must supply all the information required by the Bidding or proposal form.

A Contractor who will receive a non-exempt contract exceeding $10,000 will be required to certify on his proposal that he will maintain nonsegregated employee facilities. The Contractor will also be required to obtain from all Subcontractors on the project a certification that they will maintain nonsegregated employee facilities.

Contractors receiving contracts of $50,000 or more having 50 or more employees and his Subcontractors having 50 or more employees and who may be awarded a subcontract of $50,000 or more will be required to maintain an affirmative action program, the standards for which are contained in the advertised specifications (41 CFR 60-1.40). Certification of maintaining an affirmative action program will be required by a Contractor on his proposal form when submitting a proposal of $50,000 or more.

Compliance Reports. Within 30 days after award of this contract the Contractor shall file a compliance report (Standard Form 100) if:

(a) The Contractor has not submitted a complete compliance report within 12 months preceding the date of the award.

(b) The Contractor is within the definition of "employer" in Paragraph 11e(3) of the instructions included in Standard Form 100.

The Contractor shall require the Subcontractor on any first-tier subcontract, irrespective of dollar amount, to file Standard Form 100 within 30 days after award of the subcontract if the above two conditions apply. Standard Form 100 will be furnished upon request.

It shall be a condition of the contract, and shall be made a condition of each subcontract entered into pursuant to the contract, that the Contractor and any Subcontractor shall not require any laborer or mechanic employed in performance of the contract to work in surroundings or under working conditions which are unsanitary, hazardous, or dangerous to his health or safety, as determined under construction safety and health standards promulgated by the United States Secretary of Labor, in accordance with Section 107 of the Contract Work Hours and Safety Standards Act (83 STAT. 96).

The airport Sponsor, in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, and Title 49, Code of Federal Regulations, Department of Transportation, Subtitle A, Office of the Secretary, Part 21, hereby notifies all bidders that it will affirmatively ensure that minority business enterprises will be afforded full opportunity to submit bids in response to this invitation and will not be discriminated against on the grounds of race, color, or national origin in consideration for an award.

By order of the Airport Authority of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska.

Dated at Lincoln, Nebraska this 20th day of July 1976.

MEOW MIX
A Tasty Combination of 3 Separate
Tuna Liver Chicken
NET WT. 7 LBS.

Until recently, a cat's meow could be loosely translated as a request for either the 18 oz. box of Meow Mix or the 3½ lb. bag.

Now, however, Meow Mix® cat food also comes in a 7 lb. bag. We call it our large, economy size.

It's perfect for cats with large, not so economy size appetites. And for families with more than one cat.

While it costs less per oz. than our smaller sizes, it also gives a cat the kind of taste as well as the kind of variety he couldn't get in any other larger size.

And not only does your cat's word carry a lot of weight at Meow Mix, now it also carries a lot of weight at the grocery. For with the coupon it can save 30¢ on the 7 lb. bag at Meow Mix.

Stocks Soar Past 1,000 Barrier

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market surged past the stubborn 1,000 barrier in the Dow Jones industrial average Tuesay, rolling up its biggest gain in more than a year and reaching a new high since January 1973.

The closely followed Dow average jumped 20.28 points to 1,014,79. its highest close since it finished at 1,018.66 on Jan. 23, 1973.

The gain was the biggest since it climbed 22.45 points Aug. 8 of last year, and brought the average within 37 points of its all-time closing peak of 1,051.70 on Jan. 11, 1973.

New York Stock Exchange volume accelerated to 30.30 million shares from 21.73 million Monday, topping the 30 million-mark for the first time since 32.61 million changed hands on March 24 this year.

Advances outdistanced declines by more than a 3-1 margin in the daily tally of NYSE-listed issues.

Analysts said a primary catalyst for the advance was provided by hopes for a relaxation in Federal Reserve credit policy that would mean a continuation of the recent downtrend in interest rates.

The Fed's policy-setting Open Market Committee held its monthly meeting Tuesday. The committee doesn't report its decisions until several weeks after they are made, but Wall Streeters were hoping to see signs of an easing up by the central bank in the money markets within the next few days.

There was, however, no confirmation available that the Fed had decided on any moves to ease credit.

The Dow had not closed above 1,000 in more than two months, and had turned back at the verge of that point several times since then.

When it broke unhesitatingly through 1,000 at mid-morning Tuesday, additional buyers joined in the rally. Brokers noted that traders who had sold short previously rushed to buy back in and limit their losses.

In reaching new heights for the market recovery that began nearly two years ago, the Dow was in fact catching up with other market indicators which had done so late last week and Monday.

General Motors, the day's most active issue, picked up more than 2 points and was one of several top-rank blue chips reaching new highs for the year.

Others included Exxon, the nation's biggest energy company; American Telephone, the most widely owned corporation with 2.9 million shareowners, and IBM, which ranks No. 1 in total market value in the NYSE list.

All major stock groups registered gains.

One of the strongest individual advances was posted by Elgin National, up 5 points for the day. The company, in engineering and construction as well as the watch business, announced a 2-for-1 stock split and an increased cash dividend.

Con Agra Earnings Are 30% Lower

Omaha (AP) — ConAgra, Inc., reported Tuesday earnings for the first quarter of fiscal 1977 were 30% below the same quarter one year ago.

At its annual stockholders meeting, ConAgra reported that first quarter sales of $134,123,000, up 9% from the $122,769,000 recorded in last year's first quarter.

Charles M. Harper, president and chief executive officer, said, "Net earnings of $3,055,000 in the first quarter of fiscal 1977 were 30% under the peak earnings of $4,349,000 in the first quarter a year ago when margins in the company's broiler business were at record levels, but 114% better than first quarter earnings in any year prior to fiscal 1976."

Firm Seeks Damages From Uniroyal

Omaha (AP) — O.K. Tire City of Omaha went to court Monday seeking damages from Uniroyal for alleged violations of the Sherman Antitrust Act.

The civil case is being heard by a jury, with U.S. District Court Judge Robert V. Denney presiding.

Tire City is seeking $100,000 in damages for alleged Uniroyal interference in the company's business. The company is also seeking treble damages under the terms of the Sherman Antitrust Act.

Tire City officials claim they solicited business not only in Omaha, but in western Iowa and over much of southern Nebraska, but that Uniroyal illegally attempted to confine Tire City's sales area to Omaha.

Hogs, Cattle Dip Sharply

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Heavy numbers glutted the Omaha livestock market Tuesday sending butcher hogs and cattle sharply lower.

The day's hog run was estimated at about 6,200, and the trade on barrows and gilts was termed slow.

The butcher trend was $2.00-to-$3.00 lower, with top-grading handyweights bulking from $36.00-$36.25 — 75 head averaging about 230-pounds cleared the day's top at $36.50 late.

Sows turned $1.50-to-$2.50 lower on tickets marked generally from $31.00-$32.00.

There were about 6,200 cattle and calves on offer, and again, the trade on slaughter steers and heifers was slow, and unevenly 50-cents to $1.00 lower.

Cows trended mostly 50-cents lower in slow activity.

There were about 500 sheep in the pens. Spring slaughter lambs turned 50-cents lower, while the few slaughter ewes available were called steady.

Soybean Prices Decline Again

Chicago (AP) — Soybean prices sank again on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday, pulling most other commodities downward amid commission house and speculative selling.

Soybeans dropped as much as 7 cents a bushel, continuing a prolonged selloff. The commodity had opened as much as 10 cents higher but gradually lost ground in an uneasy market.

Every now and then, one of our advertisers doesn't get the results he expected from an ad in the Journal-Star, and points his finger at us, not knowing who else to blame.

More often than not, he's one of our advertisers who always insists that "he knows what he wants." He doesn't let our ad rep. help him plan an ad schedule, provide professionally-prepared layouts, suggest best days or placement.

It's a simple fact that the Journal-Star reaches more households in Southeast Nebraska than ANY other advertising medium. We have a lot of very prosperous businesses, large and small, who will be happy to give testimony to our pulling power.

But if you're still doubtful, perhaps it will take a few thousand kittens to prove ourselves to you.

School Board To Answer Promptly

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Board of Education will try a new approach to meeting with parents during its regular meeting next Tuesday at 7 p.m. at Calvert School.

In the past, the board has attempted to provide written answers to questions posed by parent groups at the meetings. But Tuesday it will attempt to answer at least some of the questions as soon as they are asked Superintendent John Prasch said.

Tuesday's meeting will be the first of several scheduled to make the board more visible to parents and to allow for an exchange of ideas. A similar schedule proved successful last year, he added.

Board members adopted a "maintenance of plant" plan during an informal work session Tuesday. That plan covered all areas of school facilities, from the 2,687,060 square feet of roofing to the grounds.

The district will have to set aside $235,117 per year to replace 5% of the roofing, since most last about 20 years, Prasch said.

Additional money will have to be set aside for an intensive window replacement program which could cost more than $1 million when completed.

Rudy Bauer, director of operations and maintenance, said replacements, which do away with wooden windows, many of which are dry-rotted now, will lead to energy savings.

"We couldn't keep up with repairing the original wooden frames," Bauer said in explaining the replacement of the wood with aluminum.

In other action, the board reviewed a grievance from the Operations and Maintenance Department Employes Association, which contends members worked 16 hours more than they contracted for in 1975.

Association spokesman Wayne Shipferling told the board that his group worked 2,096 hours instead of the agreed 2,080 hours. He said the group would like a pay adjustment or changes in the duty schedule to allow the time off this year.

Board attorney Edwin Perry noted that the group had signed a contract on an annual salary basis and any recomputation of pay or duty would throw them into the category of wage and hour workers. This would result in a total re-figuring of wages paid during the year in question and might "mean that some would have to pay back any overpayment," he added

The board also learned that damage done to Arnold School, 5300 W. Night, has been repaired. Prasch said that the schools will seek restitution from the parents of the juveniles involved in the weekend incident.

Prasch said that the schools have a variable track record in collecting, but added that due to the large amount involved, they will pursue this case. The juveniles involved were ages 5, 7 and 9, Prasch added.

Board member Jo Ann Maxey will work with the principal and parents from Whittier Junior High in naming six people to a task force committee to study closing of the school

Drug Detail Report Due Next Week

The Legislature's Judiciary Committee will receive a report from the State Patrol in a week or so on possible problems in the patrol's drug division.

Sen. Roland Luedtke, committee chairman, said Tuesday he met with Col C P. Karthauser, patrol superintendent, and other patrol members about certain aspects of the drug enforcement program.

Luedtke said the hour and a half discussion was "very positive," and that he expected a report from the patrol on suggestions for the program.

The discussion covered the entire program, according to Luedtke.

Sources said that one of the major topics of the discussion was an alleged assault on an undercover informant during the course of an investigation. The assailant, allegedly a suspect in a drug investigation, was never charged in the accident, sources said.

Luedtke said the patrol's report would be turned over to Sen. Loran Schmit, chairman of the Legislature's subcommittee investigating drug enforcement in Nebraska.

Schmit will make a decision whether more public hearings are needed into the drug program after receiving the report, Luedtke said.

UNL Rolls Dip Slightly; 800 Leave

University of Nebraska Lincoln enrollment for the first semester is down from last year with 22,179 students registered for classes.

The enrollment figures do show two highs — a record high for undergraduate students of 16,780, and an unusually large number of cancellations and withdrawals, according to Gerald Bowker, dean of academic services.

About 800 students either cancelled or withdrew, a few hundred more than the normal withdrawals, said Bowker, who added that his office will be studying those cancellations to determine the reasons.

Colleges registering enrollment increases included architecture, business administration, agriculture, home economics, engineering and technology and teachers.

Among professional colleges, dentistry registration showed a small increase and law declined.

The fall enrollment figures do not include approximately 150 College of Pharmacy students who were included in last year's total of 22,380. The move on this college to the Medical Center in Omaha was completed only this fall, Bowker said

Bowker noted that the number of women enrolled at UNL has risen 1% to 42% this fall.

The average number of credits taken by each student has also risen slightly from 12.3 credits last year to 12.42 this fall, said Bowker

But the total number of credit hours have declined from 277,122 last year to 275,457 this year.

Total student enrollment by college is listed below.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Wednesday, Sept. 22, 1976

Aquarian whose works influenced me: Gertrude Stein. Another Aquarian who did the same in another way: Evangeline Adams. There have been four Aquarian presidents of the United States. Not one completed his term in office. Aquarian friends of astrology include Forrest Tucker, Norman Mailer Kim Novak, Zsa Zsa Gabor, Burt Reynolds and many others. Aquarians and astrology go together — these are persons who adore surprises, are unconventional, have great intellectual curiosity and their sense of humor is delightful.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Vitality makes comeback — health and work conditions improve. Younger person or child could be responsible for pleasant surprise. Accent on diplomatic approach, special services, new contacts, creativity and added independence.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Study Aries message for significant hint. Moon aspects show you are in process of reevaluation. You're changing positions, making room for ideas, concepts which had been far away if not foreign. Aquarius, Leo persons could be involved. Love is very much in picture.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Highlight versatility. Expand horizons. Check signals, reservations. Sagittarian is in picture. Another Gemini could also be part of scenario. One who is close to you should not be taken for granted. A gift now might work wonders!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Money, connected with past investment or interest or overpayment is featured. Put succinctly, you're due for refund! Know it and act accordingly. Accent on movement, relatives, close neighbors, errands. Be sure you're getting money's worth. Count change!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Check Cancer message — money question could arise. Emphasis on possessions, what you spend, earn, save. Be analytical. Do some personal detective work. Reject the superficial — the deeper you dig, the greater the chance of striking pay dirt.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Straighten out family affairs. Give voice some rest. Cycle high — judgment, intution apt to be on target. Emphasis also on property, long-standing offer or ambition. Partner or mate may be responsible for final decision.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Pisces, Virgo individuals impinge on thoughts, ideas, plans. What was a secret could become common knowledge. Be prepared. Your ESP works overtime. Visit one confined to home, hospital. Remember past favors — and repay them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): If you organize thoughts, priorities . . . you will be advancing your own cause in a practical, constructive manner. Accent on friends, hopes, wishes, romantic interests. Nothing is halfway — it is hot or cold, all or nothing. If you're "fooling" about love situation, stop it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You gain greater overall view — your spiritual qualities come to forefront. You are on path now to discovery, mainly going — and you're due to find out "why."

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Break through red tape barrier. Be confident that your original, perhaps pioneering concepts are correct — and workable. Leo, Aquarius figure prominently. Accent on long-distance calls, manuscripts, your ability to skillfully relate a story.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your best qualities could be spotlighted. Surprise element is present — and you handle it to personal advantage. One who is close, then far away will finally back your position. Your wish comes true in unorthodox manner.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Don't press — leave details, fine points for another time. Permit partner, mate to express views or take initiative. Overall view is best for now along with change from routine. Social affair could lead to interesting contacts. Gemini, Virgo persons are likely to be in picture.

IF SEPTEMBER 22nd IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you faced facts of life at an early age. You could have been separated from one or both parents. You foresee outlines of future. You are a "natural architect," an artist, a person who weighs various factors, interprets and seeks justice. Scorpio, Leo individuals play important in your life. In October, you begin a new phase of your existence. You start a cycle and will finish with a burden that has been hanging on for a number of years. Good!

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

NU Seeking MG Helpers

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska's third-string football players went through a 20 minute scrimmage Tuesday afternoon for the express purpose of finding a middle guard to back up Jeff Pullen when the Huskers play Texas Christian Saturday in the opening home game in NU's Memorial Stadium.

Coach Tom Osborne, however, said that if something should happen to Pullen early in the game, Ron Pruitt would be moved to middle guard and his spot at left tackle would be taken by Randy Poeschl. Poeschl had a good game last Saturday against Indiana.

If Pullen should go out later on with the issue decided, the replacement would be chosen from among three players who scrimmaged Tuesday — Mitch Webb, Kelvin Roehrs and freshman Kerry Weinmaster.

Linebacker Clete Pillen was held out of practice as he continues to recover from a sprained ankle, but Osborne expects he will don pads Wednesday. "If he can't play, that will be a trouble spot for us," Osborne said.

Pillen's backup, Percy Eichelberger, will miss the TCU game because of surgery on a finger on his right hand.

Starter at the other linebacking position, James Wightman, is a "more complete football player this season," Osborne said. He has led Husker tacklers in both games so far.

Backup linebackers are Lee Kunz behind Pillen and Jeff Carpenter behind Wightman.

Curtis Craig, who filled in during the emergency situation at I-back against LSU, played all of the Indiana game at wingback and will be there again against TCU.

The Huskers, who advanced two spots in the United Press International poll of coaches on Monday, also moved up to sixth in the Associated Press poll of sportswriters.

Frosh Open Friday

Nebraska, the only school in the Big Eight Conference which still runs a football program exclusively for freshman, will open the 1976 season at 1:30 p.m Friday in NU's Memorial Stadium.

The schedule calls for five games, including the first three at home. Coach Guy Ingles expects the games to provide more of a test than last year's yearlings got because the young Huskers will be going against junior varsity teams from four conference schools.

The only nonleague opponent will be rival UN-Omaha, a team the NU freshman have met the last two season in Omaha. This time, the Mavericks will come to Lincoln for a Monday afternoon game on Oct. 11. NU has won both previous games, 6-0 in 1974 and 41-0 last season.

Friday's opener will be against the Kansas State Jayvees, who last week defeated Highland Community College of Kansas, 17-13. The other home game will be against Missouri here Oct. 22, the afternoon before the Tigers bring their varsity here to face the Huskers.

Ingles will take his squad to Kansas on Oct. 29 and to Iowa State on Nov. 12. Ingles, a former NU standout and assistant frosh coach the last four years, takes over for Jim Ross, who has handled the freshmen since 1969.

Ross compiled a 27-2 record in seven seasons, leaving big shoes to fill when he took over as director of the new Nebraska Sports Center complex.

Assisting Ingles this year are Steve McKelvey, Mark Heydorf, Bob Thornton, Dean Gissler, Dave Redding and Ron Nitzel.

The game will be broadcast by station KRNU-FM.

Hawaii Having Problems

The University of Hawaii's Rainbow Warriors, already 0-2 this season, suffered a major blow last Saturday during a 56-21 loss to Texas A&I, defending NAIA champions.

They lost their No. 1 quarterback, Alex Kaloi, who suffered a slipped veterbra during a pileup late in the first quarter.

"In Alex's case, team physician Dr. Herbert Hata said, "the sixth veterbra slipped over the seventh and in so doing impinged on some of the nerves that control much of the arm. Football is over for him."

Coach Larry Price said it was "probably the saddest day of my life" when he learned of Kaloi's injury. "He was the team's leader on and off the field and his absence will be significant psychologically to our team."

Kaloi's passing marks in two seasons for Hawaii were 198 of 402 connections for 2,150 yards and ten touchdowns. With him out of the game, the Warriors hit just two of 17 for 37 yards and had four intercepted. Texas A&I gained 567 yards total offense, including 256 through the air.

It might be interesting to Nebraska coach Tom Osborne to know that Texas A&I was penalized 15 times for 174 yards. Officials in Honolulu apparently know which is the home team. Nebrska will be the visiting team on Dec. 4.

With Kaloi out, guess who becomes the No. 1 Hawaii quarterback? None other than former Oklahoma QB, Joe McReynolds.

Speaking of officials, the quote of the week goes to Northwestern trainer Tom Oxley after the Wildcats lost 12-0 to North Carolina in Chapel Hill: "I think the South could have won the Civil War with those officials."

Royals Take First Battle

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "This puts us seven up on them with 11 to play, that's all it does," snapped an angry Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog. "I'd love to beat them the next two and put them nine back. Then they really would be desperate."

Herzog's Royals whipped arch-rival Oakland 3-1 to move seven games in front of the A's in the American League West. But any victory celebration was short-circuited by a beanball incident and Herzog's charges that the A's were using binoculars and a walkie-talkie in their bullpen to steal signs.

Umpires told Herzog there was no rule against binoculars, but the Kansas City skipper insisted they be removed.

"If that is the way they run the league, that is fine," he said. "Maybe we'll start getting cutesie on them too."

Royals' center fielder Amos Otis, who has quarreled with Oakland Manager Chuck Tanner in the press this season, insists Tanner ordered A's pitcher Stan Bahnsen to throw at him.

"But Bahnsen does not throw hard enough to knock me out," Otis said. "Will I play tomorrow night? Does a bee give honey?"

Tanner denied using the binoculars for any strategic purposes and declared that the Royals, who have won five straight games now, still are not the champions.

"It hurts but it does not mean the season is over," he said. "It's not over until you see it in the paper."

Hal McRae and John Mayberry lashed run-scoring singles to lead Kansas City's big victory.

It was a club record 43rd road loss this year for the A's, who have dominated the AL West since 1971.

Oakland starter Stan Bahnsen, 8-7, held the Royals hitless until the third inning, then yielded McRae's RBI single after walkng Jim Wohlford and George Brett. Mayberry's single then scored Brett.

The A's tagged Kansas City starter Doug Bird, 12-9, for a run in the sixth on consecutive doubles by Campy Campaneris and Joe Rudi.

A sacrifice fly by Mayberry off reliever Rollie Fingers in the eighth gave the Royals an insurance run.

Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog complained during the game that Oakland players in the bullpen were using binoculars to steal signs and announced that his team was playing under protest. A search of the bullpen failed to turn up the field glasses.

Fuming over the binocular incident, Herzog led the entire umpiring crew to the A's bullpen in the sixth inning.

Rigney Out As Giants Manager

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bill Rigney, deciding Tuesday that one season was enough his second time around as manager of the San Francisco Giants, announced his resignation, as expected, effective at the end of the baseball season.

"I've had enough managing. It's that simple, really," Rigney said at a news conference before the Giants' game against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Bob Lurie, co-owner of the National League team, said he hoped to name a manager for 1977 within 10 days and that candidates included Giants coaches Bobby Winkles and Jim Davenport, former Giants and Oakland A's manager Alvin Dark and former Dodger star Maurie Wills.

Lurie said he has talked to Wills, once considered a candidate to become the big leagues' first black manager, "and he's very interested." Frank Robinson of the Cleveland Indians is the only black manager in the majors.

The other candidates for the San Francisco job, Lurie said, are San Diego Padres coach Joe Amalfitano; Rocky Bridges, who managed the Giants' Phoenix farm team; and Vern Rapp, who managed Denver, a Montreal farm club, this year.

Lurie also said he would talk to Dick Williams, the former A's manager who was fired by the California Angels this season.

Rigney, who hopes to stay with the club in another capacity, said, "I'm disappointed about the way the team has played, but that has nothing to do with this decision." The Giants were last in the Western Division most of the season but recently climbed to fourth place.

With more than 17 years of big league managing experience, Rigney ranks second in seniority to the Los Angeles Dodgers' Walter Alston.

This Is The Way To Do It!

MOSCOW,Idaho (AP) — "This is the way you do it," University of Idaho teacher Douglas MacFarlane told his golf class Monday as he stepped up to the No. 11 tee at the campus golf course.

MacFarlane sank a hole-in-one, his first.

"I just told the class that you go down a club when there is a tailwind and swing easy," he said. "When we got to the green the ball was in the cup."

Buses Ready For NU Fans

Four buses will leave the bus garage at 11:30 a.m. Saturday to take Nebraska football fans who park their cars at the State Fairgrounds to Memorial Stadium for the Nebraska-TCU game.

The buses will go to the south gate of the Fairgrounds parking lot, make a loop through there and go out the west gate to 14th Street — 14th to Vine — Vine to the east side of the stadium.

The buses, free of charge, will follow the same route after the game.

Manny Trillo of the Chicago Cubs slides safely across home plate and by catcher Duffy Dyer to score in the fifth inning of the first game of Tuesday's doubleheader with the Pittsburgh Pirates at Wrigley Field. The clubs split, dropping Pittsburgh five games behind Philadelphia, which won.

Reds Capture Division As Phillies Roll Ahead

From News Wires

The Cincinnati Reds clinched their fifth National League Western Division title in seven years Tuesday night, beating the San Diego Padres 9-1 in Cincinnati as rookie Pat Zachry notched his 14th victory.

Zachry, supported by a 12-hit Cincinnati attack, scattered eight hits to lift his record to 14-5. The 6-foot-5 right-hander struck out eight and walked three as the Reds claimed the NL West title with 10 games left in the season.

The Reds knocked out Padres starter Tom Griffin, 7-7, then raked relief ace Butch Metzger for five hits and three runs in two innings.

Johnny Bench and Tony Perez drilled two-run bases-loaded singles to key a four-run sixth inning that broke the game open.

The Padres got their only run off Zachry in the first inning on consecutive singles by Bill Almon and John Grubb. Almon scored on a wild throw by Dave Concepcion on an attempted double play.

The Reds tied it in the fourth when George Foster tripled off the top of the center field fence and scored on a wild pitch by Griffin.

The Reds then loaded the bases when Cesar Geronimo walked, Concepcion hit an infield single and Zachry reached on a throwing error by Griffin. But reliever Dave Tomlin then snuffed the one-out rally by retiring Rose and Ken Griffey.

Cincinnati went ahead 3-1 in the fifth on a double by Foster and a run-scoring single by Concepcion. Joe Morgan had opened the inning with a single and then stole his 58th base of the season in 65 attempts.

Rose opened the sixth inning outburst, reaching second when center fielder Willie Davis dropped his fly ball. After Griffey beat out an infield single and Morgan walked to load the bases with none out, Bench singled in two runs for his 79th and 80th RBI of the season. Metzger hit Foster with a pitch and Perez followed with a tworunsingle.

Morgan and Foster had RBI singles in the seventh to make it 9-1.

At Philadelphia, Dick Allen's double with two out in the fourth inning triggered a three-run outburst and the Philadelphia Phillies went on to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 5-1 and boost their lead in the National League's Eastern Division to five games.

The Phillies picked up one-half game on second-place Pittsburgh, which split an afternoon doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs. The Phils have 13 games remaining, the Pirates 11.

After Allen doubled, Mike Schmidt walked and Johnny Oates singled for the Phils' first run in 13 innings as Schmidt advanced to third. Larry Bowa singled to score Schmidt, and Oates came home when pitcher Tommy Underwood's chopper bounced off third baseman Hector Cruz' glove for an error.

The Phillies made it 4-0 with one out in the sixth when Schmidt smashed a drive off the left-field foul pole for his 36th home run of the season. Allen accounted for the Phillies' final run in the eighth with his 15th home run.

St. Louis scored its run in the seventh on a walk to Cruz, a fielder's choice, a wild pitch and pinch-hitter Ken Rudolph's single.

Underwood earned his 10th victory in 15 decisions, with Tug McGraw gaining credit for his 10th save. Cards starter John Denny, who had four wins, one loss and one no decsion in his last six starts with an earned run average of 0.98, absorbed his eighth loss against 10 victories.

At Chicago, Manny Trillo's two-out single in the 13th inning drove home Jerry Morales, who had doubled as the Cubs beat Pittsburgh 2-1, thwarting the Pirates bid for a doubleheader sweep.

The Pirates won the first game, 4-3, on a two-out, two-run ninth inning single by Rennie Stennett, snapping a three-game losing streak.

Morales' double and Trillo's line shot to right came off Bob Moose, 3-9, and gave the win to Paul Reuschel, 4-2, the Cubs' sixth pitcher, as Pirate right-fielder Dave Parker's throw to get Morales at the plate bounced past catcher Duffy Dyer.

In the second game the Cubs scored first. They twice loaded the bases in the third on a hit, two walks and an error, but managed only one unearned run, which scored on an infield out.

Rob Sperring opened the third inning with a single to center and Joe Wallis walked. Steve Stone, trying to bunt, forced Sperring at third.

Prep Awards To GICC Duo

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

Two seconds showed on the clock. Twenty-one yards separated Grand Island Central Catholic from a touchdown, which would give the Crusaders an 18-17 victory over Gothenburg.

Central Catholic assistant coach Tom Wetzel called the play he had used with success on the junior varsity level — a pitch to the halfback, who in turn, throws a pass back to the quarterback.

Quarterback Rick Brown and halfback Tim Hansen worked the trick play to perfection and therefore share the Sunday Journal and Star's Athlete of the Week award.

It was shades of John O'Leary to Dave Humm. Those two ex-Cornhuskers clicked for an 11-yard touchdown pass against Oklahoma in 1974. Trouble was, Nebraska lost that game, 28-14.

Central Catholic turned the play into its second win in three games, handing Gothenburg its first loss in three starts.

"It was dramatic. It was beautiful," said Central Catholic coach Carl Tesmer, describing the play as the icing to the most astounding football comeback in the school's history.

Gothenburg led, 17-6, until Central Catholic closed within 17-12 with 6:33 left in the fourth quarter. Gothenburg then consumed almost five minutes before turning the ball over to the Crusaders on Central Catholic's 16-yard line with 1:40 remaining.

A facemask penalty, a 19-yard double reverse and another personal foul penalty against Gothenburg right before the dramatic touchdown aided the 84-yard drive.

"It was Wetzel's play all the way," Tesmer said. "No one mentioned it until timeout was called with two seconds left. You've got to believe. It's the finest comeback I've ever seen. We could have quit, but we didn't. These kids showed a lot of heart."

Others earning Athlete of the Week recognition include:

Joe Prai, Lincoln Northeast — His 32-yard first-quarter touchdown and 66-yard second-quarter touchdown on a punt return spurred the Rockets to their first win, a 26-14 decision over Millard.

Ron Eskam, Scottsbluff — His 95-yard touchdown with an intercepted pass on the first play of the fourth quarter keyed unbeaten Bearcats' 16-6 win over defending state champion Lincoln East.

Jeff Beckman, Wisner-Pilger —Senior quarterback threw four touchdown passes, covering 9, 18, 18 and 29 yards as team scored 28-21 upset win over Wayne.

Dave Krebs, Ralston — Senior split end, who did not go out for football last year, caught 31- and 14-yard touchdown passes in the first half of unbeaten Rams' 23-7 win over Lincoln Southeast.

Dean Stromer, Hastings Adams Central — Junior running back rushed for 201 yards and scored on touchdown runs of 8 and 62 yards as unbeaten team defeated Hastings St. Cecilia, 28-6. He has rushed for 492 yards in Adams Central's three wins.

Joe Graham, Osceola — Only a freshman, he rushed for 99 yards on 13 carries and sprinted 60 yards for a touchdown to spark a 12-6 upset over Class C-1's previously No. 5 rated Stromsburg.

Ray Ostdiek, Lawrence — Senior middle linebacker was credited with 19 tackles in 12-0 win over Deshler. He also blocked a punt, recovered a fumble, intercepted a pass and returned it 40 yards, rushed for 82 yards, threw a 40-yard halfback pass and scored on an eight-yard run. He has participated in 62 tackles, including 40 solo stops, in three games.

Steve Meyer, Palmer — Junior quarterback threw four touchdown passes of 10, 13, 20 and 25 yards in 30-24 win over Genoa. He finished 8-for-10 for 152 yards.

Brad Powell, Shickley — Junior running back was busy in 12-12 tie with Exeter, carrying 45 times for 190 yards. He scored on a 20-yard run, recovered a fumble and was credited with nine tackles, five unassisted.

Tiger Red K. Pays $380 At Columbus

Columbus — What is believed to be the highest win payoff ever recorded at a Nebraska horse race track occurred here Tuesday in the third race at Agricultural Park.

Jockey Randy Meier steered Tiger Red K. to a neck victory in the 6½-furlong scamper for 2-year-old maidens. The horse paid $380 to win.

"That's the biggest one I've ever seen," noted Columbus Races general manager Warren Albert, the dean of Nebraska managers with more than 30 years on the job. "The largest one I've seen was a $508 payoff about 20 years ago in British Columbia. It's the biggest we've ever had here."

The American Racing Manual does not list a higher win payoff on a horse at any Nebraska track.

Tiger Red K., owned by Don L. Kelly of Grand Island, was making its third lieftime start. It finished way back in its other two starts — one at Fonner Park in Grand Island and the other at Columbus.

It rallied from well back in the 10-horse field to nip Photo Finish and Milly Bee's Jan in the time of 1:24.

Albert said there was one $5 win ticket (worth $950), two $4 combination tickets (worth $446.40) and 14 $2 win tickets sold on the winner. Overall, $37 was bet on Tiger Red K. to win.

The previous biggest $2 win payoff at Columbus was $172.40 on Mickey O'Hara on Aug. 11, 1967.

Dean Williams, veteran Nebraska correspondent for the Daily Racing Form, said he could not remember a larger payoff in the Cornhusker state.

I-Back Berns Puts Emphasis On Durability, Not Speed

By VIRGIL PARKER

Nebraska sophomore I-back Richard Berns was clocked in :09.6 for the 100-yard dash when he was a junior in high school.

Yet, when two or more Cornhusker fans. gather to discuss their favorite subject, one is sure to lament the lack of speed in Nebraska's backfield.

"That kind of talk doesn't bother me," Berns says. "I haven't played enough yet to prove my speed. Actually, the first requirement of a good I-back is strength and durability. You've got to be able to run hard 30 times a game and then be ready to come back for more the next Saturday.

"Naturally, speed comes in handy, especially if you find yourself out in the open," the 6-3, 200-pound Wichita Falls, Tex., native adds.

Berns, who was recruited by every team in the Southwest Conference plus Oklahoma, Oklahoma State and Colorado in addition to Nebraska of the Big Eight, says he made his decision to be a Cornhusker when he was in the eighth grade.

"I only saw Nebraska play one game before I came here," Berns recalls. "It was on TV — the Orange Bowl game against LSU at the end of the 1970 season which resulted in the first national championship.

"I was so impressed with the way they played that I decided then and there that I'd like to come to Nebraska if I ever had the chance."

Berns, who had a high school best of :21.6 in the 220, wasn't able to participate in track as a high school senior.

"I had agreed to visit so many schools that I was gone every weekend all that spring," Berns says. "The first couple of weeks I thought it was a lot of fun, but it soon got to be a drag. If I had it to do over again, I'd pick out just the two or three schools I thought I'd like to attend, and visit only those."

Berns was listed to play behind lettermen Monte Anthony and Dave Gillespie in the early depth charts. But Anthony broke a wrist in the spring game and Gillespie was slowed by a muscle pull earlier this fall.

"Nobody ever talked to me about being redshirted," Berns says. "I thought I could play without a redshirt year if given a chance. But, if they had asked me to sit out a year, I would have taken it in stride.

"A lot of players have used that extra year to learn the system better, to develop their skills," Berns adds. "They have gone on from a redshirt year to become all-American candidates."

Berns does not discount the possibility he may become an all-American-type player without the benefit of the added year for learning.

"You are only judged by what you do on the field of play during the three years you're allowed out there," Berns figures. "I think I picked up the timing and the mental preparation during the spring. I haven't felt nervous out there. My attitude is, nothing will go wrong unless you make it go wrong. And I'm not going to do that."

Berns, Anthony and fullback Dodie Donnell are the only backs to have carried the ball more than 10 times so far this season. Berns has the best average, with 98 net yards on 23 carries for a 4.3 yard average.

"It takes playing experience to learn to properly read the blocks and take full advantage of them," Berns admits. "I try to mentally go back over the times I have carried the ball so far and remember how the hole opened up, where the blockers were and how I reacted.

"That way, when the same situation presents itself again, I hope to draw on that previous experience to make the move that will enable the play to go for an even greater gain."

Berns was married last January in Wichita Falls to a girl who went to the high school that was his team's biggest rival.

"That didn't create any problem," Berns says. "And since we've been in Lincoln she's not only been supporting us with her job at an insurance agency, but she's been great moral support for me. She picks me up when I'm low and keeps me going."

Berns says his wife, LeJohn, doesn't know much about football, but is learning.

"She's really looking forward to this weekend and the TCU game," he says. "This will be her first chance to see a Nebraska game and all those fans in Memorial Stadium."

Stocks Soar Past 1,000 Barrier

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market surged past the stubborn 1,000 barrier in the Dow Jones industrial average Tuesay, rolling up its biggest gain in more than a year and reaching a new high since January 1973

The closely followed Dow average jumped 20 28 points to 1,014,79 its highest close since it finished at 1,018 66 on Jan 23, 1973

The gain was the biggest since it climbed 22 45 points Aug 8 of last year, and brought the average within 37 points of its all-time closing peak of 1,051 70 on Jan 11, 1973

New York Stock Exchange volume accelerated to 30 30 million shares from 21 73 million Monday, topping the 30 million-mark for the first time since 32 61 million changed hands on March 24 this year

Advances outdistanced declines by more than a 3-1 margin in the daily tally of NYSE-listed issues

Analysts said a primary catalyst for the advance was provided by hopes for a relaxation in Federal Reserve credit policy that would mean a continuation of the recent downtrend in interest rates

The Fed's policy-setting Open Market Committee held its monthly meeting Tuesday The committee doesn't report its decisions until several weeks after they are made, but Wall Streeters were hoping to see signs of an easing up by the central bank in the money markets within the next few days

There was, however, no confirmation available that the Fed had decided on any moves to ease credit

The Dow had not closed above 1 000 in more than two months, and had turned back at the verge of that point several times since then

When it broke unhesitatingly through 1,000 at mid-morning Tuesday, additional buyers joined in the rally Brokers noted that traders who had sold short previously rushed to buy back in and limit their losses

In reaching new heights for the market recovery that began nearly two years ago, the Dow was in fact catching up with other market indicators which had done so late last week and Monday

General Motors, the day's most active issue, picked up more than 2 points and was one of several top-rank blue chips reaching new highs for the year

Others included Exxon, the nation's biggest energy company, American Telephone, the most widely owned corporation with 2 9 million shareowners, and IBM, which ranks No 1 in total market value in the NYSE list

All major stock groups registered gains

One of the strongest individual advances was posted by Elgin National, up 5 points for the day The company, in engineering and construction as well as the watch business, announced a 2-for 1 stock split and an increased cash dividend

Con Agra Earnings Are 30% Lower

Omaha (AP) — ConAgra, Inc, reported Tuesday earnings for the first quarter of fiscal 1977 were 30% below the same quarter one year ago

At its annual stockholders meeting, ConAgra reported that first quarter sales of $134,123,000, up 9% from the $122 769 000 recorded in last year s first quarter

Charles M Harper, president and chief executive officer, said, "Net earnings of $3,055,000 in the first quarter of fiscal 1977 were 30% under the peak earnings of $4,349,000 in the first quarter a year ago when margins in the company's broiler business were at record levels, but 114% better than first quarter earnings in any year prior to fiscal 1976 "

Firm Seeks Damages From Uniroyal

Omaha (AP) — O K Tire City of Omaha went to court Monday seeking damages from Uniroyal for alleged violations of the Sherman Antitrust Act

The civil case is being heard by a jury with U S District Court Judge Robert V Denney presiding

Tire City is seeking $100,000 in damages for alleged Uniroyal interference in the company s business The company is also seeking treble damages under the terms of the Sherman Antitrust Act

Tire City officials claim they solicited business not only in Omaha, but in western Iowa and over much of southern Nebraska, but that Uniroyal illegally attempted to confine Tire City s sales area to Omaha

Hogs, Cattle Dip Sharply

OMAHA, Neb (AP)—Heavy numbers glutted the Omaha livestock market Tuesday sending butcher hogs and cattle sharply lower

The day's hog run was estimated at about 6,200, and the trade on barrows and gilts was termed slow

The butcher trend was $2 00-to-$3 00 lower, with top-grading handyweights bulking from $36 00-$36 25 — 75 head averaging about 230-pounds cleared the day's top at $36 50 late

Sows turned $1 50-to-$2 50 lower on tickets marked generally from $31.00-$32 00

There were about 6,200 cattle and calves on offer, and again, the trade on slaughter steers and heifers was slow, and unevenly 50-cents to $1 00 lower

Cows trended mostly 50-cents lower in slow activity

There were about 500 sheep in the pens Spring slaughter lambs turned 50-cents lower, while the few slaughter ewes available were called steady

Soybean Prices Decline Again

Chicago (AP) — Soybean prices sank again on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday, pulling most other commodities downward amid commission house and speculative selling

Soybeans dropped as much as 7 cents a bushel, continuing a prolonged selloff The commodity had opened as much as 10 cents higher but gradually lost ground in an uneasy market

Morning Briefing

Adrian Dantley
Olympic Cager To Braves

'Lucrative' Pact Inked By Dantley

Adrian Dantley, a forward from Notre Dame and a member of the U.S. Olympic Gold Medal basketball team, has signed a "lucrative" multi-year contract with the Buffalo Braves, the club announced Tuesday.

The announcement was made at a news conference attended by Dantley, the Braves' first choice in the 1976 draft, his attorneys and the Braves' co-owners, Paul Snyder and John Y. Brown.

Neither the 6-5 Dantley nor the Braves would disclose terms of the contract.

Other Basketball

The Denver Nuggets of the National Basketball Association announced Tuesday they had begun negotiations to sign free agent Willie Wise to a contract. An earlier Nuggets' statement that Wise and the team had come to terms was incorrect, a team spokesman said later in the day.

Roy Boe, principal owner of the New York Nets, said Tuesday he had no intention of renegotiating the contract of supestar Julius Erving. Erving has four years remaining on a lucrative seven-year, $1.9 million contract. He says the Nets have broken several promises in his contract, thereby making it open for renegotiation.

Robert Parish, whose record-breaking accomplishments at Centenary (La.) College went practically unnoticed for four seasons because of an NCAA-invoked probation, Tuesday signed a multi-year contract with the Golden State Warriors. He is 7-1 and weighs 230 pounds.

Pat Riley of the Phoenix Suns retired Tuesday after nine years in the National Basketball Association. He had knee troubles.

Veteran guard Claude Terry, a four-year veteran with the Denver Nuggets, was traded Tuesday to the Buffalo Braves of the National Basketball Association in exchange for an undisclosed 1977 draft pick, Nuggets officials have announced.

Football

The rumors of a deal that would send quarterback Joe Namath from the New York Jets to the Los Angeles Rams surfaced again Tuesday with reports in the Washington Post that such a transaction has been discussed recently. The Rams are down to third-string quarterback Pat Haden following injuries to regular James Harris and backup Ron Jaworski. Rams' Coach Chuck Knox denied the rumor.

Philip N. Iselin, president and part owner of the New York Jets, was in stable condition Tuesday after suffering a second cardiac arrest Monday, a physician reported.

The Miami Dolphins traded future draft choices Tuesday to obtain veteran cornerback Ken Ellis, a former all-pro from the Houston Oilers.

Baseball

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn told Congress Tuesday that the National League will expand because "it is inevitable." M. Donald Grant of the New York Mets agreed. He said he and several other baseball executives are ready to take legal action against a small minority of owners who are trying to block the expansion.

The Toronto Blue Jays will name Roy Hartsfield as manager of the expansion American League baseball team at a news conference Wednesday.

Karl Kuehl, fired as manager of the Montreal Expos earlier this month, has accepted a temporary scouting position with the New York Yankees. He will scout potential championship series and World Series opponents for the Yankees.

An amateur baseball team from the United States was upset Tuesday on the final day of first round play in an international baseball tournament at Taipei, Taiwan.

Boxing

The former head of the Rubin "Hurricane" Carter Defense Fund has filed a lawsuit seeking $1 million in damages, charging the former boxer beat her "maliciously and with piston-like rapidity."

Former welterweight champion Kid Gavilan has been awarded a $40,000 default judgment from heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali as back payment for his assistance in Ali's training, the U.S. District Court clerk's office said Tuesday.

Heavy betting on Muhammad Ali has improved the odds on challenger Ken Norton for their Sept. 28 heavyweight title fight, bookmakers said Tuesday. The Sahara Tahoe Race and Sports Book said odds on Ali, set earlier at 1-2, were now 5-11. Odds on Norton, previously 17-10, are now 9-5.

World Boxing Council lightweight champion Esteban de Jesus voluntarily surrendered to authorities Tuesday for questioning in connection with a drug investigation.

Other Sports

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the senate Finance Committee, will seek to change a portion of the Tax Reform Act that would subject all race track winnings over $1,000 to a 20 per cent withholding tax. Long said that the bill should have applied only to payoffs of 300-1 or more, but the House-Senate Conference Committee had made a mistake.

The House voted Tuesday to outlaw betting on horse races taking place outside the state within which the bet was made. The measure would effectively end all off-track betting on out-of-state horse races by 1982.

Women Golfers Set Meeting

Kearney — The annual fall meeting of the Nebraska Women's Amateur Golf Association Board of Directors will be Sept. 29 at the Kearney Country Club, according to Association president Dottie Bowman.

The meeting will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Executive director of the Men's Amateur Golf Association, Del Ryder, of Grand Island, will explain the work completed by the course rating committee this past summer.

Nebraska Girl Golfers Seventh

Oklahoma City — Nebraska's golf team finished tied with Michigan State for seventh place here Tuesday as the two-day Susie Maxwell Berning All-College Golf Classic wound up.

The Husker women had a 665. Tulsa won the event with a 590 score. Arizona State was second with a 623 and SMU third with a 628.

Nancy Lopez of Tulsa was individual medalist with a 67-75—142 as most golfers found it harder to score the second day of the tournament because of tougher pin placements.

Nan Circo led her Nebraska teammates with a 74-80—154 showing, good for eighth place in the individual standings. Other Nebraska scores: Jane Deeter 78-85—163, Sharon Slattery 88-85—173, Cathy Morriseey 87-92—179, Laurel Smedberg 93-88—181.

Creighton University competed, finishing tied for 13th with a 692. Teressa Wanek shot 77-85—162 and her sister, Liz, shot 80-86—166 for Creighton.

Zark Doubtful For Saturday

From News Wires

Will Missouri quarterback Steve Pisarkiewicz even make the trip to Columbus, O., when the Tigers face Ohio State Saturday?

MU coach Al Onofrio said Pisarkiewicz was "getting treatment" and did not practice Tuesday.

"We won't make a decision on whether he will go to Ohio State until Thursday or Friday," Onorfrio said. Junior Pete Woods is scheduled to start at quarterback.

Woods said he felt he could get the Tigers "moving and going the same way Steve does."

Meanwhile, Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer said the Sooners had a "very disappointing practice" Tuesday as they continued preparations for their second home game of the season Saturday against Florida State.

Switzer said halfback Billy Sims, tight end Victor Hicks and tackle Anthony Bryant will be ready to play against Florida State after missing the Sooners' first two games with injuries.

At Stillwater, Okla., Oklahoma State started its two-week preparation for North Texas State with a 1½-hour workout in shorts and sweatshirts. The Mean Green meet the Cowboys on Oct. 2. in Stillwater.

Iowa State coach Earle Bruce drilled the Cyclones for two hours Tuesday with considerable contact work. Iowa State meets Kent State this Saturday.

At Boulder, senior linebacker Bill Muxlow has contracted mononucleosis and will be lost to the Colorado Buffaloes for at least two weeks, coach Bill Mallory said.

Mallory indicated that junior Tom Perry probably would take Muxlow's place in the starting lineup for Saturday's game in Boulder against Miami, Fla.

Starting quarterback Jeff Austin was held out of Tuesday's practice and won't participate in contact drills this week, Mallory said. Austin has a twisted left knee but is expected to be able to play against Miami.

At Lawrence, Laverne Smith, who had an excellent game in Saturday's 37-16 win over Kentucky despite missing most of the second half with an injured arm, worked full tilt with the first unit Tuesday and seemed fully recovered.

At Manhattan, wide receiver Stan Ross returned to duty with Kansas State — but only briefly. Ross, who has been out with a knee injury, reinjured it on his first day back in workouts.

Escaped Trusty Back In Custody One More Time

An Omaha man who escaped from a trusty dormitory at the Nebraska Penal Complex Monday was back in custody Tuesday for the second time.

Steven Van Ackeren, 28, originally escaped from the Penal Complex in Lincoln, but the car he used was spotted Monday at a motel in Council Bluffs.

State Patrolman Jeff Nelson stopped the vehicle on an interstate highway ramp. Van Ackeren apparently stabbed himself in the stomach with a small kitchen knife before being apprehended, police said.

The man was taken to a Council Bluffs hospital after the first capture. A woman in the car with him was released.

Tuesday afternoon the man escaped a second time when he jumped out a first floor window at the hospital. Council Bluffs police recaptured him in a wooded area about six blocks from the hospital.

He was spending Tuesday night in Council Bluffs city jail.

Van Ackeren was serving a seven-year sentence for receiving stolen property.

Democrats Plan Debate Watch

Lancaster County Democrats will sponsor a rally and debate watch party Thursday for viewers of the television confrontation between President Ford and Jimmy Carter.

The debate watch is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the new campaign headquarters at 118 So. 11th, Lancaster County Chairman Carolyn Clark said.

Ford Policy 'Cruel'

Davenport, Iowa (UPI) — Rep. Edward Mezvinsky, D-Iowa, says Republican and Democrats are approaching the unemployment problem from opposite ends, with President Ford taking a route that is "cruel and insensitive to human needs."

Proposed Power Plant Could 'Duplicate' NPPD

By The Associated Press

The acting general manager of the Nebraska Public Power District testified Tuesday that a proposed power plant to serve Hastings and Grand Island could be viewed as duplicating power generation by NPPD.

Dan Schaufelberger told the Nebraska Power Review Board that NPPD anticipates some energy surpluses in the 1980s, and thus power generated by the proposed new plant could be duplication.

Schaufelberger was subpoenaed by opponents of the proposed plant that Grand Island and Hastings want to build. The two cities formed the Great Plains Power Agency to build and operate the 150-megawatt facility, saying it could provide cheaper power than NPPD can sell the cities.

Residents of Doniphan and the surrounding area, where the proposed plant would be located, are asking the board to reject the agency's request.

Tuesday was the ninth day of testimony heard by the board in the last three months. Testimony was expected to conclude Wednesday.

Attorney Arlen Beam, representing opponents of the plant, questioned Schaufelberger at length on the cost and necessity of the proposed plant.

The law requires that, before the board can approve such an application, it must find that the applicant could be able to provide the power "without unnecessary duplication of facilities or operations," and that the service must be necessary and convenient.

Beam's questioning of Schaufelberger, for more than five hours, concentrated on those areas. Opponents have argued that the plant is neither necessary, economical or convenient.

The thrust of Schaufelberger's testimony was that:

—NPPD believes it could provide the power that Hastings and Grand Island will need at "reasonable" costs. In some years NPPD will have surplus energy, and can buy additional energy when needed.

—While NPPD would transmit energy further, from the Gerald Gentleman plant in Sutherland, the Hastings-Grand Island area is in one of the "strongest areas in the state," so far as receiving power transmissions is concerned. NPPD could provide energy "of equivalent if not greater liability," than a plant located at Doniphan.

Schaufelberger disagreed at various times with cost estimates used by proponents of the Doniphan plant concerning construction, rail costs, and transmission expense.

He disagreed with earlier testimony concerning the economy of a small plant.

Larger plants can provide lower costs per kilowatt hour of energy generated, he said, and thus mean a savings to customers.

Opponents of the plant began presenting their arguments to the board Monday.

Proponents offered testimony at earlier hearings.

They contend that the proposed small plant is economical and would not duplicate service.

A consulting engineer hired by Hastings and Grand Island testified that the Doniphan site would provide the most economical location for the plant, and that the $75 million facility itself would be economical.

Virtually every facet of the proposed plant, from the cost of rail installation to the cost of coal and construction, were reviewed.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Wednesday, Sept. 22, 1976

Aquarian whose works influenced me: Gertrude Stein. Another Aquarian who did the same in another way: Evangeline Adams. There have been four Aquarian presidents of the United States. Not one completed his term in office. Aquarian friends of astrology include Forrest Tucker, Norman Mailer, Kim Novak, Zsa Zsa Gabor, Burt Reynolds and many others. Aquarians and astrology go together — these are persons who adore surprises, are unconventional, have great intellectual curiosity and their sense of humor is delightful.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Vitality makes comeback — health and work conditions improve. Younger person or child could be responsible for pleasant surprise. Accent on diplomatic approach, special services, new contacts, creativity and added independence.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Study Aries message for significant hint. Moon aspects show you are in process of reevaluation. You're changing positions, making room for ideas, concepts which had been far away if not foreign. Aquarius, Leo persons could be involved. Love is very much in picture.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Highlight versatility. Expand horizons. Check signals, reservations. Sagittarian is in picture. Another Gemini could also be part of scenario. One who is close to you should not be taken for granted. A gift now might work wonders!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Money, connected with past investment or interest or overpayment is featured. Put succinctly, you're due for refund! Know it and act accordingly. Accent on movement, relatives, close neighbors, errands. Be sure you're getting money's worth. Count change!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Check Cancer message — money question could arise. Emphasis on possessions, what you spend, earn, save. Be analytical. Do some personal detective work. Reject the superficial — the deeper you dig, the greater the chance of striking pay dirt.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Straighten out family affairs. Give voice some rest. Cycle high — judgment, intuition apt to be on target. Emphasis also on property, long-standing offer or ambition. Partner or mate may be responsible for final decision.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Pisces, Virgo individuals impinge on thoughts, ideas, plans. What was a secret could become common knowledge. Be prepared. Your ESP works overtime. Visit one confined to home, hospital. Remember past favors — and repay them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): If you organize thoughts, priorities . . . you will be advancing your own cause in a practical, constructive manner. Accent on friends, hopes, wishes, romantic interests. Nothing is halfway — it is hot or cold, all or nothing. If you're "fooling" about love situation, stop it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You gain greater overall view — your spiritual qualities come to forefront. You are on path now to discovery, mainly going — and you're due to find out "why."

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Break through red tape barrier. Be confident that your original, perhaps pioneering concepts are correct — and workable. Leo, Aquarius figure prominently. Accent on long-distance calls, manuscripts, your ability to skillfully relate a story.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your best qualities could be spotlighted. Surprise element is present — and you handle it to personal advantage. One who is close, then far away will finally back your position. Your wish comes true in unorthodox manner.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Don't press — leave details, fine points for another time. Permit partner, mate to express views or take initiative. Overall view is best for now along with change from routine. Social affair could lead to interesting contacts. Gemini, Virgo persons are likely to be in picture.

IF SEPTEMBER 22nd IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you faced facts of life at an early age. You could have been separated from one or both parents. You foresee outlines of future. You are a "natural architect," an artist, a person who weighs various factors, interprets and seeks justice. Scorpio, Leo individuals play important in your life. In October, you begin a new phase of your existence. You start a cycle and will finish with a burden that has been hanging on for a number of years. Good!

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Low Roads Bids Cited As 'Favorable Trend'

State Roads Department Director Tom Doyle announced Monday the apparent low bidders on more than $11.7 million of highway construction and improvement projects, including several in Lincoln and the Capital City area.

Overall, the low bids were $1.8 million less than advance estimates, Doyle said, citing evidence of "a favorable trend in construction prices."

The biggest single project, for $1.7 million, is the Omaha 84th Street tunnel grading and bridge work. Hawkins Construction Co. of Omaha bid approximately $700,000 less than state engineers' estimates.

In the Lincoln projects, Capital Bridge Co. offered the apparent low bid of $179,008 for bridge work on Sun Valley Road, and Dobson Brothers Construction Co., $177,617 for a 4.9-mile asphaltic concrete surface course on N. 14th Street.

Area projects include culverts in the southwest quarter of Lancaster County for $71,931 by Western Plains Construction Co. of Lincoln; and asphaltic concrete surfacing for 1.2 miles from Crete east in Saline County, $122,163 by W. A. Biba Engineering Co. and Biba Co. of Geneva.

Joseph T. Grof of Tecumseh bid $15,130 for the guard rail job and Midwest Paving Co. of Sioux City, Iowa, and Graves Construction Co. of Melvin, Iowa, bid $738,011 for the asphaltic concrete contract, in the 13.6-mile project on Hwy. 79 from Valparaiso south in Lancaster and Saunders Counties.

A 12.9-mile project on Hwy. 2 from Palmyra to Syracuse in Otoe County drew these apparent low bids: $35,698 for culverts by L. J. Webb Contractor of Geneva; $81,852 for guard rail by Joseph T. Grof; $398,916 for asphaltic concrete by James J. Parks Co. of Omaha.

Caretaker Dies In Accident At Reservoir

Trenton (AP) — The Bureau of Reclamation's caretaker at the Swanson Reservoir near here, Harold Pines, fell to his death Tuesday morning while working at the reservoir, officials said.

Investigators said Pines, in his late 40s, was apparently using a boom crane to cut some Rural Electrification Association cable.

Authorities said Pines apparently went to throw the cut cable out of the way, but the cable became entangled in some electric lines.

When Pines tried to extricate the cable from the line, he reached too far, and fell about 20 feet to the ground, investigators said.

A rescue squad from Stratton made unsuccessful efforts to revive Pines, and he was pronounced dead at the scene.

NU Seeking MG Helpers

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska's third-string football players went through a 20 minute scrimmage Tuesday afternoon for the express purpose of finding a middle guard to back up Jeff Pullen when the Huskers play Texas Christian Saturday in the opening home game in NU's Memorial Stadium.

Coach Tom Osborne, however, said that if something should happen to Pullen early in the game, Ron Pruitt would be moved to middle guard and his spot at left tackle would be taken by Randy Poeschl. Poeschl had a good game last Saturday against Indiana.

If Pullen should go out later on with the issue decided, the replacement would be chosen from among three players who scrimmaged Tuesday — Mitch Webb, Kelvin Roehrs and freshman Kerry Weinmaster.

Linebacker Clete Pillen was held out of practice as he continues to recover from a sprained ankle, but Osborne expects he will don pads Wednesday. "If he can't play, that will be a trouble spot for us," Osborne said.

Pillen's backup, Percy Eichelberger, will miss the TCU game because of surgery on a finger on his right hand.

Starter at the other linebacking position, James Wightman, is a "more complete football player this season," Osborne said. He has led Husker tacklers in both games so far.

Backup linebackers are Lee Kunz behind Pillen and Jeff Carpenter behind Wightman.

Curtis Craig, who filled in during the emergency situation at I-back against LSU, played all of the Indiana game at wingback and will be there again against TCU.

The Huskers, who advanced two spots in the United Press International poll of coaches on Monday, also moved up to sixth in the Associated Press poll of sportswriters.

Frosh Open Friday

Nebraska, the only school in the Big Eight Conference which still runs a football program exclusively for freshman, will open the 1976 season at 1:30 p.m Friday in NU's Memorial Stadium.

The schedule calls for five games, including the first three at home. Coach Guy Ingles expects the games to provide more of a test than last year's yearlings got because the young Huskers will be going against junior varsity teams from four conference schools.

The only nonleague opponent will be rival UN-Omaha, a team the NU freshman have met the last two season in Omaha. This time, the Mavericks will come to Lincoln for a Monday afternoon game on Oct. 11. NU has won both previous games, 6-0 in 1974 and 41-0 last season.

Friday's opener will be against the Kansas State Jayvees, who last week defeated Highland Community College of Kansas, 17-13. The other home game will be against Missouri here Oct. 22, the afternoon before the Tigers bring their varsity here to face the Huskers.

Ingles will take his squad to Kansas on Oct. 29 and to Iowa State on Nov. 12. Ingles, a former NU standout and assistant frosh coach the last four years, takes over for Jim Ross, who has handled the freshmen since 1969.

Ross compiled a 27-2 record in seven seasons, leaving big shoes to fill when he took over as director of the new Nebraska Sports Center complex.

Assisting Ingles this year are Steve McKelvey, Mark Heydorf, Bob Thornton, Dean Gissler, Dave Redding and Ron Nitzel.

The game will be broadcast by station KRNU-FM.

Hawaii Having Problems

The University of Hawaii's Rainbow Warriors, already 0-2 this season, suffered a major blow last Saturday during a 56-21 loss to Texas A&I, defending NAIA champions.

They lost their No. 1 quarterback, Alex Kaloi, who suffered a slipped veterbra during a pileup late in the first quarter.

"In Alex's case, team physician Dr. Herbert Hata said, "the sixth veterbra slipped over the seventh and in so doing impinged on some of the nerves that control much of the arm. Football is over for him."

Coach Larry Price said it was "probably the saddest day of my life" when he learned of Kaloi's injury. "He was the team's leader on and off the field and his absence will be significant psychologically to our team."

Kaloi's passing marks in two seasons for Hawaii were 198 of 402 connections for 2,150 yards and ten touchdowns. With him out of the game, the Warriors hit just two of 17 for 37 yards and had four intercepted. Texas A&I gained 567 yards total offense, including 256 through the air.

It might be interesting to Nebraska coach Tom Osborne to know that Texas A&I was penalized 15 times for 174 yards. Officials in Honolulu apparently know which is the home team. Nebraska will be the visiting team on Dec. 4.

With Kaloi out, guess who becomes the No. 1 Hawaii quarterback? None other than former Oklahoma QB, Joe McReynolds.

Speaking of officials, the quote of the week goes to Northwestern trainer Tom Oxley after the Wildcats lost 12-0 to North Carolina in Chapel Hill: "I think the South could have won the Civil War with those officials."

Royals Take First Battle

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "This puts us seven up on them with 11 to play, that's all it does," snapped an angry Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog. "I'd love to beat them the next two and put them nine back. Then they really would be desperate."

Herzog's Royals whipped arch-rival Oakland 3-1 to move seven games in front of the A's in the American League West. But any victory celebration was short-circuited by a beanball incident and Herzog's charges that the A's were using binoculars and a walkie-talkie in their bullpen to steal signs.

Umpires told Herzog there was no rule against binoculars, but the Kansas City skipper insisted they be removed.

"If that is the way they run the league, that is fine," he said. "Maybe we'll start getting cutesie on them too."

Royals' center fielder Amos Otis, who has quarreled with Oakland Manager Chuck Tanner in the press this season, insists Tanner ordered A's pitcher Stan Bahnsen to throw at him.

"But Bahnsen does not throw hard enough to knock me out," Otis said. "Will I play tomorrow night? Does a bee give honey?"

Tanner denied using the binoculars for any strategic purposes and declared that the Royals, who have won five straight games now, still are not the champions.

"It hurts but it does not mean the season is over," he said. "It's not over until you see it in the paper."

Hal McRae and John Mayberry lashed run-scoring singles to lead Kansas City's big victory.

It was a club record 43rd road loss this year for the A's, who have dominated the AL West since 1971.

Oakland starter Stan Bahnsen, 8-7, held the Royals hitless until the third inning, then yielded McRae's RBI single after walkng Jim Wohlford and George Brett. Mayberry's single then scored Brett.

The A's tagged Kansas City starter Doug Bird, 12-9, for a run in the sixth on consecutive doubles by Campy Campaneris and Joe Rudi.

A sacrifice fly by Mayberry off reliever Rollie Fingers in the eighth gave the Royals an insurance run.

Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog complained during the game that Oakland players in the bullpen were using binoculars to steal signs and announced that his team was playing under protest. A search of the bullpen failed to turn up the field glasses.

Fuming over the binocular incident, Herzog led the entire umpiring crew to the A's bullpen in the sixth inning.

Rigney Out As Giants Manager

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bill Rigney, deciding Tuesday that one season was enough his second time around as manager of the San Francisco Giants, announced his resignation, as expected, effective at the end of the baseball season.

"I've had enough managing. It's that simple, really," Rigney said at a news conference before the Giants' game against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Bob Lurie, co-owner of the National League team, said he hoped to name a manager for 1977 within 10 days and that candidates included Giants coaches Bobby Winkles and Jim Davenport, former Giants and Oakland A's manager Alvin Dark and former Dodger star Maurie Wills.

Lurie said he has talked to Wills, once considered a candidate to become the big leagues' first black manager, "and he's very interested." Frank Robinson of the Cleveland Indians is the only black manager in the majors.

The other candidates for the San Francisco job, Lurie said, are San Diego Padres coach Joe Amalfitano; Rocky Bridges, who managed the Giants' Phoenix farm team; and Vern Rapp, who managed Denver, a Montreal farm club, this year.

Lurie also said he would talk to Dick Williams, the former A's manager who was fired by the California Angels this season.

Rigney, who hopes to stay with the club in another capacity, said, "I'm disappointed about the way the team has played, but that has nothing to do with this decision." The Giants were last in the Western Division most of the season but recently climbed to fourth place.

With more than 17 years of big league managing experience, Rigney ranks second in seniority to the Los Angeles Dodgers' Walter Alston.

This Is The Way To Do It!

MOSCOW,Idaho (AP) — "This is the way you do it," University of Idaho teacher Douglas MacFarlane told his golf class Monday as he stepped up to the No. 11 tee at the campus golf course.

MacFarlane sank a hole-in-one, his first.

"I just told the class that you go down a club when there is a tailwind and swing easy," he said. "When we got to the green the ball was in the cup."

Buses Ready For NU Fans

Four buses will leave the bus garage at 11:30 a.m. Saturday to take Nebraska football fans who park their cars at the State Fairgrounds to Memorial Stadium for the Nebraska-TCU game.

The buses will go to the south gate of the Fairgrounds parking lot, make a loop through there and go out the west gate to 14th Street — 14th to Vine — Vine to the east side of the stadium.

The buses, free of charge, will follow the same route after the game.

UPI

Manny Trillo of the Chicago Cubs slides safely across home plate and by catcher Duffy Dyer to score in the fifth inning of the first game of Tuesday's doubleheader with the Pittsburgh Pirates at Wrigley Field. The clubs split, dropping Pittsburgh five games behind Philadelphia, which won.

Reds Capture Division As Phillies Roll Ahead

From News Wires

The Cincinnati Reds clinched their fifth National League Western Division title in seven years Tuesday night, beating the San Diego Padres 9-1 in Cincinnati as rookie Pat Zachry notched his 14th victory.

Zachry, supported by a 12-hit Cincinnati attack, scattered eight hits to lift his record to 14-5. The 6-foot-5 right-hander struck out eight and walked three as the Reds claimed the NL West title with 10 games left in the season.

The Reds knocked out Padres starter Tom Griffin, 7-7, then raked relief ace Butch Metzger for five hits and three runs in two innings.

Johnny Bench and Tony Perez drilled two-run bases-loaded singles to key a four-run sixth inning that broke the game open.

The Padres got their only run off Zachry in the first inning on consecutive singles by Bill Almon and John Grubb. Almon scored on a wild throw by Dave Concepcion on an attempted double play.

The Reds tied it in the fourth when George Foster tripled off the top of the center field fence and scored on a wild pitch by Griffin.

The Reds then loaded the bases when Cesar Geronimo walked, Concepcion hit an infield single and Zachry reached on a throwing error by Griffin. But reliever Dave Tomlin then snuffed the one-out rally by retiring Rose and Ken Griffey.

Cincinnati went ahead 3-1 in the fifth on a double by Foster and a run-scoring single by Concepcion. Joe Morgan had opened the inning with a single and then stole his 58th base of the season in 65 attempts.

Rose opened the sixth inning outburst, reaching second when center fielder Willie Davis dropped his fly ball. After Griffey beat out an infield single and Morgan walked to load the bases with none out, Bench singled in two runs for his 79th and 80th RBI of the season. Metzger hit Foster with a pitch and Perez followed with a tworunsingle.

Morgan and Foster had RBI singles in the seventh to make it 9-1.

At Philadelphia, Dick Allen's double with two out in the fourth inning triggered a three-run outburst and the Philadelphia Phillies went on to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 5-1 and boost their lead in the National League's Eastern Division to five games.

The Phillies picked up one-half game on second-place Pittsburgh, which split an afternoon doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs. The Phils have 13 games remaining, the Pirates 11.

After Allen doubled, Mike Schmidt walked and Johnny Oates singled for the Phils' first run in 13 innings as Schmidt advanced to third. Larry Bowa singled to score Schmidt, and Oates came home when pitcher Tommy Underwood's chopper bounced off third baseman Hector Cruz' glove for an error.

The Phillies made it 4-0 with one out in the sixth when Schmidt smashed a drive off the left-field foul pole for his 38th home run of the season. Allen accounted for the Phillies' final run in the eighth with his 15th home run.

St. Louis scored its run in the seventh on a walk to Cruz, a fielder's choice, a wild pitch and pinch-hitter Ken Rudolph's single.

Underwood earned his 10th victory in 15 decisions, with Tug McGraw gaining credit for his 10th save. Cards starter John Denny, who had four wins, one loss and one no decsion in his last six starts with an earned run average of 0.98, absorbed his eighth loss against 10 victories.

At Chicago, Manny Trillo's two-out single in the 13th inning drove home Jerry Morales, who had doubled as the Cubs beat Pittsburgh 2-1, thwarting the Pirates bid for a doubleheader sweep.

The Pirates won the first game, 4-3, on a two-out, two-run ninth inning single by Rennie Stennett, snapping a three-game losing streak.

Morales' double and Trillo's line shot to right came off Bob Moose, 3-9, and gave the win to Paul Reuschel, 4-2, the Cubs' sixth pitcher, as Pirate rightfielder Dave Parker's throw to get Morales at the plate bounced past catcher Duffy Dyer.

In the second game the Cubs scored first. They twice loaded the bases in the third on a hit, two walks and an error, but managed only one unearned run, which scored on an infield out.

Rob Sperring opened the third inning with a single to center and Joe Wallis walked. Steve Stone, trying to bunt, forced Sperring at third.

Prep Awards To GICC Duo

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

Two seconds showed on the clock. Twenty-one yards separated Grand Island Central Catholic from a touchdown, which would give the Crusaders an 18-17 victory over Gothenburg.

Central Catholic assistant coach Tom Wetzel called the play he had used with success on the junior varsity level — a pitch to the halfback, who in turn, throws a pass back to the quarterback.

Quarterback Rick Brown and halfback Tim Hansen worked the trick play to perfection and therefore share the Sunday Journal and Star's Athlete of the Week award.

It was shades of John O'Leary to Dave Humm. Those two ex-Cornhuskers clicked for an 11-yard touchdown pass against Oklahoma in 1974. Trouble was, Nebraska lost that game, 28-14.

Central Catholic turned the play into its second win in three games, handing Gothenburg its first loss in three starts.

"It was dramatic. It was beautiful," said Central Catholic coach Carl Tesmer, describing the play as the icing to the most astounding football comeback in the school's history.

Gothenburg led, 17-6, until Central Catholic closed within 17-12 with 6:33 left in the fourth quarter. Gothenburg then consumed almost five minutes before turning the ball over to the Crusaders on Central Catholic's 16-yard line,with 1:40 remaining.

A facemask penalty, a 19-yard double reverse and another personal foul penalty against Gothenburg right before the dramatic touchdown aided the 84-yard drive.

"It was Wetzel's play all the way," Tesmer said. "No one mentioned it until timeout was called with two seconds left. You've got to believe. It's the finest comeback I've ever seen. We could have quit, but we didn't. These kids showed a lot of heart."

Others earning Athlete of the Week recognition include:

Joe Prai, Lincoln Northeast — His 32-yard first-quarter touchdown and 66-yard second-quarter touchdown on a punt return spurred the Rockets to their first win, a 26-14 decision over Millard.

Ron Eskam, Scottsbluff — His 95-yard touchdown with an intercepted pass on the first play of the fourth quarter keyed unbeaten Bearcats' 16-6 win over defending state champion Lincoln East.

Jeff Beckman, Wisner-Pilger —Senior quarterback threw four touchdown passes, covering 9, 18, 18 and 29 yards as team scored 28-21 upset win over Wayne.

Dave Krebs, Ralston — Senior split end, who did not go out for football last year, caught 31- and 14-yard touchdown passes in the first half of unbeaten Rams' 23-7 win over Lincoln Southeast.

Dean Stromer, Hastings Adams Central — Junior running back rushed for 201 yards and scored on touchdown runs of 8 and 62 yards as unbeaten team defeated Hastings St Cecilia, 28-6. He has rushed for 492 yards in Adams Central's three wins

Joe Graham, Osceola — Only a freshman, he rushed for 99 yards on 13 carries and sprinted 60 yards for a touchdown to spark a 12-6 upset over Class C-1's previously No. 5 rated Stromsburg.

Ray Ostdiek, Lawrence — Senior middle linebacker was credited with 19 tackles in 12-0 win over Deshler. He also blocked a punt, recovered a fumble, intercepted a pass and returned it 40 yards, rushed for 82 yards, threw a 40-yard halfback pass and scored on an eight-yard run He has participated in 62 tackles, including 40 solo stops, in three games.

Steve Meyer, Palmer — Junior quarterback threw four touchdown passes of 10, 13, 20 and 25 yards in 30-24 win over Genoa. He finished 8-for-10 for 152 yards.

Brad Powell, Shickley — Junior running back was busy in 12-12 tie with Exeter, carrying 45 times for 190 yards. He scored on a 20-yard run, recovered a fumble and was credited with nine tackles, five unassisted.

Tiger Red K. Pays $380 At Columbus

Columbus — What is believed to be the highest win payoff ever recorded at a Nebraska horse race track occurred here Tuesday in the third race at Agricultural Park.

Jockey Randy Meier steered Tiger Red K. to a neck victory in the 6½-furlong scamper for 2-year-old maidens. The horse paid $380 to win.

"That's the biggest one I've ever seen," noted Columbus Races general manager Warren Albert, the dean of Nebraska managers with more than 30 years on the job. "The largest one I've seen was a $508 payoff about 20 years ago in British Columbia. It's the biggest we've ever had here."

The American Racing Manual does not list a higher win payoff on a horse at any Nebraska track.

Tiger Red K., owned by Don L. Kelly of Grand Island, was making its third lifetime start. It finished way back in its other two starts — one at Fonner Park in Grand Island and the other at Columbus.

It rallied from well back in the 10-horse field to nip Photo Finish and Milly Bee's Jan in the time of 1:24.

Albert said there was one $5 win ticket (worth $950), two $4 combination tickets (worth $446 40) and 14 $2 win tickets sold on the winner. Overall, $37 was bet on Tiger Red K. to win.

The previous biggest $2 win payoff at Columbus was $172.40 on Mickey O'Hara on Aug. 11, 1967.

Dean Williams, veteran Nebraska correspondent for the Daily Racing Form, said he could not remember a larger payoff in the Cornhusker state.

I-Back Berns Puts Emphasis On Durability, Not Speed

By VIRGIL PARKER

Nebraska sophomore I-back Richard Berns was clocked in :09.6 for the 100-yard dash when he was a junior in high school.

Yet, when two or more Cornhusker fans gather to discuss their favorite subject, one is sure to lament the lack of speed in Nebraska's backfield.

"That kind of talk doesn't bother me," Berns says. "I haven't played enough yet to prove my speed. Actually, the first requirement of a good I-back is strength and durability. You've got to be able to run hard 30 times a game and then be ready to come back for more the next Saturday.

"Naturally, speed comes in handy, especially if you find yourself out in the open," the 6-1, 200-pound Wichita Falls, Tex., native adds.

Berns, who was recruited by every team in the Southwest Conference plus Oklahoma, Oklahoma State and Colorado in addition to Nebraska of the Big Eight, says he made his decision to be a Cornhusker when he was in the eighth grade.

"I only saw Nebraska play one game before I came here," Berns recalls. "It was on TV — the Orange Bowl game against LSU at the end of the 1970 season which resulted in the first national championship.

"I was so impressed with the way they played that I decided then and there that I'd like to come to Nebraska if I ever had the chance."

Berns, who had a high school best of :21.6 in the 220, wasn't able to participate in track as a high school senior.

"I had agreed to visit so many schools that I was gone every weekend all that spring," Berns says. "The first couple of weeks I thought it was a lot of fun, but it soon got to be a drag. If I had it to do over again, I'd pick out just the two or three schools I thought I'd like to attend, and visit only those."

Berns was listed to play behind lettermen Monte Anthony and Dave Gillespie in the early depth charts. But Anthony broke a wrist in the spring game and Gillespie was slowed by a muscle pull earlier this fall.

"Nobody ever talked to me about being redshirted," Berns says. "I thought I could play without a redshirt year if given a chance. But, if they had asked me to sit out a year, I would have taken it in stride.

"A lot of players have used that extra year to learn the system better, to develop their skills," Berns adds. "They have gone on from a redshirt year to become all-American candidates."

Berns does not discount the possibility he may become an all-American-type player without the benefit of the added year for learning.

"You are only judged by what you do on the field of play during the three years you're allowed out there," Berns figures. "I think I picked up the timing and the mental preparation during the spring. I haven't felt nervous out there. My attitude is, nothing will go wrong unless you make it go wrong. And I'm not going to do that."

Berns, Anthony and fullback Dodie Donnell are the only backs to have carried the ball more than 10 times so far this season. Berns has the best average, with 98 net yards on 23 carries for a 4.3 yard average.

"It takes playing experience to learn to properly read the blocks and take full advantage of them," Berns admits. "I try to mentally go back over the times I have carried the ball so far and remember how the hole opened up, where the blockers were and how I reacted.

"That way, when the same situation presents itself again, I hope to draw on that previous experience to make the move that will enable the play to go for an even greater gain."

Berns was married last January in Wichita Falls to a girl who went to the high school that was his team's biggest rival.

"That didn't create any problem," Berns says. "And since we've been in Lincoln she's not only been supporting us with her job at an insurance agency, but she's been great moral support for me. She picks me up when I'm low and keeps me going."

Berns says his wife, LaJohn, doesn't know much about football, but is learning.

"She's really looking forward to this weekend and the TCU game," he says. "This will be her first chance to see a Nebraska game and all those fans in Memorial Stadium."

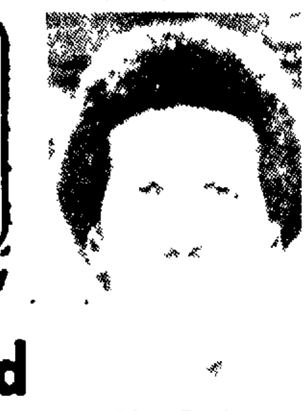
Morning Briefing

'Lucrative' Pact Inked By Dantley



Adrian Dantley
Olympic Cager To Braves

Adrian Dantley, a forward from Notre Dame and a member of the U S Olympic Gold Medal basketball team, has signed a "lucrative" multi-year contract with the Buffalo Braves, the club announced Tuesday.

The announcement was made at a news conference attended by Dantley, the Braves' first choice in the 1976 draft, his attorneys and the Braves' co-owners, Paul Snyder and John Y Brown

Neither the 6-5 Dantley nor the Braves would disclose terms of the contract.

Other Basketball

The Denver Nuggets of the National Basketball Association announced Tuesday they had begun negotiations to sign free agent Willie Wise to a contract. An earlier Nuggets' statement that Wise and the team had come to terms was incorrect, a team spokesman said later in the day

Roy Boe, principal owner of the New York Nets, said Tuesday he had no intention of renegotiating the contract of supestar Julius Erving. Erving has four years remaining on a lucrative seven-year, $1.9 million contract He says the Nets have broken several promises in his contract, thereby making it open for renegotiation

Robert Parish, whose record-breaking accomplishments at Centenary (La) College went practically unnoticed for four seasons because of an NCAA-invoked probation, Tuesday signed a multi-year contract with the Golden State Warriors He is 7-1 and weighs 230 pounds

Pat Riley of the Phoenix Suns retired Tuesday after nine years in the National Basketball Association He had knee troubles

Veteran guard Claude Terry, a four-year veteran with the Denver Nuggets, was traded Tuesday to the Buffalo Braves of the National Basketball Association in exchange for an undisclosed 1977 draft pick, Nuggets officials have announced

Football

The rumors of a deal that would send quarterback Joe Namath from the New York Jets to the Los Angeles Rams surfaced again Tuesday with reports in the Washington Post that such a transaction has been discussed recently The Rams are down to third-string quarterback Pat Haden following injuries to regular James Harris and backup Ron Jaworski Rams' Coach Chuck Knox denied the rumor

Philip N. Iselin, president and part owner of the New York Jets, was in stable condition Tuesday after suffering a second cardiac arrest Monday, a physician reported

The Miami Dolphins traded future draft choices Tuesday to obtain veteran cornerback Ken Ellis, a former all-pro from the Houston Oilers

Baseball

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn told Congress Tuesday that the National League will expand because "it is inevitable " M. Donald Grant of the New York Mets agreed He said he and several other baseball executives are ready to take legal action against a small minority of owners who are trying to block the expansion

The Toronto Blue Jays will name Roy Hartsfield as manager of the expansion American League baseball team at a news conference Wednesday

Karl Kuehl, fired as manager of the Montreal Expos earlier this month, has accepted a temporary scouting position with the New York Yankees He will scout potential championship series and World Series opponents for the Yankees

An amateur baseball team from the United States was upset Tuesday on the final day of first round play in an international baseball tournament at Taipei, Taiwan.

Boxing

The former head of the Rubin "Hurricane" Carter Defense Fund has filed a lawsuit seeking $1 million in damages, charging the former boxer beat her "maliciously and with piston-like rapidity "

Former welterweight champion Kid Gavilan has been awarded a $40,000 default judgment from heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali as back payment for his assistance in Ali's training, the U.S District Court clerk's office said Tuesday

Heavy betting on Muhammad Ali has improved the odds on challenger Ken Norton for their Sept 28 heavyweight title fight, bookmakers said Tuesday The Sahara Tahoe Race and Sports Book said odds on Ali, set earlier at 1-2, were now 5-11. Odds on Norton, previously 17-10, are now 9-5

World Boxing Council lightweight champion Esteban de Jesus voluntarily surrendered to authorities Tuesday for questioning in connection with a drug investigation.

Other Sports

Sen. Russell Long, D-La , chairman of the senate Finance Committee, will seek to change a portion of the Tax Reform Act that would subject all race track winnings over $1,000 to a 20 per cent withholding tax. Long said that the bill should have applied only to payoffs of 300-1 or more, but the House-Senate Conference Committee had made a mistake.

The House voted Tuesday to outlaw betting on horse races taking place outside the state within which the bet was made. The measure would effectively end all off-track betting on out-of-state horse races by 1982.

Women Golfers Set Meeting

Kearney — The annual fall meeting of the Nebraska Women s Amateur Golf Association Board of Directors will be Sept. 29 at the Kearney Country Club, according to Association president Dottie Bowman.

The meeting will begin at 9.30 a.m.

Executive director of the Men's Amateur Golf Association, Del Ryder, of Grand Island, will explain the work completed by the course rating committee this past summer.

Nebraska Girl Golfers Seventh

Oklahoma City — Nebraska's golf team finished tied with Michigan State for seventh place here Tuesday as the two-day Susie Maxwell Berning All-College Golf Classic wound up

The Husker women had a 665. Tulsa won the event with a 590 score Arizona State was second with a 623 and SMU third with a 628

Nancy Lopez of Tulsa was individual medalist with a 67-75—142 as most golfers found it harder to score the second day of the tournament because of tougher pin placements

Nan Circo led her Nebraska teammates with a 74-80—154 showing, good for eighth place in the individual standings Other Nebraska scores Jane Deeter 78-85—163, Sharon Slattery 88-85—173, Cathy Morriseey 87-92—179, Laurel Smedberg 93-88—181

Creighton University competed, finishing tied for 13th with a 692 Teressa Wanek shot 77-85—162 and her sister, Liz, shot 80-86—166 for Creighton

Zark Doubtful For Saturday

From News Wires

Will Missouri quarterback Steve Pisarkiewicz even make the trip to Columbus, O., when the Tigers face Ohio State Saturday?

MU coach Al Onofrio said Pisarkiewicz was "getting treatment" and did not practice Tuesday.

"We won't make a decision on whether he will go to Ohio State until Thursday or Friday," Onorfrio said. Junior Pete Woods is scheduled to start at quarterback.

Woods said he felt he could get the Tigers "moving and going the same way Steve does."

Meanwhile, Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer said the Sooners had a "very disappointing practice" Tuesday as they continued preparations for their second home game of the season Saturday against Florida State.

Switzer said halfback Billy Sims, tight end Victor Hicks and tackle Anthony Bryant will be ready to play against Florida State after missing the Sooners' first two games with injuries.

At Stillwater, Okla., Oklahoma State started its two-week preparation for North Texas State with a 1½-hour workout in shorts and sweatshirts. The Mean Green meet the Cowboys on Oct. 2. in Stillwater.

Iowa State coach Earle Bruce drilled the Cyclones for two hours Tuesday with considerable contact work. Iowa State meets Kent State this Saturday.

At Boulder, senior linebacker Bill Muxlow has contracted mononucleosis and will be lost to the Colorado Buffaloes for at least two weeks, coach Bill Mallory said.

Mallory indicated that junior Tom Perry probably would take Muxlow's place in the starting lineup for Saturday's game in Boulder against Miami, Fla.

Starting quarterback Jeff Austin was held out of Tuesday's practice and won't participate in contact drills this week, Mallory said. Austin has a twisted left knee but is expected to be able to play against Miami.

At Lawrence, Laverne Smith, who had an excellent game in Saturday's 37-16 win over Kentucky despite missing most of the second half with an injured arm, worked full tilt with the first unit Tuesday and seemed fully recovered.

At Manhattan, wide receiver Stan Ross returned to duty with Kansas State — but only briefly. Ross, who has been out with a knee injury, reinjured it on his first day back in workouts.

Escaped Trusty Back In Custody One More Time

An Omaha man who escaped from a trusty dormitory at the Nebraska Penal Complex Monday was back in custody Tuesday for the second time.

Steven Van Ackeren, 28, originally escaped from the Penal Complex in Lincoln, but the car he used was spotted Monday at a motel in Council Bluffs.

State Patrolman Jeff Nelson stopped the vehicle on an interstate highway ramp. Van Ackeren apparently stabbed himself in the stomach with a small kitchen knife before being apprehended, police said.

The man was taken to a Council Bluffs hospital after the first capture. A woman in the car with him was released.

Tuesday afternoon the man escaped a second time when he jumped out a first floor window at the hospital. Council Bluffs police recaptured him in a wooded area about six blocks from the hospital.

He was spending Tuesday night in Council Bluffs city jail.

Van Ackeren was serving a seven-year sentence for receiving stolen property.

Proposed Power Plant Could 'Duplicate' NPPD

By The Associated Press

The acting general manager of the Nebraska Public Power District testified Tuesday that a proposed power plant to serve Hastings and Grand Island could be viewed as duplicating power generation by NPPD.

Dan Schaufelberger told the Nebraska Power Review Board that NPPD anticipates some energy surpluses in the 1980s, and thus power generated by the proposed new plant could be duplication.

Schaufelberger was subpoenaed by opponents of the proposed plant that Grand Island and Hastings want to build. The two cities formed the Great Plains Power Agency to build and operate the 150-megawatt facility, saying it could provide cheaper power than NPPD can sell the cities.

Residents of Doniphan and the surrounding area, where the proposed plant would be located, are asking the board to reject the agency's request.

Tuesday was the ninth day of testimony heard by the board in the last three months. Testimony was expected to conclude Wednesday.

Attorney Arlen Beam, representing opponents of the plant, questioned Schaufelberger at length on the cost and necessity of the proposed plant.

The law requires that, before the board can approve such an application, it must find that the applicant could be able to provide the power "without unnecessary duplication of facilities or operations," and that the service must be necessary and convenient.

Beam's questioning of Schaufelberger, for more than five hours, concentrated on those areas. Opponents have argued that the plant is neither necessary, economical or convenient

The thrust of Schaufelberger's testimony was that:

—NPPD believes it could provide the power that Hastings and Grand Island will need at "reasonable" costs. In some years NPPD will have surplus energy, and can buy additional energy when needed.

—While NPPD would transmit energy further, from the Gerald Gentleman plant in Sutherland, the Hastings-Grand Island area is in one of the "strongest areas in the state," so far as receiving power transmissions is concerned. NPPD could provide energy "of equivalent if not greater liability," than a plant located at Doniphan.

Schaufelberger disagreed at various times with cost estimates used by proponents of the Doniphan plant concerning construction, rail costs, and transmission expense

He disagreed with earlier testimony concerning the economy of a small plant.

Larger plants can provide lower costs per kilowatt hour of energy generated, he said, and thus mean a savings to customers

Opponents of the plant began presenting their arguments to the board Monday

Proponents offered testimony at earlier hearings.

They contend that the proposed small plant is economical and would not duplicate service.

A consulting engineer hired by Hastings and Grand Island testified that the Doniphan site would provide the most economical location for the plant, and that the $75 million facility itself would be economical.

Virtually every facet of the proposed plant, from the cost of rail installation to the cost of coal and construction, were reviewed.

Low Roads Bids Cited As 'Favorable Trend'

State Roads Department Director Tom Doyle announced Monday the apparent low bidders on more than $11.7 million of highway construction and improvement projects, including several in Lincoln and the Capital City area.

Overall, the low bids were $1.8 million less than advance estimates, Doyle said, citing evidence of "a favorable trend in construction prices."

The biggest single project, for $1 7 million, is the Omaha 84th Street tunnel grading and bridge work Hawkins Construction Co. of Omaha bid approximately $700,000 less than state engineers' estimates.

In the Lincoln projects, Capital Bridge Co offered the apparent low bid of $179,008 for bridge work on Sun Valley Road, and Dobson Brothers Construction Co , $177,617 for a 4 9-mile asphaltic concrete surface course on N 14th Street.

Area projects include culverts in the southwest quarter of Lancaster County for $71,931 by Western Plains Construction Co. of Lincoln, and asphaltic concrete surfacing for 1.2 miles from Crete east in Saline County, $122,163 by W. A. Biba Engineering Co. and Biba Co. of Geneva

Joseph T. Grof of Tecumseh bid $15,130 for the guard rail job and Midwest Paving Co. of Sioux City, Iowa, and Graves Construction Co of Melvin, Iowa, bid $738,011 for the asphaltic concrete contract, in the 13.6-mile project on Hwy. 79 from Valparaiso south in Lancaster and Saunders Counties.

A 12 9-mile project on Hwy. 2 from Palmyra to Syracuse in Otoe County drew these apparent low bids· $35,698 for culverts by L J Webb Contractor of Geneva, $81,852 for guard rail by Joseph T. Grof, $398,916 for asphaltic concrete by James J. Parks Co of Omaha.

Caretaker Dies In Accident At Reservoir

Trenton (AP) — The Bureau of Reclamation's caretaker at the Swanson Reservoir near here, Harold Pines, fell to his death Tuesday morning while working at the reservoir, officials said

Investigators said Pines, in his late 40s, was apparently using a boom crane to cut some Rural Electrification Association cable.

Authorities said Pines apparently went to throw the cut cable out of the way, but the cable became entangled in some electric lines.

When Pines tried to extricate the cable from the line, he reached too far, and fell about 20 feet to the ground, investigators said

Nebraska Man Heads Society

Lexington, Ky. (AP) — A Nebraskan has been elected president of The Society for Theriogenology, formerly the American Veterinary Society for the Study of Breeding Soundness.

Elected president during the group's recent convention here was Dr. Don Hudson of Benkelman.

The society, which claims about 750 members worldwide, is made up of veterinarians having special interest in the field of animal reproduction with special emphasis on large animal species.

The society is headquartered in Hastings, Neb.

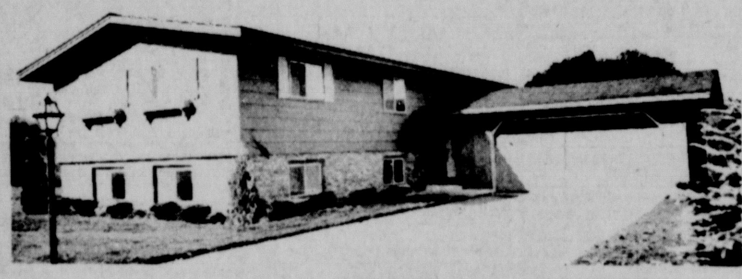
OPEN HOUSE



We have everything you look for in a high-quality home.

Every Wausau Home is built with the finest kiln-dried lumber. 100% copper plumbing. Special fiberglass insulation. Hot water heating. Fully weather-stripped windows. Ceramic tile bathrooms.

Anything less than the best is not high quality. And it is not a Wausau Home.

Except high price.

We buy the very best materials in large quantities. Which lowers the price, not the quality. And we build under the best conditions which allows us to control construction completely — including the weather. That means greater efficiency.

But don't just take our word that high quality homes don't need high price tags. Prove it to yourself by examining a Wausau Home during our special Open House.

Wausau Homes® Welcome Home.

As advertised in BETTER HOMES & GARDENS.

Stop in the Wausau Mini-Village and see the three open houses at South 14th and Old Cheney Road, Lincoln

This time of year, we can take $1100.00 off the price, without taking anything off the home.

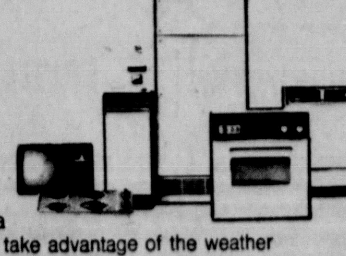
Wausau Homes are recognized for quality in design, workmanship and materials. And yet our prices are right. That's because we build homes year 'round. So any time you buy a Wausau Home, you'll get value. And if you buy in the off-season, you can save even more.

Take $1100 off the price.

If you choose one of our six most popular homes now, to be erected in February, March or April, you'll save $1100 on the two, three or four bedroom Wausau Home you choose. That savings may even help you move up to a larger home.

Or take free appliances.

Or you can choose over $1200 worth of free appliances from a list that includes a refrigerator/freezer; built-in oven; trash compactor; dishwasher; 4-burner cooktop; garbage disposer; or a 19" portable TV.



Now's a good time to take a look at our model home. And take advantage of the weather with our off-season offer.

Welcome Home. Wausau Homes®

This time of year, we can take $1100.00 off the price, without taking anything off the home.

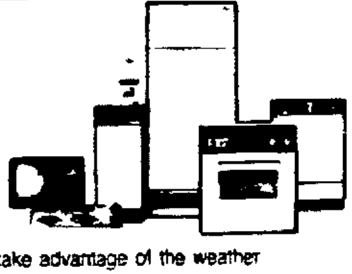
Wausau Homes are recognized for quality in design, workmanship and materials And yet our prices are right That's because we build homes year round So any time you buy a Wausau Home, you'll get value And if you buy in the off-season, you can save even more

Take $1100 off the price.

If you choose one of our six most popular homes now to be erected in February March or April you'll save $1100 on the two three or four bedroom Wausau Home you choose That savings may even help you move up to a larger home

Or take free appliances.

Or you can choose over $1200 worth of free appliances from a list that includes a refrigerator/freezer, built-in oven, trash compactor, dishwasher 4-burner cooktop, garbage disposer, or a 19" portable TV



Now's a good time to take a look at our model home with our off-season offer And take advantage of the weather
